Former St. Vincent's VP

by David F. Moore

Charles Denton sees two priorities for himself as newly appointed administrator and chief executive officer of Shelby Medical Center: learning and understan-

Denton, 37, and a former executive vice president at St. Vincent's Hospital in Birmingham, was appointed last week by a vote of the SMC board of directors. He is expected to have his two-year contract signed Thursday at a called meeting of the board.

"I come with an open mind," Denton said during an interview Monday. "I want to take and understand the past and use it constructively.

"I don't know all the problems yet, or all the opportunities.

Denton was appointed one year after the board hired former SMC corporate planner Norman Price as administrator. Price had been acting administrator since December, 1983, when R. Roland Bradford resigned under board pressure.

Price was subsequently re-named administrator under Shelby Health Services, a non-profit foundation formed by several board members to manage and diversify SMC, and to block offers to buy the public hospital.

Following criticisms of that group's controlling contract, the Shelby County Commission stacked the SMC board with six additional members who voted down the foundation in October. In December, Price resigned to take the administrative post at a Mississippi medical center.

Board member Doug Ballard has been acting as interim administrator during the search for a new administrator. The search committee, composed of board members C.E. "Bull" Carter, Tom Stubbs, Laura Willis and H.A. "Doc" Rubin, reviewed 25 resumes and made four interviews before returning its recommendation on Denton.

Denton said Monday that he hopes to officially take his position within two weeks.

Denton — who goes by "Chip," a nickname given him by his father — was born in the community of Shelby in Mississippi. He graduated from Old Miss with a BA in business administration, and did a semester of post graduate work at Delta State.

During this time he worked nights as a hospital orderly, and later served six months active Army duty with the Medical Service Corps in Texas.

Following active duty, he worked 18 months as manager of patient accounts at North Mississippi Medical Center in Tupelo. He came to Birmingham to earn an MA in hospital administration from UAB, which he received in 1974 after a year's residence at Methodist Hospitals in

For the next nine years he was assistant administrator at St. Margaret's in Montgomery where he was involved in $19 million and $5 million expansions. He was

Pelham overspends by $83,000

The City of Pelham took in $2,945,742.48 in general fund monies during the fiscal year ending September 30, 1984.

The City of Pelham spent $3,029,424.21 in general fund monies during the same fiscal year. That is an over-spend of over $83,000 in general fund monies alone. Furthermore, the most recent audit of the city's finances indicates that the over-spend does not stop with the general fund.

In addition, notes accompanying the audit imply the possibility of improprieties within the city's financial transactions.

The audit - compiled by the Birmingham CPA firm of Moses, Phillips, Young, Brannon, and Henninger and recently submitted to present Pelham Mayor Bobby Hayes - shows a total over-spend of more than $150,000. Spending in each of the city's three major fiscal catagories, general fund, debt service, and capital projects, exceeded the revenues generated in those

Students in the 1980's are not challenged enough in school. That's the opinion of Calera Elementary teacher Grace Price, who in 15 years as an educator has strived to challenge her students in preparation for their future.

Her efforts have won her the first annual Educator of the Year Award from the Calera PTA. She was scheduled to receive the surprise award Tuesday night (after press deadlines) at the PTA meeting at Calera High School.

She was choosen by a PTA committee comprised of Calera Elementary principal Philip Haynie, Calera High principal Danny Goggins, and four parents of children at the two schools. Her name will now be presented to the National PTA for competition in the Phoebe Apperson Hearst Outstanding

There was good news and bad news on state grant money at last Tuesday's board of education meeting.

Truck drivers jeopardize Bermuda Hills neighborhood

by Bert Seaman

Alabaster residents who live in Bermuda Hills are worried about the safety of their children because of speeding trucks in their

About 30 residents - some accompanied by children - came to Monday's council meeting to express concerns which were heightened by the fact that school lets out next week for AEA.

Bob Foster, who served a spokesman for the group, said that trucks for Federal Home Builders not only drive too fast, but also deposit large quantities of dirt and mud on the street.

This happens because unpaved roads lead to the site where the company is building homes. Some members of the group questioned the reason for building homes before putting in Foster said that the trucks often left large clumps of dirt in the street. On one occasion, a neighborhood youngster broke his arm when his bike hit one of the clumps and he fell.

Karen McKinley and other women in the audience said they had to close their windows in dry weather because of the clouds of dust stirred up by traffic. They also noted that the dust obscured the driver's vision.

The residents wanted more police patrols and a stop sign on 9th Ave. S where they said there is a three-block area for the truck drivers to build

Mothers walking with their children often have to send the children scurrying into a yard at the sound of a truck "barreling" over the one hill on the street, members of the group said.

Although some of the women in the neighborhood have gotten license tag numbers of the trucks, they were told tickets could not be issued unless the driver could be identified.

Other problems Foster mentioned were littering by the truck drivers, and obscene gestures made when they were asked to slow down. Mayor Roger Wheeler said that he had no idea the situation was that bad a problem.

"We'll put a stop to it," he said. The group said they would be at the next meeting to see if action had been taken. "We want to nip this in the bud," McKinley said, "before more homes are built."

Another problem brought to the council's attention Monday was that the city was not picking up garbage at three apartment complexes -Ridgeview, Green Valley and Flair.

Because the apartment dwellers are residents of the city, Montevallo attorney Steven Sears said they should have their garbage picked up like any other city resident.

Until recently, Walker Properties, which manages the apartments, contracted with a private firm, BFI, for garbage pick-up. However, BFI went up on its price, and Harold Walker said that he could not afford to absorb the cost any longer.

Because the apartments are federal assistance housing, Walker said he cannot raise the rent to cover the added expense.

The previous council had classified Ridgeview as a business, which does not qualify it for free

Sears noted, however, that the apartments are located in residential zoning. He also called attention to the fact that the city picks up garbage at the federal housing project administered by the Columbiana Housing Authority.

The mayor appointed Councilman Wayne Lucas to look into the matter and to bring a recommendation to the next council meeting.

In other business, the council: · Agreed to study specifications before awarding bids on a tractor and bush hog, although Cahaba Tractor Company appeared to be the low bidder at $11,650.42.

·Accepted bids on four old police cars and a tractor, while rejecting a bid on a fifth car.

·Heard that the city did not get a grant from the Department of Conservation and Natural Resources to improve Buck Creek Park.

·Passed a resolution to make a zero interest loan of $11,961.50 available to Biceville resident Apple Mae Pickett for home rehabilitation under the Community Block Grant Development pro-

"She taught me that it's not necessary to know everything, but to know where to find information," LeSueur said.

Hilda LeSueur, Ken's mother, said that Price gives students a second chance, and goes over and beyond the call of duty to cultivate an individual's interests.

"She realizes each student's ability and settles for nothing less," said Cindy Ellison, mother of one of Price's former students.

Ellison indicated that most students probably appreciate Price after they advance to further grades and discover how well they are prepared.

Price, who is the mother of two grown children and six grandchildren, lives in Birmingham with her husband, Eugene.

Hayes shared publically the findings of the audit in the city's council meeting Monday night.

Haves said the matter of possible illegalities had been turned over to the city's attorney, Frank "Butch" Ellis, and "other interested parties" for their inspection and possible action.

Burk Dunaway - mayor of Pelham during the period Deer Springs was taken from eovered by the audit - had no general fund monies when it comment on the possible allega-

But Hayes said the public should be made aware of the over-spend and its possible ramifications for the current fiscal year.

About 60 percent of the remaining over-spend has been recovered by transferring funds from accounts which Haves said should have been used to fund projects, rather than running those expenditures through the general or capital projects funds.

Haves said the city may have to borrow at the close of the current fiscal year, a practice not uncommon for many cities.

Winter wallops school system

by Bert Seaman

Old man winter got in his licks at county schools this year. The roofs on six schools will have to either be repaired or replaced because of leaks caused by hard freezes, and students will have to make up a day of school that was missed because of bad weather.

"This year has been the worst we've ever experienced with leaking roofs," school superintendent Ellie Glasscox told board members last Tues-

An estimate of the cost for roof repairs at five of the six schools will be around $3,000.

At Chelsea, where new roofing will have to be installed over four classrooms, the estimated cost is $7,900.

The schools where roof repairs will be made are: Calera Elementary, Valley, Vincent Elementary, Montevallo elementary, and Montevallo High School.

The board gave approval for the work to be done by Seyforth Roofing Company on an emergency basis to remove it from state bid law requirements.

The school calendar had two bad weather days scheduled April 5 and May 10 — but bad weather forced schools to be closed three days.

To get the extra make-up day, the board approved making May 30 the last day of school instead of May 29. Graduation, which earlier had been moved to the 30th, was left on that date.

Reporting to the board on pending school legislation, Glasscox said he opposes the career ladder bill which would give teachers pay raises based on performance and evaluation.

He said there are no concrete figures on how it will be implemented. 'We really don't know what we'd be passing," Glasscox said, adding that he thought a better way could be found to compenemployees. Another bill the superintendent opposes, is one which would allow a teacher to remain in the classroom past the age of 70. He said that the bill has the potential for abuse.

Acknowledging that there are employees who still have something to offer after reaching 70, Glasscox said there are other cases where it would not be in the best interest of the employee nor the school system for them to continue teaching.

In regards to a bill he referred to as the Leeds Bill, the superintendent said that he could live with it. But he took exception to a companion bill that could take tax money away from the school system.

The situation that originated the bill was the notification last year by the Jefferson County School system that students living in Shelby County could no longer attend Leeds schools without paying tuition.

Most of the students live within two miles of the Leeds school, while the closest school in Shelby County is in Chelsea, a distance of 25 miles.

One bill says that residents of any city that encompasses property in two or more counties, may attend any public school they chose to.

However, the companion bill says that any ad valorem tax money designated for education shall be distributed to the county furnishing the educational facilities in the municipality.

The school system would be hard hit in the Riverchase area, Glasscox noted, where the majority of the students live within the Hoover city limits.

If students in that area elected to, go to Jefferson County schools, this county would lose tax money, he said.

Glasscox also pointed out that the bill doesn't specify how the amount of tax would be figured, whether it would be on a per pupil basis or proportionately.

"We're working to get both bills killed," Glasscox said. "Even if it were fair, the second bill would be a clerical nightmare.'

In order to help county residents who want to have relatives or friends from abroad attend public school here, Glasscox said that his office is trying to seek approval to initiate I-20 visas. He said that two requests had been made within the past two weeks.

Glasscox told the board that the school system would not have to provide any special services for these students. The board also gave their approval to the architect's drawing up plans for air conditioning the lunchrooms at: Calera Elementary, Vincent Elementary, Elvin Hill, Valley, Columbiana Middle and Montevallo Middle.

"I'm highly displeased that we were not funded at all," Glasscox

A letter from the state said the school system had submitted a good proposal, but that it could not be funded because money had

On the computer literacy grant, money was already designated on a per pupil basis. All that was required to get the $139,273, was that an acceptable grant be written.

Although the state superintendent has not yet officially signed the grant, the anticipated funds will be used to buy 118 Apple IIe computers and software programs.

The computer literacy course will be offered to eighth graders through math classes, with other subjects being brought in. Presently, there are approximately 200 computers in county schools. However, with the exception of a few schools, most of those computers have been acquired through government programs for use by students in gifted classes and the Chapter 1 reading program.

Pelham parent protests smoking policy

by Bert Seman Pelham High School has come under fire again, this time it is by a parent who moved here from Pennsylvania in January. The latest complaints were registered at Tuedsay's board meeting by Larry Schelle, who now lives in Helena. He said that his 15-year-old son has had numerous problems since enrolling at Pelham, but his main complaint was about rules against smoking. During his six weeks at Pelham, Schelle said that his son had been suspended three times and paddled three times. The father said that he was concerned that his son could flunk because of the classwork missed during the seven days he was suspended.

"For him to flunk because the school system here differs from the one he came from - I can't agree with that," Schelle said.

Schelle was also upset that his son did not get a report card at the end of six weeks, and complained that during a visit to the school he saw at least 25 students walking up and down the halls during classtime. He also called attention to the check-out system for books. The student only has to sign their name he said.

He said his son had been suspended twice for smoking, and a third time for having a cigarette in his possession.

On the first occasion, Schelle said that his son did not have a student handbook, and did not know that smoking was against the rules.

At his son's former school, Schelle said that smoking was allowed in certain areas of the campus.

School superintendent Ellie Glasscox explained that the policy manual approved for the school system last year prohibits smoking because it is not in the best interest of the student to pick up the habit.

"Your son has to abide by the rules," Glasscox said, noting that Schelle's son was caught smoking once while he was skip-

We've all had - or at least should have had teachers in our lives who made good, lasting impressions on us. Calera Elementary's Grace Price would seem to be one such impression maker.

Two major factors contribute to making teachers of Mrs. Price's calibre.

First, there is natural ability. Without it, a teacher is no more inspiring than a tape recorder. Probably not Natural ability to teach, or anything else for that matter, is an either or situation. Either one has it, or not. Apparently Mrs. Price has it, and has chosen to use it in the shaping of young lives.

Others have abilities, but chose not to use them, or fail to fully exercise and develop their talents. This is where dedication comes in.

n the case of Mrs. Price, those who know her best say she excels in dedication. This, we guess, is what makes her stand out a little bit more than many teachers, and a great deal more than others.

Dedication is difference People are willing to share the pain fairly

Letter to the editor:

America must protect her twofold heritage - land and freedom.

The land is primary, but what makes it fruitful is the energy of people free to enjoy the fruits of their labor.

But both land and independence can be lost to conquest, seizure of property, or by control over the people. Or, world dominance by a hostile power can so restrict access to foreign resources and markets to place us in the dependent position of a Finland dominated by tage which cannot be repeated. Russia.

Only a powerful military, directed and supported by our elected representatives and buttressed by our alliance with likeminded people elsewhere can save us from that fate.

I believe the people are wiser than their spokesmen, and are willing to make the sacrifice for their future.

What they ask is that the pain is shared fairly.

All it takes is for the politicians and other leaders to turn off their superficial, self-serving rhetoric, and join in the formulation of an equitable plan to balance the budget.

First off, I think it's of major importance that we contact our senators to get Bill 151 passed! This bill will give the humane societies the right to take these abused and neglected animals into custody until it can be settled in court.

Writer urges support for September primaries

Letter to the editor:

In 1977, after years of holding primary elections in May, the Legislature, with the support of the Alabama Democratic Party, moved the date of the primary election from May to September. There were several compelling reasons for this

First, the May primary date necessitated that campaigns begin in February and last through November. This tenmonth campaign season wore everyone out -- candidates, their volunteers, and especially the

Second, campaigns of that length were much more expensive. More money was required for television time, literature, headquarters rent, postage and staff salaries, due to the length of the campaign season.

Third, legislators were forced to campaign at the same time the regular session was going on (February through May.) As a result, absenteeism was rampant, either from senators and representatives missing full days and weeks while on the campaign trail or missing critical votes in an attempt to duck controversial issues.

Because of all these problems, the legislature (despite strenuous objections by special-interest groups) changed the date of the primary elections from May to September, thereby shortening the campaign season, reducing campaign costs, and removing the conflict that inevitably comes when a campaign season overlaps with a legislative ses-

Sensing an opportunity to in-Hubbert, and his chief deputy, back as far as August. Joe Reed, have fought vigorously for the June primary.

the primary date to June have made only one legitimate argument in support of its passage.

In summary, only the special interests -- specifically AEA -would benefit from moving the primary election date from September to June. Those who are interested in making our crease their stranglehold on the system of government and legislature, special interest politics work more effectively groups -- particularly the and more efficiently should Alabama Education Association unite in bipartisan opposition to -- are now pushing for a return this special interest power play to the "good old days" of spring and demand that if the primary primaries. It's time to talk a little about the Shin-Dig at Alma's Place. It's gonna be something, if enough of the folks who passed through that marvelous place really want to meet again and live over old

For me, I like the idea. I've got a hankering to see Paul Longshore and the Morrow girls and Beston Robertson and Alex Fletcher and Bill Whorton and Ehney Camp and Gordon Isbell and Vivian Turner McNeil, and a hundred more whose names we won't mention here since our space is limited. Maybe it is the last time some of us will have members to attend a reunion. I remember our 50-year get-together several years ago, and the fun we had, and the realization that we had waited far too long to have it. Since then some of the most respected have slipped away - Lawrence Looney and Cozell Allen and Lewis Averytt and Robert Schrader and Vernon Isbell — to name a few.

There are so many out there you haven't seen in years. And if you don't think seeing them again will be enjoyable, you just haven't tried it. Everyone will have something to remember, a little part of a far off yesteryear, and they'll have fun telling it and you'll have fun hearing it again.

They'll put little tags on your shirt or your blouse with your name on it. And for the life of you, you can't understand why you didn't know those names. Unless it was that too many years had dimmed the pictures that were so plain yesteryear.

They want to prepare a book with names in it, and pictures, all the way from 1915 till now. And little messages too, about John and Jane and Joseph, some who knew Alma when she was just a lass and some who knew her as a middle-aged lady and others who knew her as a lovely old lady who had grown beautiful with

Demo leadership shows

It was hardly the biggest story of the week, but it did tell you who is in charge as far as the Alabama Democratic Party is con-

A sub-committee of the State Democratic Executive Committee gave the boot to one of the SDEC's own members. The victim was State Sen. Gerald Dial of Lineville. Dial is a three-term legislator, a life-long Democrat, and as previously noted, a member of the SDEC. But 15 months ago when the SDEC hand-picked the Democratic nominees for the special legislative election, Dial sought but did not get the nomination. He decided to run as an independent Democrat against hand-picked nominee, John Casey of Heflin. To run against Casey was bad enough. To make it worse, Dial was elected.

Last week, acting on a petition filed by an AEA activist, the sub-committee heard the evidence against Dial, shook their head in dismay at such disloyalty, and kicked him off the committee to which he had been elected by the people of his district. It mattered not that the people wanted him on the committee, the committee members didn't. The vote to expel Dial was a predictable 4-0. The subcommittee had been stacked in splendid fashion - two members of the Alabama Democratic Conference (one of them also an AEA leader), a retired union member and a trial lawyer. It is these four groups that totally control the Democratic Party leadership in Alabama today.

Sen. Dial said later he intended to appeal this ruling to the whole committee in May, but he is intelligent enough to know his chances of success are slim and none.

Once upon a time the State Democratic Executive Committee was truly a collection of Democratic Party giants in Alabama...a who's who of state politics. Today it is made up of AEA activists, union bosses, blacks and trial lawyers.

Sheriff gets pay increase

Shelby County Sheriff Buddy Glasgow will get $1,300 tacked on to his annual salary this year, bringing it to $46,161.

That brings his salary into line with state law which says the sheriff's salary is to be at least 15 percent higher than his chief deputy's.

That ratio was thrown out of whack last October when all employees of the sheriff's department got a five-percent pay raise, except for the sheriff.

trying to determine what his pay

In figuring the chief deputy's salary, a recent opinion from the attorney general's office said that uniform allowance, subsistence allowance and longevity pay is to be considered part of his salary. This brings the chief deputy's salary to $40,140.

The opinion, rendered by assistant AG Lynda Knight, also said that Glasgow's expense

Since then, Glasgow has been allowance was to be considered part of his salary, which cut down on the amount of his raise.

The situation concerning the sheriff's salary arose last year, when the sheriff's department came off the state trooper's pay scale and went on a county pay scale, which included the five percent raise.

That brought the chief deputy's salary to $38,200, with the sheriff making $44,826.84.

Glasgow's increase in pay is retroactive to last October.

The Friendship Force is an international organization started by former Presdient Jimmy Carter to promote better understanding among nations by providing the experience of living for a week with a host family in a foreign country.

The program also offers local families the opportunity to host foreign visitors from the exchange country.

Participating "ambassadors" pay for air transportation at group rates.

Fall to eventual state champs

Calera Eagles reach state's final four

by K.A. Turner

The Calera Eagles could be the best 2A high school basketball team in the state... give or take a couple of points.

But the Eagles gave up a couple of points too many in Friday's semi-final game with St. Jude. That mistake allowed the Pirates to take a 52-48 overtime win and eliminate the Eagles from the state title chase.

St. Jude — the team with the worst won-loss record among 2A schools in the tourney - went on to upset Millport and claim the state crown.

With just under four minutes left in the semi-final contest, the Eagles appeared to have the game well in hand, leading 45-37.

But senior guard Keith Dowdell went down with a knee injury, and St. Jude ran off eight unanswered points to tie with less than two minutes remain-

The spurt was 12-2 in favor of the Pirates before Calera regained the composure that had gotten them to Tuscaloosa in the first place.

The game then went back and forth, Calera having a chance to win with a six-foot buzzer shot. The shot rolled out, however, and OT was in order in Memorial Coliseum.

The foul line that had befriended the Eagles through substate and quarterfinal play then deserted the "Wild Boys" from Calera, and St. Jude took the OT win.

Calera hit only four of 13 free throws in the game, none coming in the fourth quarter or the overtime period.

Kenny Marsh, who was named to the all-tournament team for the Eagles, led the Calera scoring with 24 points in the game.

Greg Haynes hit 20 for Calera.

The Eagles advanced to the semi-finals with a 52-48 win over the Leroy Bears. Calera was led to the win by an unlikely bunch of heros, a second unit team loaded with senior leadership but without a lot of playing time to their credit.

"The first bunch was just going through the motions," Calera coach Gary Griffith said. "The second group was the difference in the game. They came in and gave us the spark we needed.

Seniors Keith Dowdell, Mark Jones, and Darryl Griffith played with that second bunch, providing a calm leadership that brought the Eagles from a onepoint halftime deficit to a fivepoint lead at the close of the third period.

Derek Herndon and Kenny Wilson rounded out the group, Wilson providing needed firepower with two straight buckets midway through the third period.

"It just goes to show we're not a one-man team," Jones said after the win. "If we stick together and play as a team, us, we'll do well."

EL takes first-round win

Little Indians' ambush Vincent

by K.A. Turner

Now that it's over, the truth can come out.

Yes Virginia, the Vincent Yellowjackets do feel pressure.

Called "cool" and "loose as a goose" by coach Richard Crumpton a few short weeks ago, the Jackets fell to East Limestome in the quarter-final round of the state 3A basketball tournament last Thursday. It was a game most of their fans expected them to win.

"I don't think these guys have had fun playing the last couple of weeks," Crumpton said following his team's non-fun 57-49 loss to the Indians. "After what they did last year, everybody's been expecting them to do even better.'

The Jackets surprised their fans with a trip to the state's final four last season, falling to eventual champion Headland.

Six players returned from that squad to a 1984-85 season filled with "great expectations."

But those expectations may have helped to take all of the fun out of basketball for the Jackets, made it more like a job to be done. In tournament play, that may have been the edge Vincent lacked.

Vincent began the quarterfinals against East Limestone, and came out looking like a team wanting to spend a good deal of time in Tuscaloosa.

Paced by hot outside shooting from Tony Hamilton and a strong inside board game, the Jackets posted a seven-point lead before the end of the first period.

But two minutes - and three fouls later - the picture looked a little different.

Those three fouls put Tony Hamilton on the bench early in the second period. He would not return to action until the third quarter, and never regained the hot shooting hand he showed early in the contest.

'That was the difference in the game," Crumpton said later. After watching East

Limestone race to an eight point-second quarter advantage. the Jackets began to assert themselves late in the half.

Paced by hot outside shooting from Glenn Robertson, Vincent outscored Limestone 12-4 in the final minutes of the half and went to the locker room with a 27-25 lead.

Early in the third period, the Jackets were able to work the ball inside against the smaller Indians, but the buckets would not fall. Outside shooting cooled off, and Limestone packed the defense inside in an uncharacteristic zone defense.

From that point, the Jackets lost the battle at the free throw line, and eventually lost the

In fact, the charity stripe was the big difference throughout the game, as East Limestone rode free throws to 15 of their 25 first half points. The Jackets ended the contest with more field goals than the Indians, but EL was able to make up the difference with a hot shooting performance at the free throw line. Bruce Hamilton paced the

Vincent scoring effort with 11 points for the game. Tony Hamilton and Glenn Robertson each added 10. The Jackets finish their season with a 23-7 mark, reigning as area champions and champs of the small-school tournament in Shelby County.

"It's been a good year," Crumpton said. "I've enjoyed it. They have made us all proud."

Inside feed

Vincent's Hugh Kidd battles East Limestone's Kent Warner for an advantageous position in the lane, then asks for an inside feed from a teammate. The Jackets were able to periodically work the ball inside against the smaller EL team, but even from inside the shots they put up did not always fall.

Just out of reach

The tip-in is just out of the reach of Vincent Yellowjacket Bruce Hamilton and a couple of East Limestone Indians. A state tourney win was just out of reach for the Jackets as well, as the smaller Indians stole the prize at the foul line. (photos by K.A. Turner)

Lions announce golf tourney

The Pelham Lions Club has announced plans for its second annual golf tournament, proceeds going to benefit the Lions sight conservation efforts.

The tourney will be held at the Oak Mountain State Park course Friday, May 24, beginning at 8 a.m.

The tourney field will be limited to 30 four-man teams. Start will be shotgun four ball scramble with the best ball among A,B,C,D players as the counter.

Teams will be paired by handicap for the 18 holes. Prizes will be awarded to first, second, and third place teams, ties to be broken by a playoff.

Two closest to the pin prizes and one longest drive prize will also be awarded.

The Lions are looking for sponsors for each tee and the closest to the pin and longest drive competitions.

For more information, to register, or to sponsor, call: 663-6751, 663-6731. 663-4632, or 664-3408.

Barrett is top roper

Shane Barrett, son of Milton and Pat Barrett of Calera and a unior at Calera Christian School, is a member of the Alabama High School Rodeo Association.

At a recent AHSRA meet at Wetumpka's Pine Top Ranch, Barret won third place in team roping competition.

When he's not roping, Barrett also enjoys riding and lifting

Falcons end basketball

The University of Montevallo Falcon basketball teams closed out their seasons in district competition last week.

The UM men dropped a 75-53 decision to Athens in the opening round of the District 27 tournament, despite a 15-point performance from Raleigh Hill.

Kennedy King added 12 and Sammy Jackson hit 10 in the loss that left UM's record at 15-14.

The Lady Falcons fell 77-69 to Alabama-Huntsville in the district championship game.

Former Montevallo High standout Ruth Perkins teamed with Judy Perkins to toss in 17 points and share the scoring lead

The UM women finish the year at 10-16.

BIR sets season opener

Track officials at the Birmingham International Raceway have announced their season opener, the Coca Cola Classic. The Classic is set for Sunday, March 24. Practice laps start at noon and racing begins at 2 p.m. Races will be run in late model stock, limited sportsman, mini-modified, and street stock classifications. Prize monies range from $600 to $20. Montgomery International Raceway, the newest project of Waymond Stricklin and the gang at BIR, will open its gates on

Get well soon

Saturday, March 30.

University of Montevallo baseball coach Bob Riesener is having a tough start with the 1985 Falcons' baseball season, and it has nothing to do with the UM team's performance.

Riesener recently spent a couple of days in the hospital, missing the Falcons' opening dates with William Carey College (split double-header).

Best wishes to Riesener for a speedy recovery.

Tax refund supports wildlife

It's tax time again. The only possible good news in this is that once again the Alabama Nongame Wildlife Fund has a donation check-off on the Alabama State Income Tax return

Joseph Meyers, Nongame Wildlife coordinator for the state. reminds concerned outdoorsmen that this fund is the only available source of income for the program which protect over 700 species of nongame wildlife in Alabama.

Current projects include Osprey restoration in central Alabama and the Alabama Bluebird Management program statewide.

Chief among the nine project proposals for 1985 is the restoration of the nesting population of Blad Eagles

Calera

"It meant a heckuva lot to have them here," Willie Taylor

The scoring in the Eagles opening win was a good indicator of the team effort Calera showed.

Kenny Marsh led the CHS scoring with 11 points. Taylor and Byron White added eight each, while Chris Smith and Jones hit six.

Griffith was pleased with his team's effort throughout the tourney. "We wanted to win at least one," he said following the Thursday win. "That made the trip worth it.'

STEVE BEATTY ...looking for trumps

Beatty is bridge ace

A North Shelby man is turning pairs were eliminated in other a love for competitive bridge into a trick - err trip - to Canada.

Steve Beatty is part of a twoman team which recently qualified for play in the semifinal round of the world's largest bridge tournament of 1985, the Grand National Open Pairs Tournament.

Beatty and Curtis Cheek of Huntsville trravel this week to compete Montreal.

Beatty and Cheek have teamed to play competitively for about a year. Beatty's competitive bridge days date to 1974, and he has played the game since his mother taught him the basics in the fifth grade. Beatty now holds a Life Master Rank, the highest awarded by the American Contract Bridge League.

For each pair reaching the semi-final round of competition in Montreal, an estimated 700 competitions.

New church organized to serve area

A new Assembly of God Church has been organized to serve the Columbiana, Wilsonville, Chelsea, Shelby areas.

The Shelby Christian Fellowship Assembly of God began services recently under the leadership of Rev. Stan Reaves.

Reaves is a native of Alabama. having pastored churches throughout the state for the past 15 years. He and his wife Susan have two sons, Stan Jr. and Rus-

"The S.C.F. Assembly of God is a vision come true for many people in the Shelby County area," says Reaves.

The full gospel ministry holds services as follows:

Sunday school: 10:00 a.m. Morning worship: 11:00 a.m. Evening service 6:00 p.m.

"S.C.F. Assembly of God is a long-awaited full gospel ministry for this area," says Reaves, "and we'd like our church to keep up with the growth in Shelby County."

Part of the growth for Shelby Christian Fellowship Assembly of God includes plans for a Christian school at some time in the future.

Maylene Chapel Church will host the Glorybound Quartet at 2 p.m. Mar. 10.

Maylene Chapel is located on County 17.

In recognition of the Lenten season the First United Methodist Church of Alabaster is holding special services each Wednesday at 12:05.

Luncheon will be served; $2.50 for adults, $1.50 for children. A nursery will be provided.

The speaker for the Mar. 13 service is Rev. Wayne Crumpton of First Baptist Church of Alabaster.

The Alabaster Church of God is having a fellowship supper at 5:30 p.m. There is no admission to the supper; the regular services begin at 7:15 p.m.

Effective Mar. 7 mid-week services at the Alabaster Church of God will be held on Thursday night.

The Believers will be the guests singers at the Old Chapel Methodist Church. Dean Waldrop says the singing will be at 7 p.m. Mar. 9. The pastor of the church is Leroy Shaw.

The Episcopal Church Women of St. Francis of Assisi will hold their 2nd Annual Spring Bazaar from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Mar. 23 at the church on Cahaba Valley Road.

Among the array of handmade items for sale are baskets, stencilled linens, candy puppets, baked goods, wood crafts and much more. Doughnuts, hotdogs and popcorn will be sold. A nursery will be provided at a charge of 25 cents per child. All proceeds will be contributed to the church building and outreach programs.

The Union United Methodist Church will host the Soundsmen as the guest singers for the monthly Second Sunday Singing.

Pastor Eli Eslick joins special music chairman Wendall Shaw in inviting everyone to attend at 7 p.m. Mar. 10. The church is located on Hwy. 51.

The Joy Lighters of Sterrett are the guests at the regular monthly singing at Calcis Baptist Church. The church is located on State 25 between Vincent and Sterrett. The singing is at 7 p.m. Mar. 9, says Brellen Davis of the special music committee. John Dye is pastor.

The Mt. Era Methodist Church on County 26 will host the Southland Quartet at 1:30 p.m., Mar. 10. The pastor is Billy Redus.

Central Freewill Baptist will hold a one-day Bible conference at 9:30 a.m., Mar. 9.

The speakers will be Rev. Joe Haas of the Southeast Freewill Baptist College, Virginia Beach, VA. and several young preachers from the college. Special music will be provided by a women's trio from the college. For more information contact Rev. James Walden: 663-1673.

Note burning

Burning something at a church is usually bad news. At the Episcopal Chruch of the Holy Comforter in Montevallo, however, burning something is the best news of the year.

Rev. Edward Whatley, Jr. and members of the parish met at their present location in the old Wilton Methodist Church to burn the mortgage note on the parcel of land recently purchased for the building of a new church.

The parish purchased the site for their new church in Feb. 1984 and signed a five year note. The note, amounting to $10,500, was paid off in less than one year. Father Whatley extends his thanks for the support and generosity of all who helped achieve this goal.

+ Church Covenant
been led, as we believe by the Spirit of C

Having been led, as we believe by the Spirit of God, to receive the Lord Jesus Christ as our Saviour and, on the profession of our faith, having been baptized in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit, we do now, in the presence of God, and this assembly, most solemnly and joyfully enter into covenant with one another as one body in Christ.

We engage, therefore, by the aid of the Holy Spirit to walk together in Christian love; to strive for the advancement of this church, in knowledge, holiness, and comfort; to promote its prosperity and spirituality; to sustain its worship, ordinances, discipline, and doctrines; to contribute cheerfully and regularly to the support of the ministry, the expenses of the church, the relief of the poor, and the spread of the gospel through all nations.

We also engage to maintain family and secret devotions; to religiously educate our children; to seek the salvation of our kindred and acquaintances; to walk circumspectly in the world; to be just in our dealings, faithful in our engagements, and exemplary in our deportment; to avoid all tattling, backbiting, and excessive anger; to abstain from the sale of, and use of, intoxicating drinks as a beverage; to be zealous in our efforts to advance the kingdom of our Saviour.

We further engage to watch over one another in brotherly love; to remember one another in prayer; to aid one another in sickness and distress; to cultivate Christian sympathy in feeling and Christian courtesy in speech; to be slow to take offense, but always ready for reconciliation and mindful of the rules of our Saviour to secure it without delay.

We moreover engage that when we remove from this place we will, as soon as possible, unite with some other church where we can carry out the spirit of this covenant and the principles of God's Word.

Tipton: just an 'acting' librarian

by Meg Smith

Mary Francis Tipton says she's a boring per-

"Being a librarian in a small town like Montevallo doesn't exactly make my heart skip a beat," laughs Tipton, who works at the University of Montevallo's Oliver Cromwell Carmichael Library and has lived in Montevallo since 1963.

"But I do like living in Montevallo," says Tipton, "It's a small town, but that's part of the reason I've stayed here so long. I like the slowpaced lifestyle.'

"Slow-paced" is hardly the lifestyle Tipton leads, however.

During her 22 years in Shelby County she has been involved in many community projects, dedicating much of her time and efforts to improving the educational and cultural environment of

One pet project of Tipton's is Montevallo's Parnell Memorial Library.

"When I first came here the public library was in the old Southern Railroad depot in Orr Park." says Tipton. "To say the least this facility was not very up-to-date; in fact the word primitive comes immediately to mind."

When the old public library burned, Tipton became active on the building committee for the new library. With renovation of the old telephone building for the relocation of what is now Parnell Memorial Library, Tipton's job on the building committee was over.

Tipton's interest in Montevallos' libraries, however, is not. Besides her job at Carmichael, she continues her volunteer work with Parnell.

"I feel strongly that a community's needs for a library are different from a student's," she says. "This is why I think Montevallo needs its own library, separate from the University's.

Though her vocation is library work, her community activities do not end there. Tipton is involved in the AAUW (Alabama Association of University Women) and is president of the Shelby County Community Theatre.

Though involvement in these organizations hardly allows Tipton a "slow-paced" lifestyle, she has a knack for tying all her interests together.

For instance, until last August she served two years as Alabama Division Chairman of the Educational Foundation Program for the AAUW.

'The foundation provides post-graduate fellowships for women," says Tipton. "Much of my work as chairman of the foundation was in fund-raising drives for these fellowships.

Though no longer chairman of the group, Tipton found a way to tie this work together with her present work in the Shelby County Community

"Beginning this year tickets for the Community theatre will be sold by AAUW members and a percentage of the proceeds will go for the fellowship fund," says Tipton.

Family violence group expands

Birmingham's Family Violence Project is expanding its facility in order to serve a greater number of abuse vic-

Karen Long, a spokesman for the group, said that the enlarged building will create more room for housing of abuse victims.

The Family Violence Project provides shelter for the abused and their children. In addition, the project offers counseling services for the abused and the abuser, legal counseling, jobrelated counseling, and a wide variety of referral services.

"Whatever their needs, we try to meet them," Long said.

Shelby Countian is the second largest referral area for the project, behind Jefferson County, Long said.

All services provided by the Project are free of charge to clients. The group relies on donations to make up its $100,000-plus budget yearly.

Project officials say that the expansion has caused an urgent need for donations. Contributions of money, time, personal care items, furniture, bed linens, etc. should be addressed to P.O. Box 11865, Birmingham, 35202.

The Regressive Farmer by David F. Moore

Super Radar ain't got nothing on this boy. It's snowing today in Shelby County, and you can say you heard it here first.

("What in tarnation...?")

This is what I call good newspaper work. Telling readers about the news before it happens (I'm writing this on Friday, March 1). In the business we call this a "scoop," and in this case, I guess you could call it a "snow scoop"

("Martha, look. Look out the window! This dadgum newspaperman says it's a snowing out there! Dang!")

Just for the record, here's the scoop on the weather for the Deep South during the month:

Mar. 1985: Temp. 540 (2.50 below ave.); Precip 5" (1" below ave.). On Mar. 1st-4th, cold, light snow. 5th-7th, rain, snow. 8th-13th, rain, cold. 14th-16th, sunny & warm. 17th-21st warm, showers. 22th-25th, sunny, then showers. 26th-28th, sunny, warm. 29th-31st, rain

("George, I don't see no snow out there. Just the bags the garbageman missed. You sure about that snow...?")

That's right, gentle reader. Snow

And while I'm sure you appreciate such pertinent weather info, I confess that you didn't really read it here first. You read it - rather, I read it to you - from Page 128 of the 1985 edition of the Old Farmer's Almanac.

Scoot over Mr. Harvey. Now you know the other side of the story. Page two ...

"Martha, we've been had!")

JUST TO SCOOP THINGS OUT: Not to make excuses why the Regressive Farmer hasn't been in the newspaper since January 17,

Readers who subscribe to the Reporter or buy the full paper from the news stands, may have noticed that last week's issue (Progress '85) was a bit larger than normal — 100 pages to be exact. Because of all the time required to churn out such a novel, this column has gone the same way as the leaky water hose in Dee's car: unattended.

But now Progress is over and things are back to normal (whatever normal is), which means that I've been thinking once again about (dum-da-dumdum) Son of Garden Number One.

Before I came to work Friday I walked out through the snow to see how great my garden was doing. You know, the frozen vegetable section and whatnot.

Son of a gun, was I ever shocked. I don't even have a garden yet! That's what all thinking and no action gets you....

Actually, I did find a carrot about the size of my little finger. It was left over from last year. (The carrot, not my finger.)

My garden also has four dried brown okra stalks, three rotten sticks from last year's tomato plants, two highrise condos for fire ants and a cat in a chinaberry tree.

Off and on I've been telling myself that I have got to get psyched up to plant (dum-da-dumdum) Son of Garden Number One. Now, methinks, this is the wrong approach.

Planting a garden is something like swimming in cold water. Thinking about it and going slowly just won't get it. The best think to do is dive in. Head first.

If you've ever thought about planting a garden, I suggest you get off your thinker and do it. I know from last year that it won't kill you. Hurt a little, yes; kill you, no.

DESPITE ALL THE SNOW: You don't have to wait until spring to get started on your garden. Extension agent John Jones says right now is the time to plant turnips, onions, greens, cabbage, beets, lettuce, cauliflower, broccoli and Mr. Irish Potato Head.

A seemingly good excuse not to garden at this point of the game, might be the snow that's supposed to be outside right now. How can you garden in such a blizzard? (No snow peas, please...)

While he didn't actually mention snow, John did say that these early vegetables will not be hurt by even a heavy frost. A hard freeze - say, into the lower 20°'s - might be harmful, but it would have to hit suddenly to be disasterous.

Mr. Irish Potato Head is the only cool weather veggie that might get frost bitten. If you have little spud buds showing and a frost is expected to slip in, John says pulling a little dirt over the tops of the plants will save them.

So if you want fresh broccoli this year (or a garden, period), then you'd better do a quick soil test (669-6763 for more info), till up your ground, and get to it.

This is not to say that you have to plant early veggies right this second, but John says you don't have long. Now I confess that I don't do everything John says, but if I did, I would have certainly had a better garden last year. Besides, the Old Farmer's Almanac also says that now's the time to plant these things snow or no snow, I guess.

PLAYING REGRESSIVE CATCH UP: Several things were mentioned in the last Regressive Farmer which need updating.

•In response to my request for some natural fertilizer, Mary Ann Tucker called from out Cherokee Beach way to offer me all the horse manure I wanted. This is not just regular old horse bunk we're talking about here. This, Mary Ann assured me, is from a quality line of championship horses. Come and get it, she said.

·Leland Atchison, who lives near Lester's Chapel in Chelsea offered me cow manure, all I wanted. Again, this is not just regular old cow bunk we're talking about here. This, Leland assured me, is quality stuff. First place at the county fair.

"Might even help you load it," Leland said.

My problem is that I don't have a pickup truck. "Darling honey bunch," I coaxed, "can I borrow your car for a little while...

That sugary approach doesn't always work, and it didn't this time either. But John has offered me the use of his old pickup, so I may get my manure in the next week or so.

For the record, the manure ratings for veggie gardens, in order (odor?) of best to not so best, are: sheep, chicken, cow and then horse. My sources tell me blue ribbons don't have much bearing on quality at this point ..

No word yet on the Amdro everyone ordered to wage war with the fire ants. "We don't know anything except that it's being held up," John Jones said.

 Senators Jeremiah Denton and Howell Heflin both wrote me in regards to my recently published views that the Sipsey Wilderness should be expanded. If you ask me, we have enough areas which can be logged without tearing into the precious little wilderness heritage we have left in Alabama.

I asked Heflin and Denton to "make a stand which would last forever." Their replies are printed on Page X-3.

•I recently got a letter addressed to "Regressive Farmer" from Mr. Chrysler Motors Corporation, Lee Iacocca. Lee (if he can call me Regressive, I can call him Lee) wants everyone to help save the Statue of Liberty, and I think that's a neat idea.

If you send at least $15 to "Statue of Liberty," Lee will list your name on the official Statue of Liberty Register of Contributors. The address is: The Statue of Liberty, Ellis Island Foundation, Inc., P.O. Box LIBERTY, New York, NY, 10117-1955.

The Lady needs our help, and without having what she stands for, you probably couldn't read this newspaper because it wouldn't exist, and we might not even be able to plant our own gardens.

•I've been called a conservationist. Is that because I carry more beer cans out of the woods than I carry into the woods?

It's in Alabaster!

A recent study revealed that physicians on our staff believe Shelby Medical Center is equal to Birmingham hospitals in the quality of care and the services offered. They should knowmost of them are on staff at both Shelby Medical Center and at least one Jefferson County hospital. This says a lot about our hospital, because Birmingham hospitals are rated among the best in the nation.

We have highly skilled and trained medical professionals and modern, technological equipment and facilities. Our new cardiac catheterization lab is the envy of area cardiology. Our Emergency Department, with its trauma center, eight treat-

Heflin: save the beauty

Mr. Moore:

I am in receipt of your recent communication regarding the expansion of the Sipsey Wilderness area. Thank you for taking the time to contact me and give me the benefit of your thoughts and views.

As you know, I, too, am in favor of preserving the beauty of Alabama's natural resources for the future generations of Alabamians.

Currently, interested parties in Alabama are meeting in an effort to draft a proposal that would be acceptable to all those concerned. It is my hope that such a proposal will be presented in the near future for consideration here in Congress.

I shall certainly be mindful of your views in connection with any Senate consideration of the proposal to expand the Sipsey Wilderness area in the Bankhead National Forest.

Howell Heflin United States Senator

Denton: resolve the issue

Mr. Moore:

Thank you for your letter about the Sipsey Wilderness. It is my intention to initiate legislation during this session that will offer a solution to the Sipsey question.

As you know, it has been difficult to get the opponents and proponents together to work out legislation that all can agree to. I appreciate knowing your views on the expansion of the Sipsey Wilderness and hope you will be reassured in knowing that I plan to support legislation that will resolve the issue once and for all.

Overcoming Addiction to Drugs... (A TRUE STORY)

Not long ago I was talking with a woman who has both a successful career and a very strong family life. I was astonished when she told me about her former severe addiction to drugs - "Ludes" (Qualudes), "Coke" (Qualudes), (Cocaine) and alcohol. I'll preserve confidentiality by calling this woman J.

I. told me she married at an early age to escape a terrible home life. Sadly, this was a jump from the frying pan to the fire. J's husband, who was eaten up with problems surrounding his own inadequacies and poor self concept, soon began to dominate her and control her in every sort of imaginable way. She, being vulnerable and dependent, ultimately sank to the lowest depths of chemical and emotional abuse - promiscuity, drunk driving, and horrible guilt feelings. J. remembers rock bottom as a time shortly after her 25th birthday and the then recent divorce when she would sit for long minutes with a gun held at her head.

Fortunately, J. had someone to live for and some very special friends. One close girlfriend who made a difference accepted J. and her many problems. J. began to recover. She told me she stopped associating with those who had shared her bad habits. She talked about seeing a very special female counselor who saw her regularly for the next 18 months. Also, during this time, J. dated a very "straight" male who would have nothing to do with drugs, but one who loved her very much. J.'s story is not over yet. She now shows a great potential for making an outstanding contribution to her world and especially to those with whom she can share her story and perhaps pull them out of the pit of addiction. Even more important for J., she has married a man who gives her the kind of love she needs to be a beautiful per-

Chelsea project

Third and fourth grade students at Chelsea Elementary School look at a model of the solar system done by a fellow classmate, and displayed at the class's projects fair last week.

Chelsea holds projects fair

Abraham Lincoln's home, a replica of the solar system, and an erupting volcano were some of the projects on display at

Members of Leisha Key's split third/fourth grade class put up the exhibit, which included posters, reports and projects from a class assignment in science and social studies.

Among the 21 students who worked on projects were: Marianne Robinson, who created an erupting volcano; Stephanie Danner, whose project was on World War II; Nicole Grubbs, who made a model of the Atlantic Ocean.

Other subjects students chose for their projects included dinosaurs, space, the Old West and Helen Keller.

The public was invited to tour the exhibit.

March short

Research into finding the cause of birth defects will be hampered without the necessary funding from the March of Dimes Foundation.

That is why foundation officials are urging fund raising volunteers who have not made their collection rounds, to do so as quickly as possible.

Anita Sanders from the March of Dimes Foundation office says that the Mothers March of Dimes still needs $20,000 to meet its goal.

Science fair

Four voung "scientists" received top honors at Thompson Middle School's 14th annual Science Fair last week. This year's fair garnered some 150 entries from two class divisions: seventh and eighth grade, combined; and six grade. First place winners and their respective entries in the seventh-eighth grade division are April Sellers (standing left), Preservation of the Human Body; Andy Shelton (standing right), A Study of a Low

AU teams recognized at banquet

Two Shelby Countians who have been members of Auburn University judging teams, were recognized at a recent banquet held on the AU campus.

Terrell Guthrie of Columbiana was a member of Auburn University's livestock judging team 31 years ago.

Chelsea resident Donna Dorough was on last year's meat judging team which won the championship in pork judging at the international contest held in Nebraska. The team was 11th best overall in meat judging.

Two other county residents who have served on Auburn's livestock and meat judging teams, have been named to membership on the 1985 board of directors for AU's Judging Team Alumni Association.

They are: Roland Starnes, Maylene; Derwish Rush, Montevallo.

Junior Beta Club taps 20 CMS students

School students were inducted into the Junior Beta Club last week.

The new inductees were given ribbon badges during Thursday's candlelight ceremony.

Following the tapping, Carol Hill and her home arts class held Twenty Columbiana Middle a reception in the school library for members and their parents.

> As a service project for the school, sponsor Judy Smith says that the club is making a garden spot behind the school, with a bench, flowers, trees and shrubs.

Money for the project came from selling soft drinks at school in the afternoon, and from a booth the club had in the school's Halloween carnival.

credit help to farmers through terest in exchange for the its debt adjustment program, which is part of the President's Farm Credit Initiatives.

Under another part of the credit initiatives, FmHA is reviewing loans to its own borrowers. This has already resulted in the adjustment of loans of two Shelby County farmers says County supervisor Earl Nichols.

Through the debt adjustment program, banks and other lenders can sometimes reduce the amount of loan payments down to a level farmers can afford. What the program does, is allow FmHA to guarantee a portion of farm loans owed to banks and other lenders under certain conditions, making up part of the loss to the lender if the borrower defaults.

This government guarantee makes it possible for the lenders to stay with their farm borrowers longer than they could otherwise. The new regulations will help banks and other lenders

Alabama Power dams provide

Hydroelectric generating plants on the Tallapoosa, Coosa and Warrior Rivers are essential for controlling floods and providing recreational areas along those rivers. But the main purpose is to generate the maximum electricity possible from the company's hydroelectric plants. And, hydroelectric power is still the cheapest form of energy, which saves you money in fuel costs.

"A couple of summers ago we sponsored a puppet workshop for children," she says. "We'd like to offer more programs of that sort in the future. The main problem we have is a limited time in the available space.

The building in Orr Park is a good facility, but as the community grows the building is needed for other things.

"We would like some day to find a place of our own," says Tipton, "just some old building with a lot of space. We don't want our rehearsals or any of our other projects to interfere with the regularly scheduled community activities in Orr Park, but we do want keep to providing the community with these programs.'

Providing for the community has been a main part of Tipton's life in Shelby County, and she says she doesn't plan to live a "slow-paced" lifestyle for some time to come.

What with her work in the community and at the University, Mary Francis Tipton's claim to be a boring person is apparently inaccurate, to say the

questions library

by K.A. Turner A question mark continues to punctuate the Pelham Library Board.

Recently, the Pelham City Council voted to recreate the city's five-member library board which it had dissolved in early

Earlier this week, Mayor Bobby Hayes said that the city has received several applications for positions on the new board, and it could be filled as early as next week.

But the director of the Alabama Public Library Service (APLS), Anthony Miele, is not satisfied with the city's new board.

In a letter received last week by Shelby County Library Director Nancy Woosley, Miele said that according to state law the city must re-appoint its former board members to make the board legally valid.

Hayes does not agree with Miele's interpretation of the law, and said that several attorneys and state senator John Teague agree with him.

Hospital SMC turns profit; signs Denton contract

by David F. Moore

The Shelby Medical Center board voted March 7 to accept and sign a two-year contract with its new administrator, Charles L. "Chip" Denton.

Denton officially starts his job Thursday, March 14.

Along with the fresh ink on Denton's fresh contract, the board also noted that the ink on the bottom line of its financial statement for hospital operations has changed from red to black.

According to SMC financial director Keith Heartsill, unaudited financial statements show that SMC has turned a $104,522 profit for the year-to-date begining Oct. 1.

Last year, Shelby Medical Center showed a $400,000 loss from its operational revenues, marking a nearly $1 million swing to the negitive over the previous year's profits. However, investments on taxes to pay off construction bonds ($1.2 million) and other investments boosted the bottom line figure to $1.2 million in the

Voting beat eliminated

Lack of suitable polling places has caused officials to eliminate a voting beat and a voting box in Shelby county. Beat Nine, Box Two near Wilsonville has been dissolved. Voters who previously polled there will vote instead at the Wilsonville City Hall, Beat Nine, Box One.

Beat 22 in the Pelham area has been abolished. The new polling location for voters previously in that beat will be the Pelham Plaza Mall, Beat 17, Box One.

Dorough appointed

The county commission made one appointment and was notified of a second appointment at its Monday meeting. Harry E. Dorough of Westover has been named to the Westover Water Authority board. Dorough fills a vacancy created by the death of J.W. Sherrell. Dorough will serve the remainder of the term which expires March 1, 1989.

Al Dampier is the new chairman of the Airport Authority The commission read a letter from last year's chairman, Doug Ballard, notifying them that Dampier will serve the authority in that capacity during the current year.

Columbiana cracks down on fees

by Bert Seaman

Some Columbiana residents have been getting free sewer service and garbage pickup. The city intends to crack down on people who have not been paying for these services.

Last week the council decided to turn off the water at residences where the sewer bill was delinquent for more than 90 days. In the case of overdue garbage bills, city attorney Bill Justice said that offenders may have to be taken to small claims court to collect the overdue money. Mayor Buck Falkner told the council that one resident had a delinquent bill for garbage pick-up totalling $207. Altogether, the city is out $6,217.36 in unpaid bills - $5,190.25 for garbage pick-up; $1,027.11 for sewer...

After examining the list of non-payers, Councilman William Rasco noted that none of the offenders were senior citizens.

He observed that if senior citizens are able to pay the charge, other residents should be able to afford it, too. The city charges $1.25 a month for sewer service and $3 a month for bi-weekly garbage pick-up. In other business, the city adopted a mobile home ordinance which requires that all mobile homes be located in a mobile home

The ordiance also requires that parks be brought up to certain standards. There are currently three mobile home parks in the city. A grandfather clause in the ordinance allows mobile homes already in the city to remain at their present locations. Until the passage of the new law all that was required for locating a mobile home in Columbiana was to present written approval from neighbors to the council.

Montevallo seeks grant for sewer

by Bert Seaman

Faced with an order to improve its sewerage treatment plant, the city of Montevallo is going after a $300,000 Community Block Development

They agreed Monday that the funds, if granted, will help pay for the $800,000 project and hold down necessary rate hikes to customers.

If everything goes according to plan, $1 will be added to the $5.76 (for the first 4,000 gallons) customers pay for water, and $1 to the $4.50 charge for sewer. Without the grant, increases will be more, said City Administrator Don Hughes.

A public hearing on the issue was set for 7 p.m., Wednesday, at city hall.

Improvements to the 20-yearold plant are necessary because it does not meet Alabama Department of Environmental Management's standards, thus creating a potential health hazard, Hughes said Monday.

The plant designed to handle a half million gallons of water per day, is presently overloaded, said water board member, Dudley Pendleton.

Ed Handcock's military career is finally complete. Forty years after serving in the 4th Army Division under Gen. George Patton, Handcock received his war decorations in the mail. Last week, the former staff sergeant opened a package containing two purple hearts, two presidential citations, a good conduct medal, the bronze star, victory medal, sharp-shooter badge, European African Middle Eastern Campaign medal, and a merit badge with four stars indicating his four major battles. There was also a letter reading, "Sorry for the delay." Handcock and his wife, Laura, reside in Pelham.

Shelby Bank seeking to form holding company

by David F. Moore

Shelby State Bank is banking on boosting its future growth through the organization of a holding company.

Bank officials say that forming the holding company should help the locally owned institution diversify, make more and larger loans, and allow it to possibily build a midrise office building in Pelham.

Legal proceedures to incorporate and organize Shelby Bancshares, Inc., is already in motion. On March 21, the 330 Shelby State stockholders will vote on swaping shares of the bank for shares in the holding company. Also, approval of the FDIC and other banking agencies is required, all of which Shelby Bank president Ken Kirkland should take several months to complete.

Once established, Shelby Bancshares will become the owner of the Shelby Bank.

"The bank will continue to operate exactly like it is," Kirkland said. "But forming this one bank holding company will help us diversify and continue our growth, He emphasized that the bank will continue to be owned by local shareholders, and is making no plans to merge with one of the larger Birmingham based banks. Unlike banks, federal and state regulations allow holding companies to borrow money. Once Shelby Bancshares is established, it will borrow $1 million to put into the capital account of the bank, Kirkland said.

Besides the ability to make more and larger loans, he said the added capital will allow the bank to further explore the idea of enlarging its main office building to possiblly include quality rental space.

The late Paul Yeager Sr., the first mayor of Pelham, and Doug Ballard organized the Bank of Pelham in 1972. In 1975, with some $5 million in assests, it was reorganized to form Shelby State Bank and Kirkland was named president.

Shelby Bank's assests now approach $30 million, and Ballard said that it has grown by 20 percent for each of the last five years. It added branch offices in Columbiana in 1980, Montevallo in 1981, an operations center in Helena in 1981, and offered branch banking in Helena in 1984.

The bank presently employs 40 people with an annual payroll in excess of $500,000.

Shelby County has the greatest opportunity for banking and business of any place I know," Kirkland said. "It's going to be super.

He said the bank hopes to at least finalize its plans for Pelham by the end of the year.

Major stockholders and bank board members include Ballard, Kirkland, M.M. Argo Jr., Ben F. Grubbs, Roy L. Martin, Lloyd A. Rafalsky, James H. Strickland Jr., and Louie

Hearing set for Valleydale apartments

by K.A. Turner

A 13-acre tract of land along the Meadow Brook entrance off Valleydale Road will be the subject of a zoning hearing next week

Institutional Investments Corporation, an Atlanta based firm, has requested the hearing. It attempts to have the parcel rezoned from its present A-1 agricultural status, to R-5 multifamily dwelling.

Shelby County Planning Commission officials said that Institutional Investments is a firm which specializes in uniting buyers and sellers of land.

In that capacity, the firm would probably not handle the actual development of the pro-

Planning commission chairman Al Knight said the same piece of property came to the planners for consideration less than one year ago, but was not rezoned at that time because of drainage questions.

Knight said planning commission policy dictates that, to be reconsidered within a 365-day period, the owners must make a written request for a new hearing and the planning commission must give unaminous consent to their request.

That request was recently made and approved, and a public hearing on the parcel is set for Monday, March 18 at 7 p.m. at Valley School.

re-appointed. The commission appointed no one to seats held by Herman Moore and Charles McCombs, who resigned in December.

Commissioners Harold Davenport and John Ames voted Monday to re-appoint C.E. 'Bull' Carter and Pete Raughley.

Their nominations were opposed by Commissioner Gregg Rushton, who four weeks ago joined Commissioner Leon Archer and the rest of the commission in asking for the resignations of the entire hospital board because of factions and other problems.

Archer was on vacation Monday with his family.

Rushton said he opposed any re-appointments to consecutive terms, indicating that new input could benefit the board.

He also opposed any reappointments because the commission has not adopted a policy for nominating board members.

"I think that's wrong," Rushton said. "The hospital is the largest assest in county that no one has any control over."

Ames said Rushton's points were well taken, and might have been supported were it not for the troubled times at the Hayes is arranging a meeting with Teague and Miele this week to further discuss the situation.

Without legal recognition from the state, Pelham could face a loss of revenue and other assistance from county and state library departments, Miele said. Woosley said that from October, 1984 to January, 1985, the county has spent $3,700 for new books in Pelham. The monies came from state funds channeled through the county library board.

An additional $1,500 in books have already been purchased for the library but have not yet been processed and sent to Pelham.

The Pelham Council dissolved the previous library board on recommendation from Hayes.

"The law says they (the board members) can be removed for just 'cause," Hayes said, contending that last year's $51,000 over-spend of the library budget

Woosley said that the county library board is not trying to make Hayes "look like a bad guy" in the situation, but must stay within the confines of laws governing libraries in the state.

Hayes said last week that he has no intentions of reappointing the previous board.

Finally...

It's good news to hear that Shelby Medical Center is making a positive swing in revenues.

While it's true that the hospital showed a small profit on paper last year, that profit was compliments of investments made on hospital bond tax money, not the most sound of business controls.

True, roots to most of the hospital's financial problems grow back several years and several administrations. And with the massive changes in the federal and private insurance reimbursements, many of the recent problems are certainly not unique to Shelby Medical

But there is little doubt that the financial reins at Shelby Medical Center should have been - and still need to be - pulled tighter.

With an eye for saving money, the SMC board is now taking a serious look at the costly ambulance services it subsidizes.

Also, a board committee is taking a hard, albeit late, look at capping the the runaway problem of bad debts and out of county indigent write-offs.

Board studies are finally under way as to some of the hospital's real estate "investments," such as the paid for $1.36 million office building on U.S. 280 which is being rented to a doctor from a Jefferson County hospital for $939 per month.

Certainly, room exists for improvements in the management of Shelby Medical Center.

At least the profit figures reported for the months during which board member Doug Ballard filled in as SMC administrator are an indication that some of these needed improvements are finally being made. And some of the austere steps taken earlier are finally

It is hoped that given a little breathing room, the new administrator and remaining board members can continue to turn financial tides at SMC and make it the sort of county owned hospital the people in Shelby County deserve. Who knows? With continued improvements in finances, maybe one day the board or the County Commission will see fit to drop some of the tax millage to the hospital. Talk about good news and good public relations...

Alabama Scene

by Bob Ingram

A major oil company brags in its TV and print advertising that it produces a "gas with guts." Members of the Alabama Legislature could make that same claim...they too have guts.

Ten weeks ago, after spending less than 72 hours in a special session, the lawmakers voted themselves a 13-day Christmas recess with pay. The uproar from the taxpayers was deafening. A suit was filed to deny the lawmakers their $85-a-day expense allowance, but predictably, the Supreme Court ruled there was nothing in the law or constitution to keep the legislators from getting the money.

A petition for a re-hearing still pends, but there is no doubt the lawmakers will eventually get their money.

Last week, back in town for the regular session, the Legislature did it again. It voted itself an 11-day recess for the AEA holidays, and again it was with full pay. One lone voice was raised in protest - Rep. Mo Brooks of Huntsville, reminding his colleagues of the flap caused by their Christmas recess, proposed that the AEA break be taken without the $85-a-day allowance.

On a voice vote (no way were the members going to go on the record on this issue), House Speaker Tom Drake of Cullman ruled that Brooks motion had been defeated.

Thus in a period of 10 weeks the lawmakers will have been paid a total of $2,040 for expenses, even though they incurred no ex-

The legislative brawl over the merit pay plan for teachers grows more intense by the day. What has caused the most concern is a projection made by the Legislative Fiscal Office that the full implementation of the plan could cost in excess of $1 billion by 1990.

That sort of price tag understandably has caused some legislators to break out into a cold sweat.

To generate an additional $1 billion for education would obviously necessitate some huge tax increases. For example, the state's four per cent sales tax generates about $600 million a year. It would have to be increased by at least another six per cent to generate an additional $1 billion.

The outlook now is that substantial changes are likely to be made in the legislation before it passed, including a cap on its

It attracted no attention, but among the dozen or so Alabama high school seniors who won appointments to the various U.S. Military Academies last week was a student from Jeff Davis High School in Montgomery. Appointed as a cadet at the U.S. Air Force Academy was Paul Tibbetts IV. If you are of World War II vintage, the name might ring a bell. His grandfather, Col. Paul Tibbetts, was the pilot of the Enola Gay, the B-29 which dropped the first A-bomb in history on Hiroshima.

Good Morning

by Milton Bird

Maree Macon Blackwell, PhD, and her ladies from all over -Beverly Hart, Cullman; Lynelle Wilbanks, Cullman; Ervetta Green, Birmingham; Doris Gamble, Horton; Sarah Mitchell, Albertville; and Dr. Garaldine Emerson, Birmingham - completed their Writer's Workshop at UAB Saturday. Maybe this was the best one. I know these were the best writers we have had in the three years I have been going.

John Jones told us to turn to page 91. We were at Sunday School and it was time for a hymn. I opened my song book and this little piece of paper was between the pages. It was an old list of names I had visited in the hospital years ago.

There was Bruce Alverson and Lucille Hill and Henry Joiner and Elma Mitchell and W.F. Payne. They have all slipped away and only memory of them is left. Arlin Perry was there. And Henry Foster. And Andy Walton and Jack Davis and Mr. and Mrs. J.B. Green. George and Frances Foster was there. And so many more they had to put chairs behind the back row in the New Bethesby Church. We had come here on this first Sunday to hear the Crossroads Quartet sing. And if we didn't have a fine time listening to them sing and singing a little ourselves, then God didn't make little green apples and hang 'em on apple trees.

They'll miss her at Briarcliff Nursing Home. She who gave so much of herself to those who were ill and lonely. I guess she walked a million miles, going from room to room, visiting her neighbors. Yes, they'll certainly miss Mrs. Ruth Cosper Hughes who slipped away today and left a precious memory behind.

In the hospital at Shelby Medical Center — Mildred Harrison and W.R. Glenn and Nelma Graiger and Lizzie Hudson and Thelma Fuqua and Cecil Davis and Thelma Vincent.

Names I'll look for on those little slips of paper with names on them they'll have at the Shin-Dig - Annie John Haynes and Catherine Parker and Max Allen and Leon Archer and Lawrence Elliott, Edmond Craddock and Marvin Cross.

They're still slipping away and leaving their names behind -Emmett Hughes and Charles Brasher and Harry Anderson.

The weekly 'Good Morning' column written by Milton Bird, is brought to you with the good wishes of the First National Bank of Columbiana, member FDIC.

Commission putting on 'greatest show'

Letter to the editor:

The Shelby County Commission and Chairman Tommy Snowden have been putting on a show that would rival the circus.

The controversy seemed to begin back when it was rumored that the hospital was going to be sold. If this were true, my questions are: To whom, why, at whose expense and to whose

For the last couple of years the hospital had donated generously to help bail out the commission. The commission requested funds again this fiscal year, but thanks to the Tax Watch Committee was discovered that the county didn't need the money after all.

The Shelby Medical Center foundation was formed to precording to some of it's members. Obviously the foundation had grounds for their suspicions because Sherman Holland admitted he had a buyer then later bowed out.

The next thing we knew the commission doubled the size of the hospital board. The ad-

Then the hospital board voted to do away with the foundation which it had most recently established. (The foundation vent the sale of the hospital ac- couldn't be ousted until the commission stacked the hospital board.) You would think the commissioners would have been happy since the expanded board was finally successful in ousting the foundation.

Not so. Next the commission wanted everyone to resign and start over. It seems the commisministrator resigns and his assis- sioners felt nine members were tant is offered and accepts an now plenty. Correct me if I'm wrong, it was the commission that nearly doubled the board a couple months ago? Talk about women changing their minds.

I regret to inform Mr. Rushton that the dissention has not been between the hospital board and the hospital. The dissention has been between the Shelby County Commission and the hospital board.

If the sales were off at the circus, it had to be because "the greatest show on earth" has been in Shelby County.

PBS listener takes issue with wording

Letter to the editor:

National media spokesmen regularly use the phrase, the Reagan Administration, to refer to the government of the United The short title traditionally has been either the American government or simply the United States. Previously, reference to the administration was used principally in the context of issues among the three tiers of government - the executive, legislative and judicial.

To cite the more limited source as authority for official acts taken within the full powers of the executive seems at best inaccurate and may imply a question of legitimacy. Use of the expression in international affairs, where the president has unique responsibilities, can be particularly misleading.

The Public Broadcasting Service (PBS) early followed this new practice, but a recent exam-

Jamboree!

by K.A. Turner

Eight county football teams wound up spring football drills last week, most seeing action in jamboree or intra-squad games.

Briarwood, Chelsea, Coosa Valley, Montevallo, Pelham, Shelby Academy, Shelby County, and Thompson got in some game-type play before taking a week off for AEA holidays.

Because of its late running basketball season, Calera will not begin spring drills until after the holidays.

Vincent, also with post-season basketball play, will not participate in jamboree action this spring.

Briarwood and Chelsea squared off in an informal scrimmage Thursday afternoon at the Lions home field.

BCHS came away with a 12-6 win. Quarterback Jimmy Collier hit Brad Gutteridge with a 65-yard pass on the Lions first play from scrimmage, and fullback Randy

Gilbert scored on a short run for BCHS. Chelsea got a TD run from Kerry Shaw

Thompson's Warriors met Montevallo in spring action at

Shane Horrell threw TD passes to Dana Washington and Kevin Duke to give the Warriors their first two scores. Demetrius Gaiters added a short TD run to give the THS offense a 20-point total for the Montevallo, which got a late start due to basketball success, did not score. Richard Gilliam has spent most of the spring teaching his 57 players, many who are young and have no experience, the fundamentals of blocking and tackling.

The Pelham Panthers took the county's largest squad, almost 80 in number, to Minor High School for jamboree action.

Despite a TD run by Winfred McCall, the Panthers came up on the short end of a 14-7 score with Oak Grove. Pelham, however, played the jamboree without the services of ten injured Panthers, six of whom will probably start in the fall.

* * * * The Shelby Academy Raiders and the Coosa Valley Rebels traveled to Bessemer-Faith for jamboree action.

The Raiders used a TD run by Mike Upton and two-pointer by Ray Smith to blank Coosa Valley 8-0.

Then, despite a TD run by Smith, the Raiders dropped a 15-6 decision to Meadowview in the round-robin type jamboree.

Coosa Valley scored once against host Bessemer, but came up on the short end of a 13-6 final. Mike Payne got the CVA touchdown.

The Shelby County High School Wildcats were in a no-lose situation in spring action, as Red squared off against White to show new coach Randle Cassady the progress of his new offense. The Red team got a long TD run from Ambrose Wood and a two-point conversion and a pass interception return for a TD from Chris Gould enroute to a 14-12 win.

The White also scored twice, Johnny Boose reeling off a 40-yard TD run for the first score. Scout team quarterback Anthony Mallery hit Jasper English with a TD pass on the final play of the game, set up by a long completion from Mallery to Ira Underwood. The twopoint conversion with no time left, failed.

Oak Mtn. BMX opens

The Oak Mountain BMX track opened its 1985 schedule last weekend with almost 200 riders in attendance.

Over 750 spectators watched 41 motos during three hours of riding in which local and area bikers raced, as well as out-oftowners.

Area winners included:

Open class: Josh Nichols, 1st, age 10-11; Jamie Green, 1st, age 14-15; Joel Tidwell, 4th, age 14-15;

·Beginner class: Mark Corley, 4th, age 12;

•Novice class: Chad Waiwaiole, 1st, age 8-9; Billy Marshal, 3rd, age 8-9; David Fikes, 4th, age 10; Ricky Yandle, 8th, age 12; Brad Waiwaiole, 3rd, age 13; Keith Maple, 2nd, age 14; Bo Cumbo, 8th, age 14; Joel Tidwell, 1st, age 15; Mike Harrison, 2nd, age

 Expert class: Jason Fortenberry, 1st, age 10; Jimmy Fortenberry, 1st, age 14; Brian King, 1st, age 15.

In addition, King and Jimmy Fortenberry finished one-two in the 15 and under cruiser class.

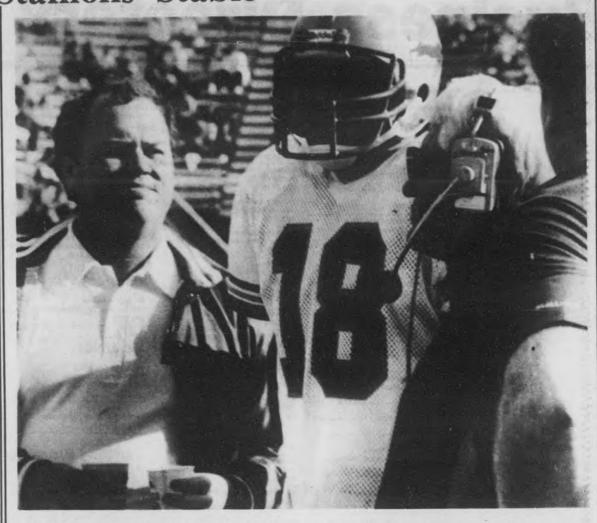

The Oak Mountain BMX track will open its gate to all comers for the second races of the season on Saturday, March 23. Racing begins at 2 p.m.

LEGAL NOTICE STATE OF ALABAMA IN THE MATTER OF OHN ORVAL EDWARD SMITH IN THE JUVENILE SHELBY COUTY, ALABAMA CASE NO. JU-85-086

ORDER
It being made known to the Court that Margaret Thornburg for the Shelby County Department of Pensions and Security has filed with said Court in the above-styled matter, a on to terminate parental rights r, and to the child: John Orval Edward Smith, and to vest custody of said child in the State of Alabama Department of Pensions and Security for permanent placenent or adoption, said Petition being, in words, substantially as follows: That said child is dependent in that on or about 9-27-83, in Shelby County, Alabama, said child was placed by the mother with the Shelby County Department of Pensions and Security under a boarding home agreement and custody of this child was award-ed to petitioner's agency on 11-15-83. Petitioner further avers that actual paternity of said child has not bee placed in foster care, said child ha had only occasional visits from the natural mother, the last visit being 12-5-84. Petitioner further avers that said child's mother has failed to com ply with two contracts entered into with the Shelby County Department of Pensions and Security and has made only one support payment in the amount of $40.00 since said child has been in custody of the Department. Petitionel Turther avers that future, be able to provide a fit and suitable home for the child and to provide for his support, maintenance and education, and to petitioner's knowledge, said child's mother is without a source of income to ade-quately provide for said child's eeds. Petitioner prays that the Court will cause service to be effected upon the mother by service of summons and upon the putative father by publication as provided by law and upon a hearing of the matter, the Court will enter an order terminating all parental rights of the mother and putative father and will commit said child to the Alabama Department of Pensions and Security for permanent placement or adoption, pursuant to Section 12:15-30. what happened? March the 13th will be the tenth year, to disappear. Though we've searched over many mile We can't give up, not for a while

me where out there, Guy's all alone ar memory of him can never facte he harm. And when he disappeared it caused much alarm le's been gone three years now, but

But someday we'll see him, on the only we could find his body some day

We could place him in rest, the right way. en we who loved him could put our minds at ease. If you know anything, would you help us. Please.

Church News

The Shelby Christian Women's Club is hosting a St. Patrick's Day brunch 9:15-11:15, Tuesday, Mar. 19 at Chace Lake Country Club on U.S. 31.

Jeani Atkison will present the special feature, "Putting on the Green," a showing from her consignment shop. Mary Patton will sing "Leprechaun Lyrics" as the musical salute to St. Patrick's Day. The speaker is Lynn Blake, an insurance executive and mother of two.

Reservations for the brunch must be made by Mar. 15. Due to planning arrangements cancellation information is also necessary.

For more information concerning the brunch contact Jeani at 663-0399 or Janet at 979-7322.

Other activities of the club include a Prayer Coffee Mar. 5 at the home of Patsy Thatenhurst in Maylene. For more information concerning the Friendship Bible Coffees contact Marilyn Peterson at 987-0796.

Persons interested in beginning a new Baptist church in the Riverchase area are invited to attend a meeting at 2 p.m. Mar. 24 at Christ the King Lutheran Church, 611 Riverchase Parkway West.

First Baptist Church in Pelham will sponsor a fellowship in Riverchase which will become a mission, then become the Riverchase Baptist Church.

The Alabama Baptist State Convention owns a five acre site at the intersection of Riverchase Parkway and the Old Montgomery Hwy, which eventually will be used for a first building

Beginning Apr. 7 the group will meet on Sunday afternoons at 2 p.m. for Sunday School and 3 p.m. for regular worship service at Christ the King Lutheran Church.

For more information contact Dr. Mike Shaw: 663-7492 or 663-7499.

The Riverchase United Methodist Church met Mar. 3 for the first time in their new location on County 275, just north of Riverchase Parkway. The new building represents the first phase of a master plan and the present sanctuary will ultimately be used as a recreational area. the $350,000 structure contains 13,000 square feet, including six classrooms, toddler and infant nurseries, kitchen, fellowship hall, library and offices. three

A consecretion service is planned for Mar. 31 at 3 p.m. The pastor is John Simmons.

The First United Church of Alabaster is holding special Lenten services each Wednesday

A luncheon will be served at a cost of $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for children. A nursery will be provided.

The speaker Mar. 20 will be Rev. Bill Phares of Mt. Tabor United Methodist Church.

Pastor Charles Rush of the Chelsea Church of God on County 39 says the church will feature Wallace and Ernestine Swilley, known as "America's Marriage Motivators," at 6 p.m. Mar. 17.

The Swilley's combine music and discussion to bring a positive approach to marital and family relationships. Over the past 18 years they have appeared on national television and radio and conducted many semimars, camps and workshops dealing with family problems.

The First Baptist Church of Pelham will hold a Sunday School Revival Mar. 17-20. Services will be at 10:55 a.m. Sunday and 7 p.m. nightly.

Dr. Henry Hobson of the First Baptist Church of Chalksville will lead the revival. A nursery will be provided for all services.

The church is located on Church St. adjacent to Pelham City Hall. Mike Shaw is pastor. . . . .

The First Baptist Church of Aldridge, near Montevallo, is the site of the West Shelby County Joint Bible Study.

The Bible Study, to be held Mar. 17-20 at 6 p.m. on Sunday night and at 7 p.m. Mon. through Wed., is a combined effort of Underwood, Dogwood, Antioch II and Mayberry Baptist churches.

Pastor Wayne Burns says John Bob Riddle will teach the adult classes while local people will teach the other classes.

Columbiana Church of the Nazarene is having a singing at their Sunday morning service

The "Family Circle Singers" from Jasper are the guests.

The Calera congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses will receive a visit from circuit overseer Carl Volmer Mar. 12-17.

Volmer says he would like to meet as many local people as possible and will make a special effort to arrange for free home Bible studies.

The circuit overseer visits the Calera Congregation twice each year. The public is invited to attend all meetings at the Kingdom Hall on Second Ave. North in Calera.

The Good Hope Methodist Church will host the Victory Quartet for its monthly singing at 7 p.m. Mar. 16. Buck Ruston, chairman and Rev. Joe Hearn invite the pubilc to the church located on County 61 in the Kingdom community.

Summerhill Baptist Church on State 25 between Calera and Columbiana will hold a revival Mar. 18 through Mar. 22. at 7 p.m. each night.

Revival evangilist is Jerry Elmore, the pastor of the church is Wayne Marler.

The Shelby County Starlites of Calsis and the Mighty Spiritual Aires of Sylacauga will be the special singers at the First Baptist Church of Wilsonville.

The singing will be at 6 p.m. Mar. 17 and is sponsored by the J.W. Posey is pastor of the ficiated the service. church.

Clark: finding Mr. 'Write'

Cordelia Going Clark's pen pal is a very special person in her life. On March 17 Cordelia is going to Stainforth, England to marry him.

For Cordelia, marrying her pen pal is the culmination of events which started 40 years ago with a fourth grade class project at Calera Elementary School.

When she was 10 years old, Cordelia was one of the students who included her name and address in a Red Cross parcel sent to Allied families during World War II.

The parcel traveled to Stainforth, England where 10-year-old Ron Smith's family received it.

Ron wrote Cordelia Cordelia wrote back.

Thus began a long-distance relationship which lasted until Ron graduated high school in 1954.

"Ron wrote to several of the kids in the class, but he and I were the only ones who kept up the correspondence," says Cordelia. "The last letter I sent him was a graduation card. Not long after that I married and didn't think about Ron much anymore."

So for 22 years Cordelia and Ron did not correspond. Then a string of coincidences brought the pen pals back

"By 1976 my husband had left me, and I was doing my best to raise my children by myself," she says. "In September, 1976 I received a letter with my maiden name on it, addressed to my parents home in Calera."

That particular letter traveled around quite a bit before reaching Cordelia.

The letter went first to Calera, to Cordelia's former address. On the back of the envelope was a request that the letter be forwarded to Calera High School if she no longer lived at that address.

"No one at the high school knew my present address," says Cordelia, "so the letter went back to the Calera Post

'Sonny Davis was the mailman at that time and this was the second letter from England he had seen recently. He remembered the other letter had been addressed to Francis Lucas' sister and when my letter came back he asked Francis if she knew me; she did and the letter was forwarded to me in Montevallo.

"The letter was from Ron, the first in 22 years.

"After that letter went through so many hands I feel it was more than coincidence that I got it," says Cordelia, "I think the hand of God was moving Ron and me together

'Operation Pride' award goes to Alabaster business

by Bert Seaman

Jones Office and School Supply was the first recipient of the "Operation Pride" award from the Alabaster Beautification Board.

Len Lacey, manager of the 23-year-old store, was commended for improving the appearance of Main Street when he renovated the building the company moved to.

"Operation Pride,' beautification board chairman Dr. Tommie Harrison said the purpose of the program is to encourage community pride in the looks of the city looks.

She said this includes improving the appearance of Main Street, residential areas and public areas.

The board has already placed flower barrels along the Main Street and is now working on planting trees in the median on U.S. 31.

"We feel the first impression people get of Alabaster is imporSee photo and other tant," Harrison said. However, she noted that the board cannot do it all. "We've started the ball rolling," she said, "but we need the cooperation of clubs, civic groups and churches to help us carry it through." Anyone interested in donating time or money may contact any member of the beautification board. Members are: Joan Stinson, vice-chairman; Betty Boren, Ann Branyon, Paul Cohill Sr., Charlotte Draper, Gladys Harper, Voncille Jones, Ora Marcus, Elnora Pass, Laverne Rikard, Sammie

Some of the shrubbery in Shelby County and the rest of the state may have suffered damage from the February freeze. These daffodils were undamaged, however, and are busily showing off their springtime best in Fox Valley and other parts of the county. (photo by Meg Smith)

What to do with shrubs

Freeze grips Mother Nature

The full extent of the February freeze damage to Alabama's ornamental landscape plants won't be known until spring growth starts. But an Auburn University horticulturist savs severe damage is already Dave Williams, program associate in home horticulture with the Cooperative Extension Service, says much damage is already apparent in split bark and burned, parched leaves.

"Until spring growth starts, you can't be certain how badly damaged a plant is," Williams says. "Many of the plants that were damaged by last year's freeze may have been hurt worse this year because they didn't have time to fully recover.

"The amount of damage varies widely, even within a neighborhood. A lot depends on soil composition, how the plant was protected from the wind, and the health of each plant."

He advises homeowners not to prune until spring growth starts.

"Even if you look closely now, you could miss damaged areas of a plant. These areas could be infected by diseases or insects later

Williams says some plants, such as azaleas, gardenias, camellias and oleanders, may show the most damage. But the freeze was so intense that even some of the more cold-hardy plants were injured.

Dave Bradford, county agent in Jefferson County, says that area, including Shelby County. also suffered extensively frm the

"The damage looks bad right now, especially among evergreen shrubs, hollies. azaleas and so forth. In particular, flower buds on azaleas appear badly damaged, so we probably won't have a good flowering season for them this year." Bradford says.

He says many of the evergreen plants probably look worse now normally occuring in their than they really are, and have a good chance of growing back

"The retail nurseries in the area say that plants, especially large ones, may be in short supply this year because this is the second bad freeze year in a row. Many of the plants damaged last vear hadn't recovered before this year's freeze," Bradford says.

Williams says plants suffer four kinds of damage from cold

• They may be chilled from a native habitat:

• They may suffocate from being covered with ice for long periods:

• They may be frozen because of ice formation within the plant

•They may suffer limb breakage from ice.

Split bark is the most serious sign of freeze damage, because it can provide an easy entrance for borers, which will eventually kill the plant.

To examine plants for injury, drop in temperature below that start at the outer edges of limbs and go back toward the soil line looking for split bark. If there is none, the cold injury probably isn't too serious," Williams ex-

"After spring growth starts, proper care will help damaged plants recover. Prune dead and damages wood; cut back dead plants to the ground; spray with a fungicide before growth begins and again when new growth in about half grown; fertilize properly, but don't over-fertilize; and have your soil tested, then apply the recommended amount of lime," Williams says.

Making it with Mental Health!

JOHN S. BRUMLEY

Some Lessons from J...

Last week you met J., a woman who overcame her addiction to drugs. Since addiction to chemical substances affects all of us, some points in J's story are worth reviewing:

1. J. was vulnerable to becoming an abuser because of a "bad home life". She says her mother did not care about her enough to discipline her but let her go her own way.

As parents we must realize our children need our love, our time and our attention more than extra material things or perhaps those things we did not get when we were growing up. All the extras must take second to our active emotional involvement with our children. Our schools cannot replace our parenting responsibilities

2. J. was from a one-parent home. Single parents need strong family, church and other social networks more than ever. Without these networks, I recommend family counseling before problems begin if possi-

People who abuse 3. chemicals are often difficult to love. The key to helping a substance abuser is to be able to care for them without being manipulated or without participating in their selfdestruction. Therapists call this "Tough Love".

4. Professional counseling and support groups are critical to the person who has made a decision to give up a habit. These things are also very important to the family of the substance abuser - before and after the recovery process has begun.

5. J. represents hope. If we don't give up on them, others can beat drugs and become "recovering", productive citizens.

I'd like to hear your comments and questions. Write me at P.O. Drawer 679, Calera, Alabama 35040.

Columbiana establishes personnel policies

Three years ago, Columbiana Councilwoman Jessie Jones was given the assignment of heading a committee to compile a manual of personnel policies for the city.

The manual is now a reality. It was approved at a recent council meeting along with a personnel board consisting of the mayor and council.

Jones said she forsees amendments to the policies, but the adoption of the manual will still enable the city to operate more efficiently.

Jones said that personnel board has been this long in coming to a vote because of opposition from some members of the former administration.

Since she felt there was no chance initially for the policy manual to be approved after it was completed, Jones said that she had put it aside until the current administration took office.

The policies were reviewed again in November and some revisions made.

In making their decision on who would serve on the personnel board, the council excluded the chairmen of the water and gas boards from membership.

It was noted that those boards are separate from the city.

The next step in the process will be to appoint someone to keep records and be responsible for personnel files.

Other business recently brought to the council's attention included garbage pick-up outside the city limits.

Mayor Buck Falkner told the council that the city could be sued by the owners of a dog hit by a garbage truck. "We had no business picking up there," he

To avoid a similar incident, the council voted to discontinue garbage pickup outside city limits, effective March 1.

Several residents who live on Dixie Mountain said they were concerned about a sewerage problem there.

Jimmy Rowe said that a neighbor's sewerage ran across his property and he asked the council for help in getting the situation corrected.

Rowe said the Shelby County Health Department had been informed of the problem but had thus far done nothing about it. The council went on record to call the department's attention to the situation.

Three other residents who live on Dixie Mountain wanted to know when their area was going to get sewer.

Falkner explained that the area was not included in the Community Block Development grant the city is presently applying for because there are not many. homes there.

He said that population density is one of the items that enables a city to get points on a grant application.

Falkner said the city was also considering other types of grants to complete the sewer sytem, predicting that every house in the city will be on sewer within the next three and a half years.

In other business, the council refused to pay a contractor an $850 bill for hauling off trash from the site where Shelby County High School is building a field

"We made a contribution to the field house," Councilwoman Jessie Jones said, "and we didn't agree to pay for any other service."

Shelby Medical Center's Emergency Department brings lifesaving services closer to home.

The Shelby Medical Center Emergency Department, with its trauma center, eight treatment rooms and two cardiac rooms, is one of the best in the Birmingham area. And that's a fact, not a claim.

Our Emergency Department is open around the clock every day of the year. A full-time physician is always on duty. Our modern facility is equipped with the latest technological equipment. Comprehensive facilities are available for complete family care-from the care and treatment of minor illnesses and injuries, to heart attacks and other life threatening maladies. And our skilled doctors, nurses and technicians are trained and experienced to administer a full range of medical services.

Just remember, when you need us the most we're here to help. With a highly trained medical staff and some of the most modern equipment available anywhere, we can honestly say the Shelby Medical Center Emergency Department is in the same league as Birmingham's leading hospitals.

Columbiana Public Librarian Did you know that you can check out art reproductions and even original oil paintings at the branch libraries of the Shelby County Library System?

There are several original oil paintings by little known contemporary artists but the majority of the works are reprints of the old masters such as Gainsborough, Van Gogh, Renoir, Picasso, Monet and Gova. If your local library does not currently have any of these paintings on display, your librarian can request them from the Shelby County Library.

Art enthusiasts may also find the art exhibits at the Shelby County and Columbiana libraries of interest. These paintings may not be checked out, but are on exhibit and may be purchased from the artist. A new artist is featured each month.

"We're very happy," Richard Karrasch said Sunday night after sending some 43 handlers on their way home from one of the largest stock dog trials in North America. "We're very tired, but we're very happy."

Coosa Valley Academy supporters are happy as well. The trial, which is now an annual benefit of the Harpersville private school, should net more than $5,000 when final totals come in this week.

"All in all, it was a very successful trial," Karrasch said. "I think they (CVA) will want us back next year."

Karrasch also credited the Coosa Valley people for part of the success of the event. "We > Topping the hospitality list is a home-style dinner for all handlers served at CVA on the Saturday night of each trial.

In addition to the success of the trial, Karrasch has another at least particial success to be pleased with. Ada Karrasch, his wife, and Star, their young border collie, placed sixth in the open division of the trial.

"She's a rare mix," Ada said, "a dog with strength that's not hard to handle.'

Ada and Star were among 20 prize winners in three catagories.

The open division was won by David Rogers and Chip, both of Perkiston, MI.

In June of 1982 Ron came to America to meet face to face the woman he had known so long.

"I'll never forget that first visit," says Cordelia. "This was his first time in the states and I had to show him everything. I took him everywhere from Six Flags to Pea Ridge...

"One of the funniest things happened right after I picked him up at the airport. We stopped at Captain D's to eat and Ron ordered tea with his meal. They brought out iced tea, he'd never had it before," laughs Cordelia.

Cornbread was another exotic American dish Smith tried on his first visit.

"Ron had never had cornbread before, but now he just loves it. I'm afraid there'll be a slight problem with that when I move over there though," says Cordelia. "When I visited England I couldn't find any place that sold corn meal.'

Despite Americans serving tea on ice, and the British not selling corn meal, the pen pals became engaged to be married during that

But there were a few obstacles to overcome before the pair could be married. Cordelia still had one child at home.

"I told Ron I'd spent too many years raising these kids by myself and I wouldn't leave until the last one was taken care of." Cordelia laughs, "Then I told him he could have what was left of me."

Two years later Cordelia's youngest daughter married So, when she leaves for England in a few days she's leaving behind four married children and seven grandchildren. She says she'll miss them, of course, but she's looking forward to moving to England an-

"We're going to live in England for awhile," says Cordelia. "Ron's mother is not in good health and he wants to be near her, but we're coming back to the states to spend our retirement years.

Cordelia says the thing she likes most about England is its people. "I like the way people think over there," she says. "They seem to look for inward beauty and have a respect for age that American's, with their love of youth and beauty, sometimes lack.

Cordelia says she will miss is her Christian friends, but she plans to become involved in church activities in her new home as soon as

'Attendance in the churches seems to be way down," says Cordelia. "I hope I can start some activities in our church that will get people interested again."

She saw a lot of things she says she likes "over there." One of the things is Smith's caravan (a British term for trailer) at Cleethorpes, overlooking the North Sea.

"I've never seen much big water living here in Dry Valley," laughs Cordelia. "But I think I could learn to love the sea. It's so Though Cordelia has learned to love her future home, she says she would never give up her American citizenship.

"I wrote Ron and asked him to promise me he would bring me back one day.

"I made a special point to keep the letter he wrote in reply. Now I've got that promise in writing," she laughs.

The fact of the matter is that both Ron and Cordelia have most of their relationship in writing. Over the years thousands of letters have crossed the ocean back and forth from Dry Valley to Stain-

"One good thing about marrying each other is the money we'll save on postage," laughs Cordelia.

After their engagement Ron began addressing Cordelia's letters to "the future Mrs. Ron Smith.

Still, she forsees a few problems in moving to a foreign country things like learning the metric system and remembering to drive on the left side of the road.

"I was worried about driving on the left side of the road," says Cordelia, "but my son said I shouldn't have any trouble because I've always driven that way."

Another problem Cordelia will encounter is the red tape involved in marrying a foreign citizen while retaining American citizenship. Because of the legalities, the couple cannot yet set a wedding date, but Cordelia says they hope to marry in April, near Easter.

The "pen pal pair" plan to do a lot of traveling after their marriage, but driving shouldn't be a problem for them. Smith has worked for British Railways for over 30 years.

"I can't wait to spend several days in London," says Cordelia. "I spent one day there on my first visit to England, but that's not nearly enough time to see everything. I'm really looking forward to getting to know London.'

The couple will also travel all over Europe and Cordelia says she is very excited about visiting the places she's only read about.

After so many miles and so many years apart, the pals will lay aside their pens and join hands for their future together.

Once she settles in, Cordelia says she plans to write the Reporter to let everyone in Shelby County know what she's doing "over there" in her new home. She should be use to writing letters.

In addition to the delay in billing, the actual bill received by customers looks a little different.

First, the tax paid on water bills is now shown as a separate line on the water statement. Pelham customers have always paid the tax, but it was not shown as an entry line on the statement. The tax is not new.

Secondly, the new statement carries both a net and gross total for water customers.

As the statement reads, the net total should be paid on or before the due date printed on the statement.

Should a bill be paid after the printed due date, the gross total should be paid in full.

Customers who have received new bills and paid the gross rather than net totals - even though the bill was paid on time - will see a credit on their next statement reflecting the over-

Proposal made

Beat 12 to cross U.S. 280?

by David F. Moore

Horizon 280 Association is highly concerned about traffic volume on U.S. 280 and the lack of zoning along Beat 13 which borders the highway.

Association members say both issues will require innovative solutions. And for both issues, the association has several possible answers.

Proposals for upgrading 280, to handle growing traffic proplems, will be brought out next week at public hearings called by the Alabama Highway Department.

Association members will present suggestions listed in The 280 Corridor Analysis & Proposals, an exhaustive study jointly funded by the Shelby and Jefferson county commissions, state and federal grants and Horizon 280.

Area residents also are being asked to air their views on 280 traffic at the meetings.

The first meetings will be held from 3:30-5 p.m. and 6:30-8 p.m., Tuesday, March 26, in the Fellowship Hall at Briarwood Presbyterian Church. The second meeting will be at the same times on Wednesday at Inverness Elementary.

Last Wednesday, the association invited the members of the Shelby County Commission and the Shelby County Planning and Zoning Board to a special meeting to discuss Beat 13 zoning and other matters concern-

The dinner meeting was held at the Women's Missionary Union and attended by 17 people, including planning and zoning members, Commission Chairman Tommy Snowden, Jefferson County officials and landscape architects; but no Shelby County commissioners.

Association member John Brewer proposed possible answers to zoning the northern side of 280 from the Cahaba River to Hugh Daniel Road.

"We want zoning there (Beat 13) in the worst of ways," Brewer said. "Unregulated growth is probably one of the worst things that could happen on 280.'

He said Horizon 280 is dedicated to the "enhancement" of the 280 corridor, and contends that if Beat 13 had zoning, development could and would be better controlled.

However, zoning in the sparsely inhabited beat was defeated twice at the polls last year, the second time by only

Saying there was no reason to push zoning on people who didn't want it, Brewer proposed that the county commission redraw beat lines so that an uninhabited but rapidly developing strip along 280 be moved from Beat 13 to 12.

Beat 12 borders the south side of 280 and has zoning under the jurisdiction of the planning and zoning board.

Brewer gave a secondary pro-See BEAT 13, Page A-3

SMC ambulances go to Hank's firm

by David F. Moore

Shelby Medical Center has accepted a bid from Hank's Ambulance Service of Birmingham to provide ambulance services in Shelby County. The contract may save the hospital some

At the end of March, SMC will drop its $9,000 monthly subsidy presently split equally between Central Shelby Ambulance Service and Harpersville Ambulance Service. Hank's will take over on April 1.

Some employees of the two local ambulance companies complained about the contract, saying the business should be kept in Shelby County, and the decision to drop the local companies was a precut deal.

However, Harpersville Ambulance owner Jimmy Gill said he would continue to operate in his area, at least for the time being. Central Ambulance owner Billy Price said he was going back into plumbing, but that his daughter, Kathy Price, would continue to operate his vehicle out of Alabaster.

Zoners refuse to re-hear case

by Bert Seaman

In February the Shelby County Commission asked the county planning zoning board to rehear a case involving a change in zoning on U.S. 280.

The request didn't go over very well with planning commissioners at Monday night's meeting. In fact, the board voted not to re-hear the case, which is being appealed in circuit court.

Blanton Moore said the commission's request was ridiculous, and based on one-sided informa-

"We heard the case and stated our approval of the change," he said. "Now they've put us in the position of saying we can't make decisions they put us here to

Moore said that opponents to the change from office and institutional (O&I) to general business (B-2) were "up in the air" and went to the county commission saying there was evidence the planning board hadn't considered in making its

It's time to be a "Half-pint" hero again.

The University of Montevallo will hold its annual blood drive Wednesday, March 27 from 11:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. in Napier Underground. The drive is sponsored by the UM P.E.

Donors must be between the ages of 17 and 66, weigh at least 110 pounds, and be in good health.

"Giving blood benefits both the recipient and donor," says P.E. Club spokesman Dr. Frank Lightfoot.

Weather

The other side of typical springtime weather is on hand for the weekend according to the National Weather Service. There's a strong chance of showers Thursday, remaining partly cloudy Friday and Saturday. Highs should be between 65 and 70 with lows in the upper 40's.

H<sup>2</sup>O to Deer Springs; library board named

by K.A. Turner

"We did some very positive things out there tonight," Pelham Mayor Bobby Hayes said after Monday's council meeting.

Hayes' comment was prompted in part by two council actions — the purchase of the Deer Springs water system and filling the remaining vacancies on the city's library board.

Pelham agreed to pay the City of Alabaster $134,000 for water lines and equipment in the Deer Springs area within the Pelham city limits.

Alabaster will retain possession of the lines outside of Pelham to the south.

Residents of the Deer Springs area have traditionally been plagued with problems of insufficient water pressure. Pelham's system carries more pressure than the previous set-up, and Hayes said that service in the area would soon be "much bet-

In a public meeting unattended by the public, the Pelham Council divided $105,276 in revenue sharing funds among its city programs.

Only one local resident (and the press) was present at the last of several required public hearings designed to gain input on revenue sharing allocations.

A $47,200 chunk for capital improvements throughout the city was the single biggest allocation for the year. The Pelham library and fire department received the biggest department shares, with police and public works departments also getting parts of the funds.

Code of conduct faring well in county schools

Has the student code of conduct and attendance policy adopted last year by the Shelby County School system achieved its purpose?

The answer appears to be yes.
"It's been widely accepted," said Superintendent of Education Ellie Glasscox. "There are very few parents who haven't felt that it was a step in the right direction."

The purpose of the code adopted last July, is to "assist students, parents, administrators and faculties in maintaining an environment suitable for learning."

Thompson Middle School principal Randy McDonald noted that effective discipline is necessary for learning to take place.

"Here, kids are proud of being in a school where there is order," he said. "They accept discipline as long as it's fair." Parents have also been supportive of the code, McDonald said. "They trust us to paddle children when it's necessary."

The code allows paddling as an alternative to suspension, which could result in a student's failing a grade by missing school.

Shelby County High School principal Bennie Storie said that he thinks the code of conduct is "going over super. It's almost as if the students wanted some direction.

'The code is as good as any school I've been in," said Storie, who came to SCHS last year from Birmingham.

Citing specific examples, Storie said that the no smoking policy has been observed; that not allowing students to eat outdoors has cut down on students going off campus and has also increased participation in the lunch program.

Storie attributes the school's improvement in attendance to the new policy, noting that SCHS has won the attendance award twice this year.

The attendance policy states that students must arrive at school on time; be in each class before the tardy bell rings; bring the necessary books and materials to class; remain in class the entire period.

Glasscox said that one section of the conduct code which has drawn some criticism is in the area of attire.

Shorts cannot be worn in middle or high school, there can be no obscene language or alcoholic advertisements on shirts or pants; hats, caps or sunglasses are forbidden; shoes must be worn at all times, and shirts are to be tucked in.

The bid by Hank's — approved last Wednesday by a special committee of hospital board members, and expected to be signed next week - calls for SMC to pay the company $6,600 per month to operate at least three ambulances in the county.

The contract also calls for SMC to sell to Hank's for $1 each, the two ambulances it now provides to Central Shelby and Harpersville. (If the contract is voided, Hank's pays SMC market value for the vehicles.)

Committee head Pete Raughley said the new contract will save SMC $28,000 a year over present subsidies.

Hank's will also provide its own medical supplies. Presently, SMC reimburses the two local companies.

Hank's owner, Henry H. Tyler, said supplies cost him about $3,000 per ambulance per month. Using that figure, Raughley said that SMC stands to save an additional $72,000 per year by switching to Hank's.

Price has operated his own ambulance out of Alabaster for 11 years, while Gill has been in business in Harpersville for 14 years. Several years ago Hank's stationed an ambulance in Four years ago, SMC began to study problems of 45-minute response times and the lack of ambulance locations. Raughley said hospital officials were concerned because several deaths could probably have been prevented if more ambulances operated in the county.

Because operating costs prohibited adequate coverage by private firms, SMC agreed 17 months ago to buy and equip two ambulances and subsidize Price and Gill $5,500 per month to operate them.

Gill stationed one of the ambulances in Columbiana. Price put the other one at the intersection of Valleydale and Caldwell Mill Roads in North Shelby County.

"At the time we (SMC) went into the ambulance service, it was well justified," said Raughley, who worked on the original SMC ambulance committee.

Contracts with Gill and Price expired in October. Both operators later agreed to a gentleman's agreement to provide services for $4,500 per month.

Raughley said SMC is seeking to tighten spending in all aspects of the hospital, and that's why it took bids on the ambulance service.

Last Wednesday, ambulance committee members Raughley, Eloise Underwood and Tom Lloyd, all hospital board members, met with board members H.A. "Doc" Rubin, Laura Willis, financial director Keith Heartsill, and emergency room director Dr. Marshall Boone.

They heard official proposals from both Hank's, Price and Gill. A third individual withdrew from the bidding.

Price and Gill jointly proposed to lease SMC two ambulances for $1 each, and provide un-subsidized service for a six-month trial period. The proposal called for removing the ambulances from North Shelby and Columbiana and stationing them with the privately owned units in Harpersville and Alabaster, respectively.

By purchasing the two ambulances from SMC and operating them in conjunction with the one based in Pelham, Tyler said Hank's would get "the hospital out of the ambulance business and the liabilities connected therein.'

Hank's also agreed to provide backup services from its other 21 ambulances stationed in Jefferson County whenever one of its three units left Shelby County.

Hank's vice president Archie Powell said the firm would move its Pelham ambulance several miles closer to Alabaster. The two units bought from SMC will be stationed in Columbiana and either at Caldwell Mill and Valleydale, or somewhere near State 119 and U.S. 280.

Tyler said Wednesday that Hank's wants "to insure the bestquality care and transportation for the sick and injured of Shelby County."

Gill said Monday that he will continue to operate his ambulance in Harpersville, but he was displeased with SMC's support of Hank's.

"I think it's wrong. I think we can serve the county as well as another ambulance company," Gill said. "I don't think (Hank's) can, or even will attempt to give service to the rural

As long as he stays in business, Gill said he would provide service to rural areas of eastern Shelby County. However, he said it would be a long-shot if he stayed in business another 14

"There's not a lot of money in it in the sense that you cover a large rural area," Gill said. "But when an ambulance is needed, it's needed.

During the hearing Price and Gill said they could possibly come down to $4,000 each in subsidies.

They said that SMC now charges ambulance medical supplies back to emergency room patients, and the hospital then refurbishes the ambulances.

Lester Young, who heads the Columbiana ambulance crew for Gill, said the committee's decision to go with Hank's was sealed prior to Wednesday's meeting.

Young told the committee that in effect the contract with Hank's is providing three ambulances, while the contract with Price and Gill combined with their privately owned vehicles for a total of four ambulances.

"Are you buying the same service for less money, or less service for less money?" Young asked.

"Five or six years ago you couldn't get another ambulance service here," Young said. "Now there's a little money in it and everybody's beating down the door from another county."

Board member Doc Rubin said that while Hank's proposal sounded good, he had heard about complaints against Hank's

"People we provide a regular service to are generally happy with us," said Powell.

Raughley said the complaints probably weren't justified because with some $265,000 in subsidies going to Price and Gill, Hank's previously had a limited commitment in Shelby

Tom Lloyd said that accepting Price and Gill's proposal would mean pulling service from Columbiana and North

"My feeling is that it would not be wise to give up that coverage," Lloyd said. Raughley said SMC's goal was to have the best service for the best price.

"Whichever way this goes, the hospital and the county will be forever indebted to two pioneers (Price and Gill)," Raughley said before the vote was taken.

A Shelby County judge has ruled that Calera principal Danny Goggins would not suffer a loss of status if he were transferred to Shelby Elementary School. However, the case still isn't resolved.

Circuit Judge Robert Armstrong is asking the state tenure commission to determine whether the transfer was "arbitrarily unjust or for political or personal reasons."

That was the basis for Goggins' appeal which the commission ignored in making its ruling, citing instead loss of status. Armstrong cited several cases showing there was no loss of status involved. Until a final decision is reached in the case, Goggins will remain at Calera High School.

superintendent Ellie Glasscox. "This is a professional problem - not personal, and Danny is professional enough to continue Glasscox noted the indecision does "throw a cloud," over everything though.

Although a transfer to Shelby would reduce Goggins' salary by approximately $4,000, the superintendent explained it was not so much a cut in pay as a reduction in the number of months he would work.

Glasscox said that an elementary school principal works eleven months - a high school principal twelve months.

Randy Stephens, Goggins' AEA appointed attorney, agreed

"I don't worry about it that that it would be to everyone's much," said education advantage to get the case resolv-

"It would be the best thing for Danny, the board, and especially the students," Stephens said.

However, Stephens did not know when the tenure commission might convene to review the evidence in the case.

In May, when the the board voted to transfer Goggins, Glasscox cited a lack of support from the faculty and community. A hearing was held at Goggins' request, and the board stood by its original decision.

Goggins appealed to the state tenure commission, which ruled in his favor.

The board then filed suit against the tenure commission in Shelby County circuit court, leading to Armstrong's ruling.

Hot diggity dog. Sun Harbor has opened a new pet food canning facility in Alabaster.

Located on a five-acre tract on Industrial Road, Sun Harbor Alabama, Inc. currently employs 25 local workers with plans to hire an additional 25 in the near future.

"We're operating at 40 percent capacity now, working one shift, and we plan to be at full production in 90 days," John Anastio told a group of visitors attending the March 9 open house celebration.

Anastio holds a partnership in Sun Harbor Alabama with two other owners, Rich Loughlin and Jordan Miller. Sun Harbor also operates pet food canneries in Texas, and the three partners maintain corporate offices on the West Coast.

The company began processing dog food at its Alabaster plant in January, after purchasing the 20,000-square-foot facility last November from Champion Valley, a division of Campbell Soup.

Current production at Sun Harbor Alabama stands at 5,000 cases of private label products packed daily. That figure will more than double at full production, Anastio said.

Upcoming plant expansion includes construction of a 20,000 square foot warehouse and installation of a new grain system for dry dog food.

A three-hour tour followed the opening ceremony with pet food production experts explaining the canning process to dozens of visitors.

Special guests included former Alabaster mayor H.A. "Doc" Ruben, who served as emcee; State Sen. Frank "Butch" Ellis, who welcomed the facility and cut the grand opening ribbon; Alabaster Police Chief C.E. "Bull" Carter, and realtor Dennis Joseph.

Theda Wilson was hired as office manager, and Linda Newbrough is quality control supervisor. Anastio said a plant manager will be named in the near future.

to the apartments. When the zoing was initially sought last year, the board had pointed several changes that would have to be made first. Noting that the developers had made the necessary changes, the board granted the new zoining.

A student might be referred to juvenile court for nine unjustified absences during a semester, or for a major offense such as drug possession, striking a school employee or possessing a dangeous weapon.

Since the student code of conduct went into effect, the number of court cases have decreased.

A review of the policies will probably be done this summer, Glasscox said, to see if any changes need to be made.

One of the changes that might be considered is in wording used in letters sent to parents after their child missed class five times during a semester.

The letters are a notice that the juvenile court judge is being informed of the absences. Glasscox said that the letter get parents' attention, but they also make them feel threatened.

Editorial Problems on 280

Developers and statisticians have been saying for some time that the 280 Corridor will be a center of intense growth. It's high time someone other than real estate agents paid heed to the predictions.

U.S. 280 is far too important to Shelby County and the Greater Birmingham area to leave its development to chance; to not make sensible plans for tomorrow.

Several corporate-type offices are now being built each year on 280, dumping thousands of commuters onto an already crowded and clogged highway. Indeed, this summer some 1,500 employees of Southern Company Services will begin driving into the county to work in three new offices now being built in Inverness.

According to the 280 Corridor Analysis and Proposals, employment around the highway in North Shelby County alone will jump to some 26,400 people by the year 2000 — that's comparable to the number of people now working on the Southside of Birmingham.

Employment stirs residential construction, and hundreds of apartments, townhouses, condominiums and single family dwellings are now being built. Drawing boards are full of more plans.

That means more people. Indeed, according to one study, the 28,880 people living just in North Shelby County in 1980 will more than double (60,400) in another five years.

Naturally, close on the heels of jobs and homes come commercial development — which heaps even more burden on both the highway and the surrounding countryside.

Growth on 280 is inevitable. And yet what's been done by governing agencies to handle this growth? Certainly not enough.

Part of the reason for this inaction is that jurisdiction over 280 and its adjoining corridor is scattered between state and federal agencies, two county commissions, four or five cities, and at least that many zoning boards. That's a lot of government groups to move in one direction.

The Horizon 280 Association is to be commended for pushing to protect those things which made the corridor desirable in the first place, and for taking such simple yet monumental actions as bringing together a member of the Shelby County Commission and the planning and zoning board.

Zoning is badly needed to control growth on the north side of 280 in Shelby County. Innovative suggestions have been made that would appear fair to all parties involved.

It would be an exemplary move to see the Shelby County Commission take this ball and run with it.

As controversial as zoning can be, what needs to be done to upgrade 280 to handle growing traffic volumes will probably be an even hotter issue. For certain, it will be vastly more expensive than zoning.

None the less, traffic figures demand action. And if action is several years in materializing, then certainly, in fairness to taxpayers and developers alike, the Alabama Highway Department should establish policy. Now.

The problems — challenges, if you will — are there and have been clearly spelled out. So have some of the answers.

The question is, will the highway department, the county commission and other governing groups address these challenges before it's too late and development by chance ruins the 280 corridor?

A "stitch in time" ten years ago on U.S. 280 could have "saved nine" today. While that opportunity has already been missed, it's certainly not too late to take action and lay plans and policy for tomorrow

It's a sure bet that the cost of addressing the problems on 280 are not getting any easier, or any ...D.F.M.

Thanks be to farmers

March 20 is noteworthy for reasons beyond marking the first day of spring. In Alabama and the rest of the nation, Wednesday was observed - or should have been observed — as Agricultural Appreciation Day.

The theme of "The Business of Food and Fiber" was chosen to emphasize that agriculture is the nation's largest industry in terms of employment, share of the national product, and personal spending.

But the state of the business of growing food is not good, and it doesn't take an expert to know that agriculture faces long-term problems.

While we all eat off the farmer, debt, interest rates, and the market place are eating at the industry. It is sincerely hoped that Congress and the President can establish a realistic and workable policy that will keep the farmer — and likewise, all of us — from starving.

In the meantime, while it won't do farmers' credit any good, the least we could all do is thank them for supplying food for our tables. Farmers are a blessing we all too often take for granted. ...D.F.M.

They told me the name of the place. I hadn't heard of it. I couldn't find anybody who had, until I ran into George Porter in front of the B & B Food Mart in Shelby.

George had. He spent close to a hundred years driving big trucks all over the country and somebody said there was one tiny

A little race history

With the lines already forming for the 1986 governor's race -Wallace, McMillan, Baxley, Graddick, Flippo, June Collier, to mention a few — a quick look back on gubernatorial campaigns past might be worthwhile.

Perhaps the most glaring historical precedent of past races for governor is that, contrary to popular notion, it has been of little value to have been elected to some other statewide office before running for governor.

Of Alabama's last 10 elected governors - B.M. Miller, Bibb Graves, Frank Dixon, George Wallace, Jim Folsom, Gordon Persons, John Patterson, George Wallace, Lurleen Wallace and Fob James - only two held any previous state office. Persons had been president of the Public Service Commission; Patterson served as attorney general.

Interestingly, three of the above 10 had never held any political office, local or state, when they were elected governor - Folsom, Lurleen Wallace and Fob James.

What does this mean as far as the '86 campaign is concerned? Probably nothing. But it does seem to prove that just because the voters elect a candidate to a statewide office - lieutenant governor, attorney general, Public Service Commission - it is no guarantee that the same people will elect that candidate gover-

In fact, Buck's Pocket, the burial ground for defeated can didates, overflows with the political remains of former state officials who aspired to be governor.

Perhaps the best known piece of Alabama political trivia is that only one lieutenant governor in state history has ever been elected governor — Thomas E. Kilby of Anniston in 1918. And John Patterson in the only attorney general in this century to be promoted to governor.

Does this mean that Lt. Gov. Baxley and Atty. Gen. Graddick can forget all about being elected governor in 1986? Certainly not, but it must cause them to stay awake at night wondering...

There is still strong evidence that your chances of being elected governor are enhanced if you have made a previous run for the office. It used to be said that a candidate had to make one race for governor "just to get ready to run."

Patterson, Lurleen Wallace and Fob James made a mockery of that rule, but more often than not the winning candidate has indeed run unsuccessfully for the office before - Graves, Dixon, Sparks, Folsom, Persons and George Wallace all fall into that If that rule is applied, then Baxley, McMillan, and of course

Gov. Wallace, would have an advantage in '86.

Baxley ran and lost in 1978; McMillan ran and lost in 1982. Wallace has five races to his credit, and after losing the first is on a four-race winning streak.

Letter to the editor:

Your article last week concerning "no smoking" at Pelham High was interesting for several

First, I wondered how this student's father was even allowed to speak at the Shelby County Board of Education meeting. Persons appearing before the Board must request a place on the agenda, and the person's topic must be of valid concern.

This determination is made by Central Office personnel.

Since the student's actions were in direct violation of school rules, why was the parent allowed to address the Board? Has this set a time-consuming precedent? Will all other parents - unhappy over their child's violation of school rules - be allowed to bring grievances before the Board?

It seems that a principal's office would have been a more appropriate setting for a discussion of this nature.

Dr. Ed Belue, the principal, is striving to make Pelham a school the community can look to with pride. He works hard with students, faculty and parents to coordinate activities of the fastgrowing school. There are many good things happening. How unfortunate that your paper finds it necessary to report things that happened in the past. I can see nothing good coming from 'rehashing' complaints made last year.

The vocal critics of Pelham High will never find anything good to say about it. And they certainly do nothing to help make improvements.

Let us hear more about the positive things happening at Pelham.

Lake surrenders half ton of bass

Lay tourney a whopper

by K.A. Turner At 3 a.m. Saturday morning the anglers started to gather.

Barely visible trailer tires made loud crunching noises in the cool, cloudy air.

Fifteen hours - and a halfton of fish - later, the American Fisherman's Association bass fishing tournament on Lay Lake was wet history.

Over one hundred boats, each carrying two-man teams, left the water near Okomo Marina when the tourney officially started at "safe daylight".

Anglers from throughout the state braved cold winds and a sprinkling rain throughout the day. But adverse conditions did nothing to hinder a pair of local fishermen who brought home the tournament's top string ten fish weighing a total of 33 lbs. 12 oz.

Sterrett's Steve Brasher teamed with Butch Jones of Leeds to bring in that hefty string of bass and land the tourney's top prize of a cool two grand.

Jones landed the big fish of the day - and an additional $395, as well — for his 6 lb. 10 oz. spotted bass.

The tourney, sponsored principally by Coors and Southern Comfort Vans, paid almost $4,000 in prize monies.

Seven other teams finished in the money, bringing in strings weighing over 20 lbs.
Top finishers included:

•Lavon Bentley and Truitt Crumpton of Sylacauga, 22 lbs. 7 oz., $700;

• James Asworth and Joel Mc-Coy of Midfield, 22 lbs. 4 oz., $500;

•Ken Schatz and Martin Eubanks of Birmingham, 22 lbs. 2 oz., $390;

•Jerry Wooten of Okomo and Sam Roy of Bessemer, 21 lbs. 8

 Dan Snider and John Horsley of Gadsden, 20 lbs. 12 oz., $190; • Jim Womack and Gary Epperson of Sylacauga, 20 lbs. 11 oz., $175; •Mike Mitchell and Steve Sherbert of Sylacauga, 20 lbs. 4 oz., $100. Paul Stafford and Gordon

Burdett of Alabaster finished in the tourney's 12th spot with a catch totaling 17 lbs. 11 oz.

John Harris of Chelsea, Carl Glass of Alabaster, and Bill Lewis of Calera were among other county participants in the event.

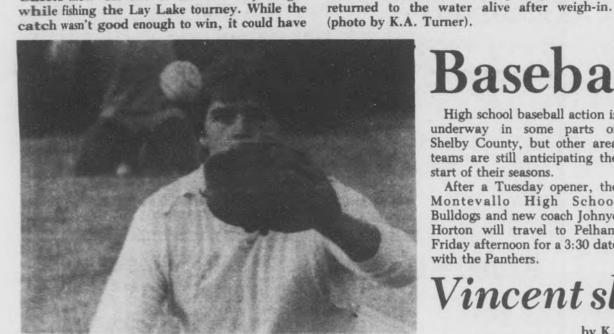

Editor's Note:

J.T. "Johnny" Grimes of Okomo and his son Johnny provided a boat, a guide, fishing insights, and some pleasant conversation during the course of the tournament. Thanks to them

County athletes honored

County athletes are well represented on both all-Metro and all-state teams recently announced by the Birmingham News. Thompson's Chris Thomas, Vincent's Bruce Hamilton, and Calera's Greg Haynes were named to first-team all-state and all-Metro squads in their respective classifications.

Yellowjacket Tony Hamilton received second-team all-state recognition, and Montevallo's Tommy Bivins and Calera's Kenny Marsh were named as honorable mention selections on both the all-state and all-Metro rosters.

Pelham's John North received honorable mention recognition in all-Metro voting.

Fishing with the Masters

The Pelham Bass Masters have set their second annual Lay Lake Tournament for Saturday, March 30, at Okomo Marina. Tournament organizers expect over 300 anglers, and the event guarantees to pay its winner $1,000.

Entry fee is $40 per two-man boat with the tourney set to

Vincent slugs past Pelham in opener

by K.A. Turner

Pelham pitcher Lee Snyder threw out the first ball of the 1985 high school baseball season in Shelby County.

But it was the Vincent Yellowjackets who recorded the first "strike" of the season, handing Pelham a 19-3 setback in an AEA week opener for both teams.

"We hit the ball well," said VHS coach Kenny Wright in what could well be considered an understatement.

Take, for example, four hits (one a homer) and five RBIs, all from George McConnico. Or two homers and three RBIs from Max Whit-

Add that to homers by Derek Whitfield and Cedric Riggins, and two hits each from Reginald Riggins and Heath Reynolds, and you come up with a solid hitting total for the defending state champs. 'They did hit the ball real well," Panther coach Jim Vakakes said.

"But we're going to be OK, also."

John Laird's RBI single scored Nelms for Pelham's first run. Late in the game, back-to-back doubles by Mike Walden and Del Clayton added a second score. Joey Stamba singled to score Clayton from second for Pelham's third tally.

Perhaps the best performance of the day belonged not to a hitter, but to Vincent's veteran pitcher Blaine Shaw.

In recording his first win of the season, Shaw struck out nine and allowed but two hits before Wright decided to give other Jacket hurlers a feel for the mound.

Following the game, Wright called the start a good one for his Vakakes told his players that taking on the defending state champs was a tough first assignment, but assured the Panthers that hard work would make the end of the season very different from their opener.

Safe!

Baseball action in Shelby County slid back into the sports center stage last week as Vincent and Pelham opened the county season. While Pelham's Mike Walden is safe here, scoring from second after a Del Clayton double, the Vincent Iackets pushed more runs across to open their state title defense with a win. (photo by K.A. Turner)

Pelham joins funding forces

Pelham High Athletic and Band Boosters have joined forces for a spring fund-raising project.

Parisian, Inc. will provide a $1,000 wardrobe to the winner of a March 30 drawing. In addition, a Parisian fashion coordinator will help in the selection of the wardrobe. Boosters, band members, athletes, and supporters are currently selling tickets for the wardrobe that will be given away during the Miss Pelham High School contest.

Proceeds will benefit the general funds of both organizations.

"This is the most unique fundraising approach any group at Pelham High has had," said principal Dr. Ed Belue. "The band and athletic boosters are to be congratulated for their fine cooperation.

UM Classic set

West Georgia, Illinois Benedictine, and Baldwin-Wallace College will provide the opposition when the 1985 edition of the University of Montevallo Baseball Classic swings into action Wednesday, March 20.

The Falcons open the tournament with an 8-8 record after losing to Delta State 20-10 Friday at home. Prior to Friday's game UM returned from a fiveday road swing to Georgia and Florida, winning a pair and losing four.

Senior John Daniell currently leads UM in hitting. Daniell has a .418 average and has driven in 22 runs. Tod Bass of Pelham follows Daniell, hitting .360 and leads the club in runs scored with 19.

Wednesday is Montevallo High School and Scouts Night at Johnson Field. MHS students and faculty, along with scouts wearing uniforms, will be admitted free Thursday is set for Civic Clubs and Purple/Gold Day at the ball park. All local civic club members and their spouses, along with anyone wearing something purple or gold get a free pass to the games.

Friday marks county high school teams and Girl Scouts night. Players from county high · schools wearing their team's cap and Girl Scouts in uniform will be admitted free. Saturday, the final day of the classic, is Kid's Day, when elementary and middle school students will be admitted free of charge.

Stallions' Stable

Q: What is the Billy Neighbors Award?

A: The Billy Neighbors Award is given annually by the University of Alabama to the most improved defensive lineman on the Crimson Tide squad. Birmingham Stallions defensive tackle Jackie Cline (98 in white) won the award three consecutive years while playing under Bear Bryant at Bama. Those skills served him well Sunday against another former Crimson Tider, quarterback Walter Lewis (10). Cline and his defensive buddies sacked Lewis 10 times in the Stallions 34-19 win over the Memphis Showboats. (photo by K.A. Turner)

Hall hot, Lovette tops in gym meet

By invitation only... When Shawn Hall of Westover and Clint Lovette of Vestavia sent an affirmative RSVP to the Montgomery Boys Gymnastics Invitational, capital city organizers probably thought little would come from the efforts of the two-man team sent south by Shelby County's Joel Inman Gymnastics Academy.

But when the dust (or friction-aiding hand chalk) had cleared, Lovette walked away with the all-around title in his age division and Hall had placed in five of six events for an overall fifth place finish.

Lovette won the competitions in vault, parallel bars, and floor exercises, placed third in the rings competition, and finished fourth on the pommell horse and horizontal bars.

Hall finished second in the vault, fifth in pommell horse and horizontal bars, and sixth in parallel bars and floor exercises.

Spratlin snagging big fish in Red Man

by K.A. Turner Chelsea's Bill Spratlin is taking up where he left off on the Red Man Tournament Trail.

After finishing among the nation's top fishermen in last year's tourney competition, Spratlin started the '85 season with a third place finish in the Bama Division's opening event at Lake Eufala on Sunday. Spratlin, one of 309 anglers in the event, landed four fish totaling 16 lbs. 6 oz.

In the process, he hooked

$1,015 in prize money. A Mann's auger-tail worm (black and red color) and an Arkie No. 2 jig (Uncle Josh Pork Frog) "lured" the fish onto Spratlin's string.

EXPERIENCE THE JOY OF RELIGION

Jesus, The True God

The Jews understood that Jesus claimed to be God. The Jews did not understand how God could come in flesh. They did not understand Jesus on one occasion when He told them He was the Father (John 8:19-27). However, on many occasions they did understand His claim to be God.

Once when Jesus healed a man on the Sabbath and credited the work to His Father, the Jews sought to kill Him not only because He had broken the Sabbath, but because He said God was His Father, making Himself equal with God (John 5:17-18).

Abraham rejoiced to see His day. When the Jews asked how this could be, Jesus replied, "Before Abraham was, I am." The Jews immediately recognized that He claimed to be I AM the name by which Jehovah had identified Himself in Exodus 3:14 — so they took up stones to kill Him for blasphemy (John was claiming to be the Father (John 10:38-39) When Jesus forgave a palsied man of His sins, the Jews thought He had blasphemed because they knew that only God could forgive sin (Isaiah 43:25). Jesus, knowing their thoughts, healed the man; thereby showing His divine power and proving His diety (Luke 5:20-26). The Jews were right in believing that there was one God, in believing that only God could forgive sin, and in understanding that Jesus claimed to be the one God (the Father and Jehovah). They were wrong only because they refused to believe Jesus' claim.

It is amazing that some people today not only reject the Lord's assertion of His true identity, but even fail to realize what He did assert. Even the Jewish opponents of Jesus realized that Jesus claimed to be God, the Father, and Jehovah, but some today cannot see what the Scriptures so plainly declare. In conclusion, John says in I John 5:20, "And we know that the Son of God is come, and has given us an understanding, that we may know Him that is true, and we are in Him that is true, even in His Son, Jesus Christ. This is the true God and eternal life.

You were born on the first day of Spring. You brought new meaning to our lives as the fresh spring air brings new growth to dry and brittle twigs. As your life unfolded and you began to mature, so did the buds of new life that you gave us. Just as you began to blossom, so were we blooming.

You have been plucked from us, but we will hold the essence of your blossom forever within the foliage that you helped us grow.

Phelps: cross, stitching, computers

by Bert Seaman

Life was looking pretty good to Sam Phelps as he cruised along a Las Vegas street on his Suzuki two-stroke Titan 500 motorcycle.

The warm night air whipped his face as rode back to the photo lab where he worked the 6 p.m. to midnight shift.

In another week, he'd be entering the University of Nevada at Las Vegas as a fulltime student. He was thinking that his life was finally getting back on track again as he approached the red light at the intersection ahead.

That's the last thing he remembered seeing before the Volkswagon ahead of him suddenly turned left without warning, and he plowed into the side of it.

The accident eight years ago could have wrecked Sam's life. Instead it was the beginning of a chain of events in which the 30-year old Wilson-ville man found his wife, an unshakable faith and undertook a unique business venture.

Some might say that it was just coincidence that Sam's life has turned out as it has. Sam prefers to believe that it was God working in his life.

He says it was more than coincidence that a fellow worker reached him after his accident in time to keep the ambulance from taking him to a hospital which was not equipped to handle his head injury.

Without the friend's intervention, Sam doesn't believe that he would have survived.

Even with the best of care, he was in a coma for a week and remained hospitalized for a month after doctors removed a golfball-sized clot from his brain.

His short-term memory loss was only temporary, but other nerve damage resulted in permanent hearing loss in his left ear, and his sense of balance and eyesight were affected too.

After recuperating for nearly a year at the home of his mother, Frances Phelps, who is now mayor of Wilsonville, Sam went to stay with his brother Tony in Pensacola, FL.

"I was mostly a beach bum," he says, "but eventually I started earning $10 - $15 a day taking pictures of people on the beach."

Then Sam started thinking about college again. Prior to going to Las Vegas to seek his fortune, he had studied a couple of years at Emory and Henry College in Virginia.

He took a summer course at West Florida University and made an "A." Now, he was eager to get back in school again fulltime, but the hand of God again intervened.

Beulah Whatley, with the state rehabilitation service back home in Columbiana, had been trying to help Sam get social security or unemployment benefits.

Shortly before he was to enter the Florida university, Whatley learned about a rehabilitation program at Lakeshore program at Lakeshore.

"It was a quality program funded by the state, and I couldn't afford to pass it up," Sam says.

Shoot-out Civil War style

by Bert Seaman

"The past has always been a part of my life," says Montevallo resident Rusty Willingham.

So it seemed only natural when his boss invited him to take part in a Civil War reenactment, that Willingham should accept. He took his wife Sharon along too.

Ever since they participated in their first battle a little over a year ago, the Willinghams have been hooked on doing reenactments.

Their next one is March 31 at Brierfield Ironworks Park when the battle of Bibb Furnace will be fought.

"I take my role in the reenactments seriously," Rusty says. "When I get on the battlefield, I become a Confederate soldier."

The Willinghams are members of the Fourth Alabama Cavalry unit which was under the command of General P.D. Roddey when the battle at Brierfield was founght 120 years ago.

Willingham is a dismounted cavalry soldier, his wife is head nurse of the unit's field hospital.

In real life, Willingham is a radio DJ, and Sharon is doing her residency in psychiatry at UAB.

During next week's reenactment, Willingham says the public will have the opportunity

The Regressive Farm by David F. Moore

I haven't told anyone about this yet, but this is the story of The Fields of Doom, and Hallowed Ground.

It started out innocently enough with me doing something dumb. Really dumb. Saturday week ago, while piddling around with yardtype projects, I poured some leftover chainsaw gas on a few fire ant

The mixed gas kills the ants without even lighting it, but it seemed more like war to toss a match on the mound. You know, teach the ants a lesson...

PLAYING WITH FIRE

Actually, this is called playing with fire. My dad and mom always told me not to do this. So did my scout masters, Smokey the Bear and my wife. But this time Dee was in on it with me, and neither Smokey nor anyone else was there to tell a grown man and woman what to

As we lit the second mound a sudden gust of wind caught the flames and spread them quickly to a few nearby stalks of tall broom

Immediately, we started stomping flames, but the wind and dry grass were not on our side. The fire was quickly larger than our feet. We turned on the water faucet and started dragging several attached sections of hose over to the fire. It was still spreading, but not so quickly that the hose couldn't handle it. However, modern science has proven that the longer the hose, the more likely the chance of it getting tangled. So, naturally enough, with a fire buring, the hose got tangled. Giving it a pull accomplished only two things: it broke the plastic couplings at the faucet and again halfway down the length of hose. No hose. No water. Plenty of fire.

Other than not blowing toward the house, the wind gave us no

We got worried. Fast. We got rakes and shovels and a swing mercy. It whipped the fire and it burned bigger and faster. Blue and Jo Ann Barnes, who are building a house two fields away from us, saw the fire and at first figured we were purposely burning off the field. Then they decided to check it out, and drove up with Ben King in his jeep.

CAN YOU SAY "HELP!"

They saw Dee and me running and swatting and raking. We yelled for you-know-what and they quickly pitched in. Ben even started yelling and doing an Indian rain dance.

"I guarantee it won't burn anything but this field," said Blue, stepping back from the flames with his shovel. "It'll be all right,

The crackling was growing louder by the minute. Maybe Blue was right, but I wasn't ready to guarantee anything.

"It won't burn past the Coosa River," Ben suggested. "That's exactly what I'm worried about," I said. "The river's a mile away. Besides, this is my fire. I feel very responsible for it." I called the sheriff's office and the dispatcher called the fire department.

Several other neighbors had come up by now, including Louis Atkinson, Glenda Stewart, and her mother and baby daughter. We worked hard and furious and were successful in keeping the fire from spreading near the house. But there was no stopping the lateral movement of the fire as the wind blew it across the field of tall dry grass.

IT WAS SCARY

It was scary. It was humbling.

There was nothing in the world I could do to stop the crackling flames. The more the fire burned, the more it sucked air down to the gound and back into itself. At points the fire became an inferno. sounding much like a blast furnace at US Steel, or perhaps an locomotive thundering down the tracks spewing sparks and smoke.

Dee and I both felt about the size of ant hill, only not as smart. Shortly, Columbiana Chief Johnny Farr and Red Vanderslice pulled up in a fire truck, and Scotty Edwards and Danny Edwards, and later Chief Davey Edwards pulled drove over from Wilsonville.

To make matters brief, Johnny and Red lit a backfire from the far end of the field, then wet down the grass behind it. The others stopped the fire at the upper rear corner of the field.

In 30 minutes or so they were gone, and so were Blue, Jo Ann, Ben and the others. Louis stayed for a while longer.

We watched the last patches of fire burn until almost dark, then we snuffed them out and Louis left.

Dee and I, worn to a frazzle both emotionally and physically, stood in the gloom surveying four or five acres of our not-sohandiwork. We felt badly. Very badly.

As always, things could have been worse. Suppose, we said, that good people had not come to our aid? Suppose the wind been blowing in another direction?

Besides, everyone said the field would grow back even prettier than before. We were fortunate, too, in that the fast burning grass fire had not damaged the 10 young pecan trees growing in the field. "On top of that, we got the ants," I commented, but it wasn't very

FIELDS OF DOOM, AND HALLOWED GROUND

Walking to the house we passed a rectangular island of unburned green weeds scattered with dead okra stalks and old tomato stakes. looked rather peculiar, surrounded as it was by the sea of black scorched grass which I dubbed The Fields of Doom. "That's where my garden was last year," I exclaimed. "It didn't burn.

"Ben King said it must be hallowed ground." "Maybe it is..."

So now it's spring. That means rebirth to me. Those things which died in the great cycle of the seasons will again come to life.

In time, The Fields of Doom will grow green, the world will again turn beautiful and give forth life. Even the wascally wabbits which evacuated during the fire can return to their crispy homes.

In time, my garden will also grow again. Thanks to the fire, that will come even sooner than it would have otherwise. I mean, one doesn't just ignore hallowed ground.

The very next day (without mentioning the fire) I borrowed Mr. Roto Tiller from Dee's dad, Ballard Abercrombie. Tuesday, after sending a newspaper to press, I borrowed John Jones' old green truck from his sons.

Louis Atkinson told me I could borrow some manure (does he want it back?) from his cattle stalls across the road. Believe it or not

I tackled the project with relish - well, actually with a shovel. As the sun dropped behind the scortched field last Tuesday, I tilled up my hallowed garden patch, turing under the manure and churning it up with the good rich earth.

Life will return. Something green will grow from the Fields of Doom. Then Dee and I will feel much better.

Making it with Mental Health!

Sexual Addictions & Deviations Satyriasis & Nymphomania

In recent years social scientists have begun to study the addictive personality. Some of us see a set of basic personality traits underlying all types of addictive behaviors: chemical abuse, compulsive overeating, smoking, "workaholism", and, yes, even various sexual problems. One situation that comes to mind is that of a young couple I knew beset by serious sexual difficulties. The husband's sexual appetites were insatiable with the wife reporting having to yield to three to five episodes of intercourse every day and more frequently if she had not resisted. Obviously these kinds of demands would put a strain on most marriages.

Satyriasis is the clinical term sometimes used to describe uncontrollable sexual desire or activity by a male. The couterpart condition in the female is called nymphomania. Both terms are controversial due to wide individual variations of sexual behavior. In Greek mythology the Satyr was a half human, half goat creature given to lewd and wanton behavior.

When a male or female centers his or her life around sexual activity as 1. A means of compensating for feelings of inadequacy; 2. andor as an escape from various problems and frustrations; then these terms become reality.

Host foreign student for family experience

Mailbag:

It has been our pleasure to host a lovely young lady from Norway named Torunn Feragen. She will be celebrating her 18th birthday here in the United States on March 23rd. Torunn has been attending Thompson High School as a senior, making good grades and playing in the band. She also performs in the Alabama Youth Symphony Wind Ensemble.

The Mulrooney family has certainly enjoyed having Torunn in our home and we have tried to expose her to many American customs, travel, sightseeing, culture and art. The American celebrations that we take so for granted such as Halloween, Thanksgiving and Valentine's Day are new to these Hosting an exchange student is certainly a very rewarding experience for both the student as well as the American family. Our family has become very involved in the Educational Foundation for Foreign Study and would be glad to talk with any families in the Shelby County area who would like information on hosting an exchange student for the 1985-86 school year.

Please feel free to call us at 663-3339 any evening. Share your home with an exchange student... it's a most rewarding experience for the

Cobb receives scholarship award

Rebecca Cobb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Cobb Jr. of Longview is a winner of the national United States Achievement Academy award.

Cobb, who attends Thompson High School, received the award for English and student council work. She was sponsored by Carolyn Neilson, her English teacher and Debbie Seales, student government sponsor.

Cobb will appear in the U.S. Achievement Academy Official Yearbook, published nationally.

Chelsea student wins Beef Cook-off contest

Robin Bullock of Chelsea High School is the winner of the Senior High Beef Cook-off. Bullock won with her receipe for "Beef Roll-ups."

She will participate in the State Beef Cook-off in Montgomery in April.

The Beef Cook-off is sponsored by the local CowBELLES Chapter and the State CowBELLES Association.

If you're hungry and curious, here's Bullock's winning receipe:

BEEF ROLL-UPS 2-lbs. boneless beef roast 1 oz. can mushrooms l cup can mixed vegetables 14-1/2 oz. can of beef broth 2 pkgs. onion gravy 1 med. pkg. wide egg noodles 1/4 cup oil salt, pepper and garlic to taste. 1) Slice roast into three slices. 2) Salt, pepper and garlic to taste. 3) Divide one cup mixed vegetables, and one oz. can mushrooms. 4) Roll meat and secure with cooking cord.

5) Place in a deep pan with 1/4 cup oil, brown both sides. 6) Cover with beef broth. 7) Steam and cook until tender. 8) Cook noodles as directed on package, add butter to keep from boiling

9) Prepare onion gravy as directed. 10) After meat is done prepare on serving dish, pour onion gravy over meat, surround with noodles. Garnish with fresh mushrooms cut in half, green olives and parsley.

CF names local leaders

The Cystic Fibrosis Foundation, Alabama Chapter, has signed several local people to spearhead a fund-raising campaign.

Cystic fibrosis is at present incurable and fatal in every case. The money raised by this campaign will help support research programs and medical care to lengthen the lives of all lungdamaged children through the over 120 CF centers in the U.S.

Leading the campaigns throughout Shelby County are: Rita Pettigrew, Helena; Faye Mills and Bunny Marcus, Calera; Martha Waugh, Spring Creek; Frances Phelps, Wilsonville; and Harriet Jackson, Wilton.

Fund-raisers will include bazaars and a bike-a-thon, as well as other events. The campaign will take place during April.

Libraries showcase

Girl Scouts

by Nancy Woosley Shelby County Library Director

Girl Scouting was show-cased at the public libraries of Shelby County during "Girl Scout Week," March 10-16.

The popular image of a typical Girl Scout of just a generation ago would bear only a slight resemblence to the Girl Scout of 1985.

Today's scouts are studying computer technology, learning about the environment and the ecological balance, exploring the universe by telescope, and getting on-the-job experience through Girl Scouting's career education programs.

The county girls celebrated 73 years of Girl Scouting with all new learning experiences, expanded personal horizons, community services and friendships open to them through their participation.

Yet, in all these exciting ventures the accent is still on plain old fun! In fact, the theme for Girl Scout Week this year was "The Best Part's the Fun."

The cookie display, featuring an old-fashioned store front appearance, points up one of the more recognized projects the girls undertake each year. Other displays in the libraries highlighted such activities as camping, first aid, and general troop community involvement.

'Thursday was our big day," says Penny Benington, leader of Troop 222, who coordinated efforts at Pelham's Library.

"We taught finger knitting and other crafts, as well as how to lay a fire, first aid for choking victims, and the Girl Scout songs

Shelby Medical Center's Outpatient Services save you time and money.

At our Outpatient Diagnostic/Treatment Center you can have tests or treatment with all the advantages of full hospitalization, but without the cost and inconvenience of an overnight stay.

You just spend a few hours away from your family or job, but you receive the same quality care you would as a hospital inpatient. And if you're scheduled for a surgical procedure, we'll follow up with a phone call the day after to make sure no complications have arisen.

Since our Outpatient Diagnostic/Treatment Center is located right in our hospital, we have the entire hospital as back-up. If an emergency should arise, it's comforting to know help is just down the hall.

Another outpatient service offered by Shelby Medical Center is patient education. You can have counseling on weight control, smoking cessation, special diets, as well as many other health problems.

Just remember, at our Outpatient Center our main objective is to provide cost-effective medical procedures and personalized service in a caring hospital atmosphere.

SMC turns profit;

signs Denton contract

by David F. Moore

The Shelby Medical Center board voted March 7 to accept and ign a two-year contract with its new administrator, Charles L. Denton.

"Chip" Denton.

Denton officially starts his job Thursday. March 14.

Along with the fresh ink on Denton's fresh contract, the board also noted that the ink on the bottom line of its financial statement for hospital operations has changed from red to black.

According to SMC financial director Keith Heartsill, unaudited financial statements show that SMC has turned a $104.522 profit for the year-to-date begining Oct. 1.

Last year, Shelby Medical Center showed a $400,000 loss from its operational revenues, marking a nearly $1 million swing to the neglitive over the previous year's profits. However, investments on taxes to pay off construction bonds ($1.2 million) and other investments boosted the bottom. Jine figure to $1.2 million in the black.

The course in computer programming was designed to train people for a new line of work after accidents or handicaps had left them unable to pursue their former occupations.

Because my balance was out of whack, I had to rely on visual cues and I couldn't work in a darkroom anymore," Sam says. The loss of this occupation qualified him for the Lakeshore program.

If he hadn't gone to Lakeshore, chances are that Sam would never have met Wanda, the woman who would become his wife. A member of the Mennonite Church in Pennsylvania, she had come to Lakeshore to do volunteer work.

After graduating from the computer program and winning the award as the outstanding student, Sam hopped a plane to Pennsylvania where he married Wanda.

The couple settled on the Southside of Birm-

He was pretty happy-go-lucky in his bachelor days, Sam says, but Wanda brought him to the realization that he needed Chirst in life.

"It wasn't long after that, that a friend invited us to Shades Mountain Independent Church, where I accepted Christ."

Sam started job hunting and the unseen hand again seemed to lead him.

During a visit to the the employment aid office at UAB, he happened to notice a 3x5 card advertising a job opening at Sanders Systems. The job was for a beginner level programmer. Sam applied, took the required tests and landed the job.

The inspiration for the business he is now developing, came while Wanda was expecting their first child.

"She wanted to cross-stitch a coverlet for the baby's bed, but she didn't know how to do

"I used to be out of grade school for a week at a time with asthma attacks, and mom showed me how to do crewel and cross-stitch to keep me busy.

When Wanda mentioned the coverlet, Sam says it suddenly occurred to him that a computer could draw a cross-stitch graph and reproduce patterns.

"I knew the capabilities of computers and I knew color technique from my days as a color photo printer. Then too, I was familiar with needlework. I don't think all that was just coincidence...

Things continued to fall into place.

"There I was, just leafing through a professional journal at the optometry clinic where I was waiting to have my eyeglass prescription changed," he says. In the journal he found a reference to a company that made the type of equipment he needed for the business idea growing in his mind. Sam got the specifications and he and his slightly older brother, David, discussed the project. "David had had several years experience in the computer field and had the technical know-how," Sam says. "He thought it was feasible."

Just when everything seemed to be going well, lightning struck again in the form of an accident. A van struck David, causing severe head and bodi-

Without David's help, Sam thought the idea for the business would be doomed.

But Sam's mother wasn't about to let her son's dream go down the drain.

Several months later, when David was able, Frances signed up the boys and herself for a small business seminar sponsored by UAB and the Veterans' Administration.

It gave them all the essential knowledge needed to start a business, and it and spurred them on with the project.

One of the biggest stumbling blocks they encountered was local financing. Again, the unseen hand pointed the way.

"There was another miracle - two boys, one recovering from a fractured skull, the other from being hit by a van. They had a pie-in-the-sky idea about doing something with a computer that no one else had ever done. And no money to back to it

Their accountant, Wilma Finn, introduced them to a banker whose wife was a crafts expert. He talked to her and she knew it would work, Sam says. "We got the money."

Before leaving town to do research at Georgia Tech, David wrote the necessary computer program to turn the artwork into cross-stitch pat-

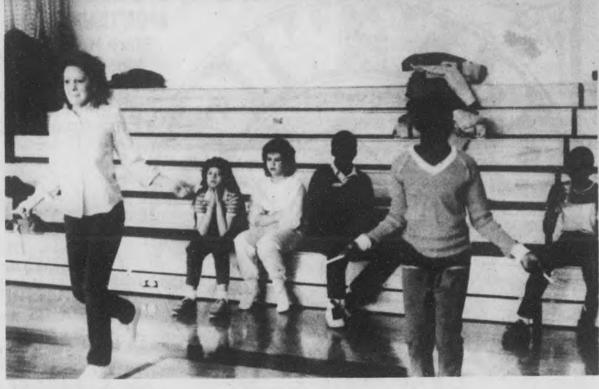

Now the video camera, the computers and the printer are in place in a bedroom at Sam's Wilsonville home.

He's been filling orders on a limited basis, using photographs and slides customers send to reproduce cross-stitch patterns.

The Phelps hope that the big push for orders will come this spring when the business begins advertising in a needlework publication.

Beyond economics, Sam says that as more people learn about his business, it gives him increased opportunities to witness to his faith. That, he says, is not coincidence.

"The way it's been going," he says, "it seems that the more I praise God, the more He blesses."

Commissioner to ask for district vote

Eight years ago, Shelby County began electing county commissioners on a county-wide basis. Commissioner Harold Davenport did not favor the move then, and wants to change it now.

Davenport plans to ask the commission to adopt an election by district system for the four commission seats.

The move is prompted by Davenport's feeling that district election is preferable to running county-wide, and preferable to a discrimination lawsuit from the Alabama Democratic Conference.

Davenport indicated that the ADC is putting pressure on several county officials to re-instate district elections.

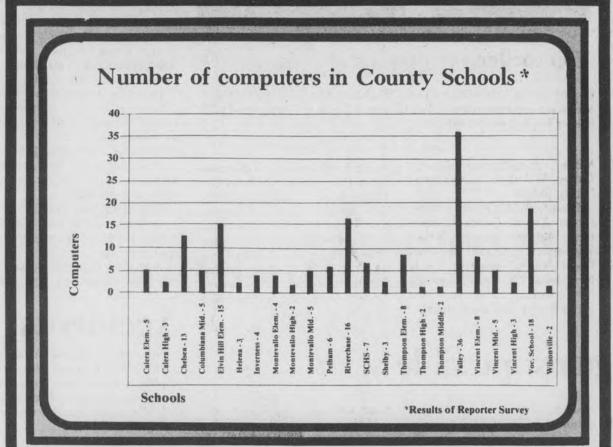

Davenport said he favors districts based on equal population by census tract. But such districts would vary vastly in size, and that concerns Commissioner Leon Archer.

Archer said the system would make district four huge, and cause road work to be a problem. The rural district would have more roads than smaller, more populated districts, he said.

Commissioner Gregg Rushton said district voting would increase polarity already existing in the county.

Rushton said each commission vote affects not just one district, but the whole county, and that all voters should have some control over each commissioner.

Archer and Rushton doubted a discrimination suit would hold in ## Computer numbers to jump

by Bert Seaman

There are 175 computers in Shelby County schools. But the majority of the students in most schools still do not have a chance to use the equipment.

In most cases, computers are only available to students in enrichment classes or the Chapter I reading program.

This situation is about to change - at least for 8th grade students.

A grant from the state totalling $139,273, will allow the Shelby County Board of Education to purchase 118 computers for eighth graders. The computers will be distributed according to school enrollments.

The computers are expected to be delivered within six weeks, but will probably not see classroom action until fall.

Blood supply critical

Critical shortages of C+ and O- blood have caused the cancellation of at least two planned open heart surgeries in Birmingham.

Shelby County Red Cross volunteer coordinator Celia Etheridge said nurses will be on hand Friday at the Alabaster chapter house to accept blood donations from 12:30-6:30 p.m.

Besides the crucially needed O+ and O- blood types, Etheridge said Red Cross inventories are also low on B+

Despite the shortages at Red Cross headquarters in Birmingham, Etheridge said the regular Friday blood drives have been successful at the Shelby County chapter house. Last Friday, 44 pints of blood were donated, she said. For more information: 663-4290.

Crop insurance deadline

March 31 is the deadline for Shelby County farmers to apply for federal crop insurance for corn, cotton, soybeans and

Three levels of insurance are offered (50, 60 or 75 percent), as well as a new plan called Actual Production History (APH).

The new plan allows farmers to qualify for higher yield guarantees at reduced premiums, by proving the aboveaverage yield histories.

Legislators in Helena

Senator Frank C. "Butch" Ellis, and Representative John Tanner, will be available to listen and discuss current issues next week in Helena.

The public meeting will be at 6 p.m., Monday, April 1, at the city hall.

Watch rescue birdie

Columbiana area residents who donated to Rescue 88 during its recent portrait fund raiser will be able to have their pictures taken this Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Photographers will be at the Columbiana Recreation building behind the high school from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m., Friday through Sunday, March 29-31. Donators to the rescue unit can present their coupons at the door for their family Rescue 88 spokeman Mike Atchison said that coupons will also be available at the door. A $10 donation entitles a family to use the coupons for a free portrait.

The National Weather Service predicted a breezy Wednesday with temperatures in the mid-70°s. Thursday holds a chance of thunder showers. Friday should be partly cloudy with the chance of thunder showers back by Saturday.

Lows later in the week will run in the 50°s, with highs in the upper 60°'s to lower 70°'s. Saturday is expected to be some 50-100 cooler.

County approves work for roads in 3 districts

by K.A. Turner

The Shelby County Commission has approved road resurfacing projects for 1985 in three of the four commission districts.

Monday, the commission adopted projects in districts two, three, and four. In each district, commissioners teamed with county engineer Gary Ray to settle on the best use of their portion of the $700,000 available for resurfacing pro-

Commissioner John Ames asked that the projects be approved in the Monday meeting despite the fact that district one projects have not been finalized. Ames said he had been receiving calls from residents wondering what projects would be approved.

District One Commissioner Gregg Rushton, who was not in office when proposals first began to be studied last December, is expected to finalize his proposals and ask for approval at the April 8 commission meeting. Approved resurfacing projects include:

•County 15 from Co. 22 south to State 119; •County 12 from Co. 22 north to Co. 87;

•County 26 from Co. 17 east to State 119:

1-cent tax on

by K.A. Turner

Shelby County is set to get $500,000 in federal revenue sharing money this year. But if President Ronald Reagan is successful in curtailing the program, the county will loose money.

To buffer the loss, Commissioner John Ames wants a 1-cent local tobacco tax pass-

Man shot in hunting accident

by Bert Seaman

Tommy Dale Hanner of Columbiana left home early last Wednesday morning, anxious to shoot his first turkey of the season. However, it was Hanner who was shot.

Danny Thornburg of Shelby accidentally shot Hanner when the Columbiana man appeared suddenly from the direction in which Thornburg had been calling a turkey.

Although Hanner says his body is still sore, he was released Sunday from Shelby Medical Center where doctors removed some of the numerous pellets that hit him in his chest, hands, legs and feet.

Recounting the accident, Hanner says that he and his brother, Johnny Davis, were walking down Sweater Swamp Road in Shelby around 6:30

Can you spell... bivouac?

If there are any better spellers in Shelby County than Montevallo's Jason Hughes and Chelsea's Jennifer Nelson, may have yet to be discovered.

Jason, a sixth grader at MMS, is now a two-time winner of the Birmingham Post-Herald spelling bee which was held Thursday at the Board of Education office in Columbiana.

Jennifer, a seventh grader at Chelsea, was the top speller in the Capitol spelling bee last year, and finished second in Thursday's contest.

Spellers from 17 public and private schools were eliminated in the 45-minute county-wide event, leaving Jennifer and Jason as the final contestants.

'Bivouac" was the word that tripped up Jennifer. Jason spelled it correctly and the final word, "brachiate," to win the contest.

Members of the central office staff who contributed their services to the event were: Gayle Robbins; coordinator, Glenda

Frank Owen, a councilman and gas board member, said he didn't vote to have the board's former name returned. But he admitted that it was probably the best thing to do at the present time because it was a utility board in name only.

However, he called the move a step backward. "We went to a lot of trouble to form a utility board," he said, "and I hope we get another shot at it someday.

With the city's new IBM computer being installed this week, the council voted to spend $1,965 on a new air conditioning unit to keep it operating efficiently.

The council agreed to use small claims court to collect overdue garbage payments, beginning with the largest bills.

In an attempt to prevent the present situation from happening again, an ordinance is being considered to give the city the authority to impose a fine for non-payment.

Wilsonville cleanup good example for all

There are more important things in the world than putting on airs and putting up fronts. As the old saying notes, physical beauty and outward appearances don't go particluarly deep.

But to a certain large degree, these points can be discarded when it comes to cities and towns and the way that they look.

If a city does not want to grow and prosper, then making itself unattractive to outsiders could certainly be its first line of defense.

Conversely, if a city does want to prosper and grow, if a city does want to attract new business and build a sound tax base to fund services to its citizens, then certainly presenting an attractive front to outsiders should be top priority.

Of course having a trained workforce, available land, utilities and other incentives are all paramount if a community hopes to entice new business growth. But it's a sure bet that if one never gets to first base, they won't score - and that holds true for attracting business, as well as for baseball.

In light of this, the Town of Wilsonville is to be commended for initiating a cleanup campaign for the month of April.

It would appear that Bertha Cosper, Mayor Frances Phelps and other city officials have hit upon a good idea, and are getting off to a good start.

Beyond making the town attractive to potential new businesses and residents, a successful cleanup campaign in Wilsonville - or anywhere else, for that matter - will achieve another important benefit. It will generate an even stronger sense of civic pride than that which already exists.

Strong civic pride is an asset to which no dollar sign can be attached. And even if no new business makes Wilsonville its home as a direct or indirect results of the campaign, the project will still benefit those who already make their homes there.

In the end, the overall success of the cleanup program will hinge on the civic pride that Wilsonville residents already possess. The Reporter is glad to support that pride and hopes that it turns out to be very contagious in both Wilsonville and the rest of the county as well.

North Shelby library not a pipe dream

Many pipe dreams merely go up in smoke.

However, at this point it would appear that the proposed North Shelby County Library will not be such a

The Friends group in North Shelby has done an admirable job of taking the library from the "what if" stages, to the drawing board where it is today (see story and plans starting on Page X-1).

As this newspaper has stated before, building a library in North Shelby County would - in much the same way as the schools, churches, civic clubs and fire department have done to varying degrees - go a long way towards creating a focal point for an emerging sense of community in an important part of the county.

Without this sense of focus, this thread of community bond, North Shelby County would be little more than a scattering of subdivisions, a pile of patches yet to be quilted together.

We hope residents of North Shelby will continue to support the efforts of the Friends in any way they can. Likewise, we hope area business leaders will make a model of the Selma businessman who tentatively agreed to donate the cost of half the building materials needed for the proposed building.

The library has made great strides in reaching the drawing board stage, but much work is left to be done.

Without more work, without community support, the North Shelby County Library could become just another dream gone up in smoke. And that would be a loss for all of Shelby County.

Turning in checks

It was hardly a surprise that the very first bill to pass the 1985 legislative session and be sent to the governor for signature was the so-called "Ralph Adams Relief Bill."

Specifically the measure would allow any public education employee to work beyond the mandatory retirement age of 70 if approved by the hiring agency.

While it would apply to any school employee teacher, custodial worker, college professor, you-name-it the most prominent beneficiary of the new law will be Dr. Adams, the colorful as well as controversial president of Troy State University

Adams will reach 70 this June, but somewhat like another president — Ronald Reagan — he is still hitting on all cylinders. He especially wants to remain as the TSU main man until 1986 when the university observes its 100th birthday. The passage of this law makes it certain that he will indeed be around for the centennial.

The question has been asked as to why this measure has been described as constitutional when the publicized "Bear Bryant Retirement Bill" of several years ago was not valid. There is a big difference in the two measures. The Bryant plan limited the 70-year extension to University of Alabama employees only. The Adams bill applies to all education employees.

What may likely happen is that a move may soon be launched to give the same right to all other state employees.

The quick passage of the Adams bill was anticipated for a couple of powerful political reasons. One, Dr. Adams is exceedingly close to Gov. Wallace, which means Wallace people in the Legislature favored the bill; secondly, the AEA supported the bill. Wallace and AEA make up an unbeatable combination.

Odds and ends: A final footnote on the Legislature's paid recess at Christmas time, a recess that disturbed a lot of folks, including this writer. The legislators finally got their checks last week. $1,105. And to add small insult to injury, because of the delay resulting from the lawsuit, they also got an extra $14 or so in in-

For the record, 17 of the 140 members turned their checks back to the state. They were, in case you want to remember in the 1986 election: Sens. Dial of Lineville, Dixon of Montgomery, Drinkard of Gadsden, Ellis of Columbiana, Foshee of Andalusia, Little of Auburn, B. Smith of Huntsville, J. Smith of Huntsville and Teague of Childersburg; and Reps. Grouby of Prattville, White of Homewood, Coleman of Arab, Drake of Cullman, Poole of Moundville, C. Smith of Clanton, Holley of Elba and Warren of Others have indicated they will give some or all of their recess bonus to charity.

Help for U.S. 280 will come too late - naturally

Letter to the editor:

I read the editorial, Problems on 280. The editorial is correct but the 280 Horizon Association has a problem that I feel it will have difficulty overcoming.

What I am about to say will not be liked by many, if any. But I think I understand the situa-

The residents of east Shelby County (I still consider myself one) are very clandestine people.

The political system is the same. The laws are immaterial. The residents of this area go back 200 years. We - they - do not want change. I left because of change. People become greedy, selfish and uncaring. Not all are this way but the disease in prevalent.

What's right or wrong is never decided. I'm not saying that east Shelby County is different from other places in America. I just happen to have 60 years experience in this area. Zoning is badly needed! Incorporation is badly needed! Better educated people need to be elected and appointed. It won't be done! Forget about what's fair!

If what I've read and what the Planning Commission want is true in perspective - which I feel is right — then these things must be done against the will of east Shelby Countians. The question posed by your editorial is, will the highway department, the County Commission, water boards, city councils, church groups and others address these challenges before it's too late?

I'll answer it with one word.

Why? They will be voted out of office and ostricized. Time will do it but not in time for what needs to be done.

Valley gets review

by David F. Moore

The chairman of the 10-year accreditation review team that visited Valley Elementary last week had high words of praise for the school.

"The team has found a wonderful program here," said Odell Grady of Trussville. "Some of the members said they had never seen so much going on educationally, and so much community involvement in a

He called it "unusual" to see the teachers at Valley helping each other with lessons and plans.

"One of them told me, this is a family affair," said Grady, a native of Montevallo, now retired from the state board of education and living in Trussville.

The chairman also complimented Valley principal Dr. Norma Rogers, saying "the school is no better than the principal.'

Valley was one of the first schools in Shelby County to be accredited by the Southern Association. Last week marked the 10-year review of that original accreditation.

Shelby improves rates

Shelbys 22-man volunteer fire department has recently aquired an 8/9 fire insurance rating.

"That means that somebody has been working mighty hard," said volunteer fireman Ermon

"It has taken a lot of time," Willis said, "but it's been well worth it."

The rating, which goes into effect April 1, will cut insurance premiums for Shelby residents by 31 percent, Willis said.

"By this time next year we're hoping to get the rates even lower," he said.

In order for that to happen however, Willis said that community support is needed.

Thompson tops Vincent, Chelsea to take win

Batter's-eye view

by K.A. Turner

The Thompson Warriors recorded wins over Vincent and Chelsea to post the best record in their own round-robin baseball tournament Saturday.

"We had a real good weekend," THS coach Billy Woodham said after the all-day event at Alabaster's Buck Creek Field. "We hit the ball real

The Warriors scored 23 runs in the two games, handing Chelsea a 14-2 setback and beating Vincent 9-2.

Vincent beat Chelsea 13-2 in the third tourney game.

The Warriors got strong pitching performances during the day, Kenny Johnson looking particularly good in taking the win against Vincent. But it was the Warriors' bats that had opponents talking.

"They really beat the ball," Vincent's Harold Garrett said. "They are a strong, strong hitting team."

The strongest of the strong, at least on Saturday, was Harold Threatt. The junior third baseman blasted two homers in the win over Chelsea, one a three-run shot and the second a grand slam.

Threatt picked up an additional RBI against Vincent, giving him eight on the day.

Thompson jumped to an early lead in the tourney's final game with Vincent, a battle of the unbeatens at the time.

The Warriors scored three in the first and four in the second to take a commanding 7-0 lead, then swapped Vincent two runs later in the contest for the 9-2 final win.

Shane Horrell (four of six with a homer), Richard Kidd (three of six), and Tom Hummel (three run homer) led the Warriors at the plate against the Jackets.

Kenny Johnson took the win for Thompson, while Vincent's Blaine Shaw took the loss.

At the plate for the Jackets, Reginald Riggins went three of three including a solo homer, and Cedric Riggins added two hits in three trips to the plate.

Both Thompson and Vincent scored a lot of runs against the Chelsea Hornets, but coach Lee Hibbs still managed to see some positive points in his team's first performance of the year.

"We went into these like practice games," Hibbs said. "I wanted to get a look at six pitchers, and ended up seeing seven. We played a bunch of people, and we hit the ball at times better than I expected."

Thompson jumped to an early lead against Chelsea in the first game of the day, then coasted to win behind the pitching of Tony Richardson.

Richardson struck out five in four innings of work.

Tim Williams and Jeff Kendrick saw most of the pitching duty for the Hornets. Leaders at the plate included Williams (double and two RBIs), Robby Reese and Mike Fant.

Vincent's Reginald Riggins led off the second game of the day with a solo homer, and the Jackets played long ball with Chelsea from that point.

Riggins' homer was part of a two of two plate performance that produced three runs. In addition, Riggins went the distance to gain a win in the contest, striking out 11 and walking only

Derek Whitfield also wielded a big bat for the Jackets, clubbing a home run and two doubles in four trips to the plate. Blaine Shaw went one of two one the day, the hit a double.

Mike Wehby and Robby Reese saw most of the mound action for Chelsea, Jeff Kendrick providing most of the offensive

Chelsea scored both of its runs in the 7th, trailing 12-0 at that point, when Kendrick and Scott

Fortner each successfully completed hit and run plays for

County diamond action

Freeman Rutledge went the distance to get the win as the Montevallo Bulldogs downed Vincent 6-5 in their season

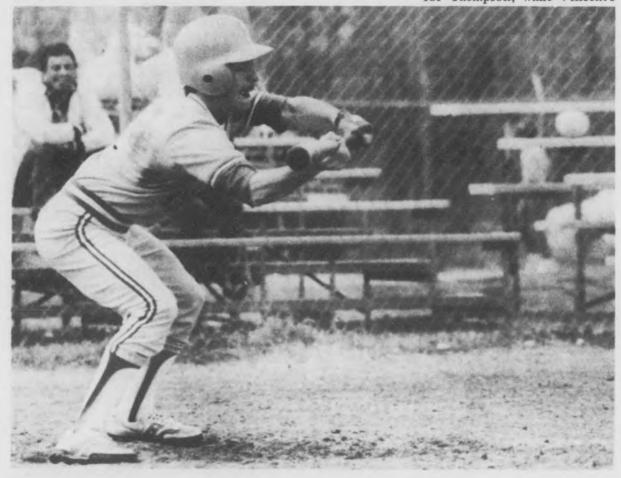

Rutledge recorded 12 strikeouts and limited Vincent to only two hits in taking the win.

Rutledge also got the gamewinning RBI in the bottom of the seventh as he singled home the winning run off Vincent's

New MHS coach Johnye Horton credited Andy Anderson with a good night at the plate.

Rain was the big winner in the rest of county action last week. The weather got Briarwood's season opener against St. Clair County, and nipped an inter-county clash between Pelham and Montevallo.

Area cyclists back on track at Oak Mountain BMX

Area cyclists again faired well as the Oak Mountain BMX track opened its curves and jumps for a second day of 1985 competition last Saturday.

Pelham's Brad Birdwell, the national number one in his expert age division, proved why he attained that top ranking last season, winning the three classes he entered in his first run of the season at Oak Mountain.

Birdwell won the 13 expert class, the 12-13 open class, and the competition's only cruiser

Brian King won the 15 expert class, Jimmy Fortenberry won the 14 expert class, and Jason Fortenberry won the 10-11 expert class.

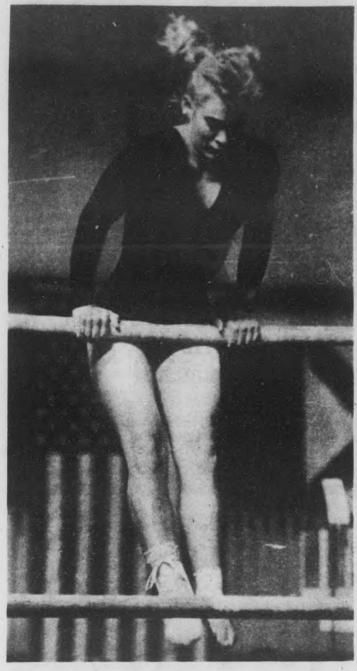

Other expert class high finishes included a second by Scott Underwood in the 14-year-old group and a second by Josh Nichols in the 10-11 division.

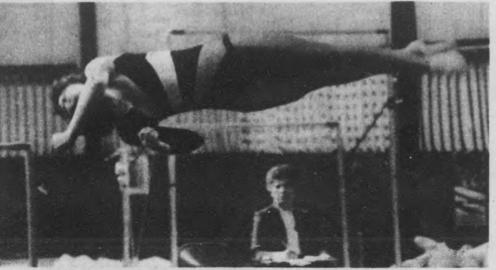

Eric Zupko won the 10-11 open class with Josh Nichols finishing second. Dewayne Payton finished second in 14-15 open competi-

Joel Tidwell was the winner in the 15 novice class, with Michael Harrison finishing second.

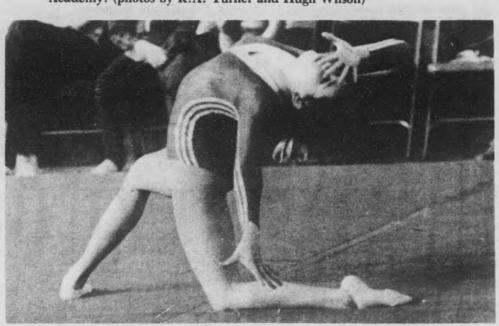

Keith Maples took the win in the 14 novice division, and Scott Clarke took home the top trophy in the 12 novice class.

In beginner competition, Mark Corley finished third among 12 year olds.

UM golfers finish fourth

The University of Montevallo golf team shot a team total 615 to finish fourth in the Shorter College Spring Golf Invitational last week.

Limestone College won the event, shooting 596 in the 36-hole event.

Three of Montevallo's six golfers made the all-tournament team, Chuck Wood and Don Hancock carting a 152, and Mike Craw shooting 153.

Montevallo shot a second-day best of 298, but the total was not enough to overcome a tough deficit left from the initial day of competition.

Smitherman out for season

Steve Smitherman, former Thompson High baseball standout and one of the leading players on the University of Montevallo diamond squad, has been declared academically ineligible for the current season.

Smitherman, according to family members, had trouble in transferring some hours from course work at Alabama and did not have the required hours to play.

Smitherman has been the Southern States Conference home run and RBI champion for each of the last two years. As a designated hitter for the Falcons, he also won the SSC batting title last season, making him the only triple crown winner in conference history.

Hansford changes plans

Thompson High School football standout Preston Hansford has recently changed his plans for the coming school year. Hansford, who originally signed with UNA to play college football, has signed a grant-in-aid with Southern Mississippi.

That move represents a rise from division two to division one in NCAA schools, and is a move Hansford is "really excited

Falcs nip Braves 5-4

The University of Montevallo won the 11th annual UM Spring Baseball Classic by edging West Georgia 5-4 last Saturday.

The win over the Braves was the fifth in a row for Montevallo and left its record unblemished in the annual spring affair.

The Falcons now post a 13-8 record and will host Kalamazoo in a single game Wednesday (March 27) at 6 p.m. and a double-header Thursday at 4

UM opens Southern States Conference play Saturday when Birmingham-Southern visits for a 4 p.m. double-header.

In five classic games, UM amassed eight home runs. Junior third baseman Wayne Albe hit three, running his season total to eight. John Daniell's two homers give him four on the season, while catcher Doug Sisson got his first two. Freshman Steven Franklin belted his initial collegiate roundtripper in the tourney, a grand slam.

Chinese Opera coming

It's called one of the mysteries of the Orient. A tradition closely linked to Chinese rituals and religious activities. Time magazine calls it "one of the oldest, most rarefied... traditions in the world."

What is it? Chinese Opera. The Fu Hsing Chinese Opera Troupe will be performing The White Snake at 8 p.m. Wednesday, April 3, in Palmer Hall at the University of Montevallo.

The opera integrates singing, recitation, acrobatics and stylized movement with costumes, make-up and music to create a total theatre experience.

The performers in Chinese Opera use stylized make-up, costumes and movements to designate character.

The colors of costume or make-up designate character with red symbolizing dignity, black, honesty and white, dishonesty.

EXPERIENCE THE JOY OF RELIGION

THINK YOU HAVE PROBLEMS? CONSIDER JESUS'

Palm Sunday was one of the toughest days in the life of Christ. In many ways it was worse than Good Friday.

The crowds had just escorted Him into Ierusalem with palm branches and shouts of praise. All Iesus would have had to do was say a word or even nod His head, and He would have been king of Judea in a moment.

It isn't easy to say "no" when 5,000 people are shouting for you to say "yes" ... especially when that "no" will lead to hatred, suffering and death.

He was able to come up with. the right decision. He knew His death would save the world. For Jesus the darkest day of His life produced the most wonderful to rejoice in troubles, not because they are pleasant, but because they're so full of hope. Hope is the main secret of triumph over trouble.

I suppose we all think that if we had a million dollars we would never be bored again. But it isn't what we have that makes us happy, it's what we hope for. Boredom is really the absence of hopes and dreams and ambi-

Without the challenge of trouble, life soon ceases to have any meaning or purpose. Without trial there is no triumph. Without a battle there can be no victory. Without hurt there can be no hope. When we like things as they are, we no longer have hope. Real accomplishment does not come from easy success but from repeated failures that challenge us beyond anything

And like Jesus, we must learn we would otherwise try.

Lesson number two in the Palm Sunday story is that hope does not disappoint us.

Do as I do, says Jesus, and you will come up with the same results. Jesus chose the cross and changed the whole course of human history. By His death on the cross He took away all the sins of the world. And by His resurrection He gave to all human beings eternal life.

Except for His sinless life, Jesus had absolutely no advantage over any of us. That's why we have such a beautiful behind-the-scenes look at the struggle with pain and loneliness, sickness, greed and death. That's the hope that conquers trouble.

No, Christians don't suffer because they have a morbid enjoyment of pain. Trouble produces hope. Our disappointments can be God's appointments with greatness.

Years ago a young boy in Decatur, IL, after saving for months, sent for a book on photography. He was terribly disappointed when by mistake he received instead a book on ventriloquism. He neither knew how nor could he afford to send the book back, so he began to read it. He learned how to throw his voice and made a wooden dummy he called Charlie Mc-Carthy, and soon out of disappointment Edgar Bergen made a

As a boy Luther Burbank was an invalid, and because he was forced to spend his time out in the sun and fresh air, became one of the greatest naturalists of all time.

That's the power of the cross. Because it lifted Jesus it can life us also all the way to glory.

CASE NO. JU-80-000
ORDER
It being made known to the Court
that Margaret Thornburg for the Shelby County Department of Penslo is and Security has filed with said Court in the above-styled matter, a Pet tion to terminate parental rights in, or, and to the child; John Orval Edward Smith, and to vest full custody of said child in the State of Alabama Department of Pensions and Security for permanent place-

In words, substantially as follows: That said child is dependent in that on or about 9-27-83, in Shelby County. Alabama, said child was placed by the mother with the Shelby County Department of Pensions and Security under a boarding home agreement and custody of this child was awarded to petitioner's agency on 11-15-83 Petitioner further avers that actual paternity of said child has not been legally established and since ced in foster care, said child has had only occasional visits from the natural mother, the last visit being 12-5-84. Petitioner further avers that said child's mother has failed to comply with two contracts entered into with the Shelby County Department of Pensions and Security and has made only one support payment in the amount of $40.00 since said child has been in custody of the Department Petitioner further avers that said child's mother has not in the past, nor will she in the foreseeable future, be able to provide a fit and suitable home for the child and to provide for his support, maintenance and education, and to petitioner's knowledge, said child's mother is without a source of income to ade-quately provide for said child's needs. Petitioner prays that the Court will cause service to be effected upon the mother by service of summor and upon the putative father by publication as provided by law and upon a hearing of the matter, the Court will enter an order terminating all parental rights of the mother and putative father and will commit said child to the Alabama Department o Pensions and Security for permanent placement or adoption, pursuant to Section 12-15-30. Code of Alabama,

SWORN SIGNATURE Margaret Thornberg

it also being made known to the Court that after a due and diligen search the whereabouts of Eddie Dean Smith, the putative father of said child, are to the petitioner unknown; it also having been made known to the Court that the whereabouts of any other person or individual claiming a parental right in for, and to said child, are, to the peti And the Court having considered of the foregoing, be it now DERED, ADJUDGED and DECREED, that a hearing of said Petition be held on the 9th day of April, 1985, at 1:00 o'clock, p.m. Juvenile Court, in the Shelby County Courthouse at Columbiana, Alabama, And it is further ORDERED, AD-JUDGED and DECREED, that the said putative father and any other person or individual claiming a parental righ for, and to said child, be hereby nons to attend said hearing; and tha a copy of this ORDER be published in the Shelby County Reporter, a newspaper of general publication in Shelby County, Alabama, for four (4) consecutive weeks so as to give due notice and serivce of summons for said hearing to the said putative father and any other person or in-dividual claiming a parental right in, ng a parental right in,

Juvenile Court Judge Shelby County, Alabama March 14, 21, 28, Apr. 4, 1985 No. 812

DONE and ORDERED this the 6th

STATE OF ALABAMA COUNTY OF SHELBY NOTICE is hereby given that a bill substantially as follows will be introduced in the Legislature of Alabama and application for its passage and enactment will be made.

> TO BE ENTITLED AN ACT

Relating to Shelby County, amending Section 8 of Act. No. 82-693, H. 57 of the Second Special Session of 1982 (Acts 1982, p. 144), as amended, which created and established the Shelby County Planning Commission, so as to provide further for the elections held in beats.
BE IT ENACTED BY THE

LEGISLATURE OF ALABAMA: Section 1. Section 8 of Act No. 82-693. H 57 of the Second Special Session of 1982 (Acts 1982, p. 144), as

Section 8. Election to Determ if Beat is to be Covered by the Master Plan and Zoning Regulations. The master plan and zoning regulations provided by the commission shall not be applicable in any beat of Shelby County until the majority of the qualified electors of the beat voting in a special election shall have signified by their vote that they desire the authority of the commission, its master plan and the zoning regula-tions to apply to their beat. Such an election must be held not less than 30 nor more than 45 days after a petition is filed in the office of the judge of probate seeking such an election and signed by no less than 25 elec-tors who vote in said beat and who also own an interest in real estate that is located in such beat. Notice of such election shall be given by three weeks publication and posting notice n two public places within the beat.

The cost of conducting said election shall be paid from the general fund of Shelby County. The ballot shall be so worded as to give the voter the oppor-tunity to vote either "Yes" or "No" as to whether he wishes the authority of the commission, its master plan and the zoning regulations to apply to such beat. Only those qualified elec-tors outside of the boundaries of municipal corporations, or where a municipality now or in the future is authorized to exercise, and does, in fact, exercise planning and zoning powers in any area outside its municipal boundaries, or such areas excluded from the jurisdiction of the commission as set out in Section 3 shall be permitted to vote or sign a petition calling for election in the beat concerned and a statement to this fact shall be carried on the ballot and the petition or said ballot and petition shall not be valid.

Boundaries of the established area approved for zoning by the qualified electors shall not be changed. Elections for the same beat shall be held only once every 365 days." Section 2. This act shall become effective immediately upon its passage and approval by the Governor, or upon its otherwise becoming a law. March 7, 14, 21, 28, 1985 No. 801

A BILL

TO BE ENTITLED

AN ACT
To amend Act No. 39, H. 67, Second Special Session, 1971 (Acts 1971, p.
4173) to permit the application of ical substances by aircraft in IT ENACTED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF ALABAMA: Section 1. Section 2 of Act No. 39 H. 67 Second Special Session, 1971 (Acts 1971, p. 4173) which prohibits the spraying of chemicals by use of aircraft in Shelby County is hereby amended to read as follows: "Section 2. Provided, however, the provisions of this Act shall not apply to any application of any material whether from the air or ground, the primary purpose of which is to control mosquitoes, eradicate fire ants or other insects considered to be harm-ful by the State Department of

"Provided further that the provi-sions of this Act shall not apply to any spraying of dusting application of any material, whether from air or ground, to cropland or pasture land, which primary purpose was to im-prove or enhance the production of food, cotton or like crops.

"Provided further that the provisions of this Act shall not apply to the application, whether from the air or ground, by a utility regulated by the Alabama Public Service Commission, or its agents, of any chemical or its agents, of any chemical substances registered under the Alabama Pesticide Act, the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide and Rodenticide Act, or with the United States Environmental Protection Agency, to any cleared or cut-over right-of-way electric transmission lines designed to operate at 44,000 volts or higher, the primary purpose of which is to control brush or other vegetation on such utility's right-of-way.

Provided, further, that any such chemical substances shall be applied nder the direction of a certified applicator under applicable federal and state laws and that the application of such chemical substances shall be in accordance with the label directions to insure safety to humans, livestock and wildlife; and provided, further, that such utility or its agents when applying such chemical substances from the air shall provide a minimum of 100 foot buffer for any house, or-chard, croplands or church.

"Aerial spraying will be permitted on distribution line rights-of-way in remote and uninhabited areas where there is no dwelling, orchard, croplands, church, or highway within 100 feet of such distribution line. For the purposes of this Act a distribution line means any electric line designed to operate at voltages of less than 44,000 volts. The same restrictions as this Act requires with respect to spraying of transmission line rights-of-way shall be applicable for the spraying of distribution line ights-of-way." Section 2. ## PUBLIC NOTICE OF ENCROACHMENT INTO A 100 YEAR FLOOD PLAIN

 NOTICE • Dunavant Valley Water Authority hereby announces that it is making an application for a loan from the Farmers Home Administration, which will provide for the construction of approximately 26.44 miles of water lines and service area of Shelby County.

The proposed water lines will cross approximately 2.27 miles of 100 year flood plain. These flood plain areas are located adjacent to Smyer Lake, Holly Brook Lake and Wehapa Lake.

Dunavant Valley Water Authority has considered a variety of alternatives, including no action, and belives that there is no practicable alternative that will avoid location of facilities in the flood plain area.

Comments on the environmental aspects of the proposed construction should be submitted in writing to the following FmHA official within thirty (30) days of the publication of this notice. District Director, FmHA, Room B-4, Federal Bulding, 1129 Noble Street, Anniston, Alabama 36201. Request to review the application on the proposed construction should be directed to the above address.

Carey Womack: an eye on history

"... I have an eye on a part of history. I've always tried to be fair with the way I show it to

- Carey Womack

by K.A. Turner

Parts of history...

Moonshots, the civil rights movement, presidents, natural disasters, politicians, superstars, and the common man... all seen by thousands through the eyes of Shelby County photographer Carey Womack.

Womack was born in Cookville, Tennessee, and grew up near Nashville. But for as long as he can remember, he spent summers on a farm near Lay Lake in Shelby County.

"This is all family around me," Womack says from his home at Lay Lake's Camp Waxahatchee. "I spent a lot of childhood years here and I always dreamed about coming here and settling down to stay.' Womack is now seeing that dream come true. But as a professional photographer working exclusively for United Press International since 1964, he traveled many roads before settling at his lake home retreat two years ago.

From his home, Womack recalls those travels in a series of images - little bits of history, really that he has witnessed. In photographing these images they became a part of Womack's life, so that in sharing them they tell a part of Womack's own story...

He was in Nashville in the early 1960's. After working his day job in the color photography department of the Nashville Banner, Womack rode the streets at night, listening to his police

'There was a burglary at a local store. The guy had broken out one piece of glass and had gotten inside. I was there when the police got him, and they made him come out the same way he went

The shutter clicks.

"I got his picture framed by that broken glass. That was one of the first pictures UPI picked up when I was stringing for them."

Womack continued his work in color photography. In 1964, UPI had an opening in its Atlanta office. It was there that Womack began coverage of one of the major movements in American history, the cvil rights struggle.

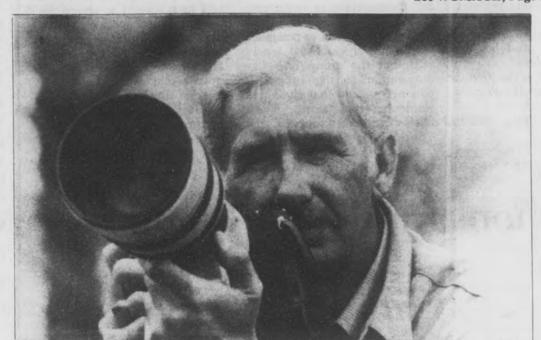

"UPI was big into color pictures then. I guess my knowledge of color helped, but I really just lucked into the job.

"I got in on most all of the civil rights troubles; Birmingham, the Meredith March, Crawfordville, Georgia; Selma...'

He was hugging his wife. It was right after he won the Peace Prize. It made a nice picture and went really well with the story."

N. Shelby library designed

by David F. Moore

A building for the North Shelby County Library has gotten as far as the drawing board. The Friends of the North Shelby Library and county library officials will be showing off those plans at a public meeting at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, March 28, at Inverness Elementary School.

However, before the the plans come off the board and onto a lot near the intersection of Caldwell Mill and Cahaba Valley Roads (County 29 and State 119), county library director Nancy Woosley said that the project will need substantial support from the community.

'The Friends have already discussed some plans for fund raising activities that sound pretty exciting," Woosley said. "But we hope community residents will show up for the meeting with some more ideas."

The 2,368 square foot building is a joint design project of architects Tim Wheeler and Lauren Barrett, both of North Shelby and both members of the Friend's building committee.

Presently, the facility is designed to hold 10,000 books and features a community meeting room that will seat up to 60 people. Woosley said the building committee estimated that $125,000 will be needed to build, furnish and supply the See LIBRARY, Page X-2 porary design using metal sandwich panels," said Wheeler.

"We attempted to make the building as attractive as possible using low-cost, pre-fabricated building components."

Woosley said that the Friends are optimistic that the demand for services will require expansion of the building within several years.

Although the library was "The building is a contem- designed as a temporary facility, Woosley said that the Friends felt it important to begin providing library services in the community as soon as possible.

Friends officer Katie Arnold said that the group feels like momentum in the project is picking up, and that she hopes residents from across North Shelby will turn out for the Thursday night meeting.

Members of the Shelby County legislative delegation and the Shelby County Commission have been invited to attend the meeting. Guest speaker will be Margie Satterwhite, president of the Hoover Friends, who will talk about the successful approaches her group is using to generate support for its second building project.

Making it with Mental Health!

Sexual Addictions

& Deviations

PORNOGRAPHY &

SATYRIASIS

Last week we discussed the psychological causes of excessive sexual activity in men and women. I have received several comments which made me more convinced that the public needs more information about sexual addictions and deviations.

My research indicates a strong relationship between the billion dollar pornography industry and satyriasis. The same men tend to patronize the same adult movie theaters, adult film distributors and porno shops. The typcial patron is a male caucasian, about forty years of age who is usually alone when he engages in these activities. The obsession with and pursuit of the erotic and pornographic can master and take control of the male who has feelings of inadequacy concerning his; masculinity or specific physical attributes. The pornographic addiction offers a compensation for these frustrations - an opportunity to achieve fulfullment and live vicariously through another male who is perceived to be more masculine. This identification with a "super male" provides the erotic material for fantasy and masturbation.

This kind of addiction is just as real as a drug or alcohol habit. It interferes with the development of healthy social relationships, creates barriers to communication in marriages, reduces overall productivity and personal effectiveness and it can be a very expensive habit.

Fortunately professional help is available for the person who will admit he has this problem.

Professional help and other information is available at 663-1252 or 668-1313. Your comments are welcomed. I would like to hear from you.

Holcombe goes down lake drain - almost

Reporter Mailbag: The water level crept silently upward on the lake marker.

Soon it would reach the floor joists supporting the pier, threatening to float the entire structure off its piles — a danger previously averted only by the emergency spillway beyond the far end of the dam.

Only three times in 10 years had Sontif Lake gained this overflow channel, and it took real cloud bursts to do it. February's icy rains had hardly even tested the capacity of the 20-inch drainpipe which directs normal overflow down 20 feet to the bottom and under the dam.

Something was very wrong. Before the rain, I had noticed an accumulation of leaves and pine straw in the grate screening the drainpipe - temporarily replacing the rusted-out barrel which had encircled the opening to stop debris from clogging the outflow. Late in the afternoon, the showers having tapered off, I took the boat out to explore the problem.

I had difficulty finding the pipe opening, as it was now well beneath the rising flood and unmarked by the turbulence of any down-flow. After a search, I spotted the covering grate some six inches below the surface. It was completely matted with leaves and straw.

No water flowed through, accounting for the rising level in the lake.

Heedless of the power of four acres of water backed up six inches deep, I leaned from the boat over the opening and began pulling out the trash from the grate. Suddenly, the force of the water broke through, shearing the covering while roaring down the man-sized hole.

In consternation I tried to paddle away from the surging whirlpool, but before I could move the tremendous suction grabbed the rear bottom of the boat, making it a stopper for the

Due to the uneveness of the rounded bottom, the seal was incomplete. The water screamed as it forced its way through the partially blocked outlet.

Not only could I not back the boat away I couldn't even budge it sideways. It was as if it had been welded to the pipe.

Any moment I expected to hear the rending of aluminum as the powerful force of the water tore holes in the boat's bottom.

I took quick inventory of my alternatives. The shore was certainly within swimming distance, but there was danger of being sucked into the gaping hole. Also, not being a winter swimmer, I didn't know the chilling power of stripping off in the winter air and plunging into frigid water.

The rain was increasing again and the boat bottom could go at any moment. I hardly wanted to risk spending the night there, and the temprature was dropping as the sun set behind the

I threw off my clothes, closed my eyes, jumped as far as possible from the swirling pool, and lashed wildly for shore.

Landing without difficulty but quivering from the exposure, I trod the 200 yards to the house.

My wife's first knowledge of my plight was my sudden appearance at the head of the stairs calling for a towel I was in the undignified stance of being dressed only in my birthday suit while streaming dirty water from my hair and body.

I hope she will recover from the shock. Me too.

Lesson learned: To avoid whirlpools is better than to argue with them; and, rusted pipes should be cleaned promptly - my new trash barrel is a beautiful, shiny aluminum cylinder that will not rust.

Thompson schools observe art month

March is the National Art Education Association's Youth Art Month. To celebrate and commemorate the event, Thompson art students have enjoyed a variety of special activities.

Youth Art Month was begun in 1961 to promote art educaton in schools across the country.

At Thompson High School, art instructor Pat Logan organized a spring art exhibit that was viewed by the entire THS student body.

Works by 135 students from four art classes were displayed at the recent show.

In addition to the more traditional art forms, THS students exhibited crafts including soft sculptures, wood carving, macrame, rock painting, paper mache, plaster masks, and wood carved totem poles.

At Thompson Elementary, instructor Dian McCray led over 1,,200 students in a variety of special activities.

Those projects, along with many pieces finished and works yet to come, will be displayed at an art show at the close of the school year.

Weaving, collage work, and life drawing were highlights for students in the older elementary

Bailey works at Columbiana library

by Jessie Jones Special to the Reporter

The art show on display at the Shelby County Regional Library in Columbiana is by primitive artist William "Bill" Bailey.

A primitive artist differs from other artists in that the artist has never taken formal art lessons.

The artist expresses life in a natural manner which depicts facets of his enviornment. In Bailey's works the viewer immediately identifies fields.

farms, wagons and other scenes which give meaning to life as the artist experiences it.

Bailey, originally from Nebraska, attended a one-room school house through eighth grade. Upon entering first grade the teacher declared Bailey the school artist because he could draw a Model T Ford on the blackboard better than anyone else. This same teacher continued encouraging Bailey throughout his elementary

After World War II Bailey married an Alabama girl. Bailey and his wife, Zella, moved their family of five to Birmingham to be near her family. They eventually migrated to Columbiana.

While working for Smith-Franks Hardware (now Smith-Smith) Bailey picked up a paint brush. The childhood memories of Nebraska farms, cowboys and horses flooded forth and onto the

A viewer may notice that rural scenes of Alabama creep into the content of Bailey's paintings. A few public buildings in Columbiana were selected as subjects by the painter. When visiting the Harrison Room in the Old 1854 Courthouse, one can see the painting "Old Columbiana Baptist Church" by

'Olivia' off to early start

Michael Olivia Holman Jones - Olivia to family and friends - could be getting an early start on an art career. The first-grader at Elvin Hill Elementary held her own art show Saturday on Columbiana's Main Street.

It wasn't the first showing of

MICHELLE OLIVIA HOLMAN JONES

Last fall, first grade teacher Darlene Ray encouraged Olivia to exhibit her work at school.

The art work has also been exhibited at Samford University and the University of Montevallo.

Some of the pictures were done in summer art classes taught by Thelma Pritchett of Hoover. Others were done at home where her grandmother, former art teacher, Dr. Jessie Jones, offered encouragement.

The most recent picture in the show is a self-portrait, drawn just after the young artist lost her front teeth.

Olivia says she loves art, and thinks she may become an art

The budding artist is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Jones of Columbiana, and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Jones, and Mr. and Mrs. Royce Morris.

Community theatre goes on stage

Shelby County Community Theatre opens its 1985 season with Truman Capote's "The Grass Harp," March 28-30 at the Orr Park Recreation Building in Montevallo. Curtain time is 8 p.m. each night.

Charles Majure of Wilton directed the production. The cast includes Marcia Knott, Barbara Belisle, Wil Metzger, Mary Frances Tipton and Wayne Beatty, all of Montevallo and Mitchell Edwards of Alabaster.

"The Grass Harp" is set in rural Alabama and revolves around a household headed by two unmarried sisters.

The plot is both humorous with relatives trying to steal old family receipes - and serious with the threat of violence shocking the characters into selfawareness and a greater appreciation of others.

Ramsey Bentley reaches Eagle

Ramsey Bentley, an 18-year- Area Council, during a recent old senior at Shelby County High School, is the newest Eagle in Columbiana's Troop 560.

The award was presented by Don Lewis, District Scout Executive with the Birmingham ceremony at Columbiana United Methodist Church.

For his service project, Ramsey worked for a year to refurbish and mount an old steam engine in front of the County Highway Department building on State 70 in Colum-

Now in his senior year at Shelby County High School, Ramsey is the son of Ouida L. Bentley and Erskine R. Bentley.

Scout's honor

Beau Coleman, an Eagle Scout from troop 5, presents the Eagle award to David Turner as his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harmon Griswold look on.

Martin "landlords" want tennants

As the weather warms the cry is often heard in Alabama: "My martins are back!"

Purple martin "landlords" have waited through the winter for the return of these beneficial insect-eating birds.

Many people like to attract martins to keep down the insect population around their homes and gardens. Martins will breed in properly managed colonies around homes, farms, in city parks or even downtown business areas.

Purple martin fans can help their birds by practicing some basic management techniques.

·Gourds used for nesting, should be no less than six to eight inches in diameter and body height.

All dark-colored mold should be scraped off and the gourds be painted with a clear exterior varnish or white paint. This helps preserve the gourd and reflect summer heat.

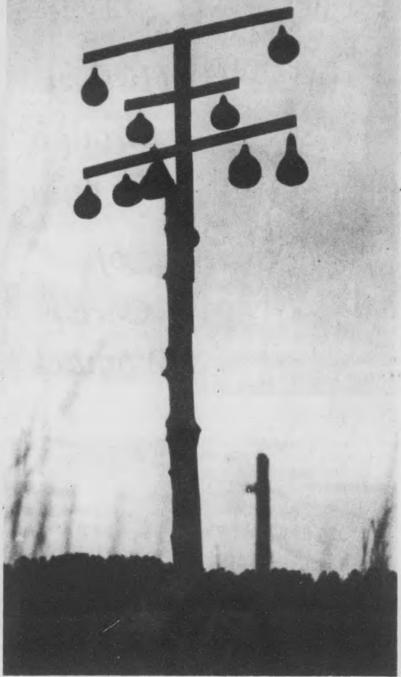

Drill several 3/8-inch holes around the neck of the gourd to increase ventilation and help prevent suffocation of nestlings in hot weather.

•Martin houses and gourd poles should be constructed so that they are easily serviced from ground level.

•Remove nesting material of English sparrows or starlings on a regular basis. At the end of the martin season all nest materials should be cleaned out.

For additional information on becoming a purple martin "landlord," or to receive a copy of purple martin house plans, write: Game and Fish Division, Box P.M., 64 North Union Street, Montgomery, AL 36130.

DID YOU KNOW

Nuclear fuel has lessened the need for foreign oil.

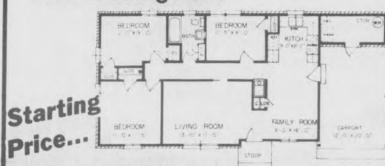

Alabama Power is not dependent on expensive foreign oil for electric generation thanks to coal, hydro and increasingly to nuclear fuel. In fact, last year we generated approximately 28% of our power from nuclear and none from oil and natural gas. In 1980, for the first time in history, utilities in the United States generated more electricity from nuclear fuel than from oil.

History... through the eyes Carey Womack

smokes a pipe in 1979, he also ate and drank with the boys and drove a truck; then-candidate George Bush checks out a watermelon at a Jackson, Mississippi Farmer's Market on the 1980 campaign trail; an old man in his Mississippi grist mill, one of Womack's favorite portraits. (Photos by Carey Womack)

Womack

After a year in Atlanta, UPI transferred Womack to South Carolina. The most vivid memory of his stay comes not from any particular picture, but from a person.

While he was there Womack met a girl named Martha. He married her in 1965 and they have been together ever since. The family now includes a seven-year-old son, Sean, and a Siamese

From South Carolina the Womacks moved on to an assignment in Mississippi. There, the fury of nature rather than the fury of man provided the strong images Womack recalls.

"I got caught in Hurricane Camille. I'd been covering hurricanes for years, but I had never really been in the middle of one of the things...' The shutter clicks.

"I spent the night in the Buena Vista Hotel. When I went out to take pictures the next morning, it was the only building still standing."

Womack transferred to Alabama, went back to Mississippi, and came back again to Alabama.

The job grew even more dangerous. 'Covering Hurricane Fredrick, I had gotten as far as Pascagoula making hurricane preparation pictures. I checked out of a motel late one evening. It's a good thing I did, because it wasn't standing the next day... The shutter clicks.

"I wanted to get to Mobile to make pictures, but I couldn't get across the causeway. I tried back roads in the area. There were trees falling in the road everywhere. Finally, I couldn't go any further and I pulled in beside a service station and spent the night in the car.

"It was as unsafe a place as you'll ever be. In the middle of the night the windows imploded. It was the worst night I ever spent in my life. We picked glass out of that car for a year. It even got inside my camera bag."

Amid the disasters, both natural and manmade, Womack began to formulate a photographic philosophy of life.

"I like candid pictures. People make the most interesting subjects. There was an old man who ran a grist mill near Meridian. He was one of those classic characters who knew everbody in town...'

The shutter clicks.

"I was doing a feature layout and I took a picture of him in the window of his grist mill. It was a good portraiture. It's one of my favorite pictures.'

Womack's eye for people was not limited to the common man, for he has often photographed historical people such as presidents. However, most of the time he prefers to picture them while they are acting more like common people. "President Nixon was visiting Mobile. I noticed that he had lost a cuff link...

The shutter clicks.

"He was standing on the hood of a car pointing at something. I took a picture with that sleeve hanging down.' Womack now finds that his second move to

Alabama has produced a subtle change in the im-

Now, the images that come most easily to Womack's mind and eye are of a more personal nature: fishing for big bass in Lay Lake; watching his son fish; working in his wood shop, making a white pine grandfather clock cabinet by hand; being a carpenter and adding a porch to a Camp Waxahatchee home.

"When you get a little older you begin to want to settle down. All that traveling really messes up my fishing a good bit ...

"It won't be hard to settle here whenever I quit working. I love this area. I'll fish and I'll build my clocks. Sure, I'll pick up a paper and look at the pictures, but I'll probably be happy that I'm here, not out there taking photographs.

But until that more settled time comes around, there are still images to record... the eye on history from which others will view it.

"I had to cover the latest Selma to Montgomery march. I'm so tired of march pictures. I wanted to get something different...' The shutter clicks.

"Just outside of Montgomery the highway covers some rolling hills. I took a picture just as the marchers topped the hill, and the rest of the highway was spread out like a ribbon behind them. It was a good picture. One of those you look twice at."

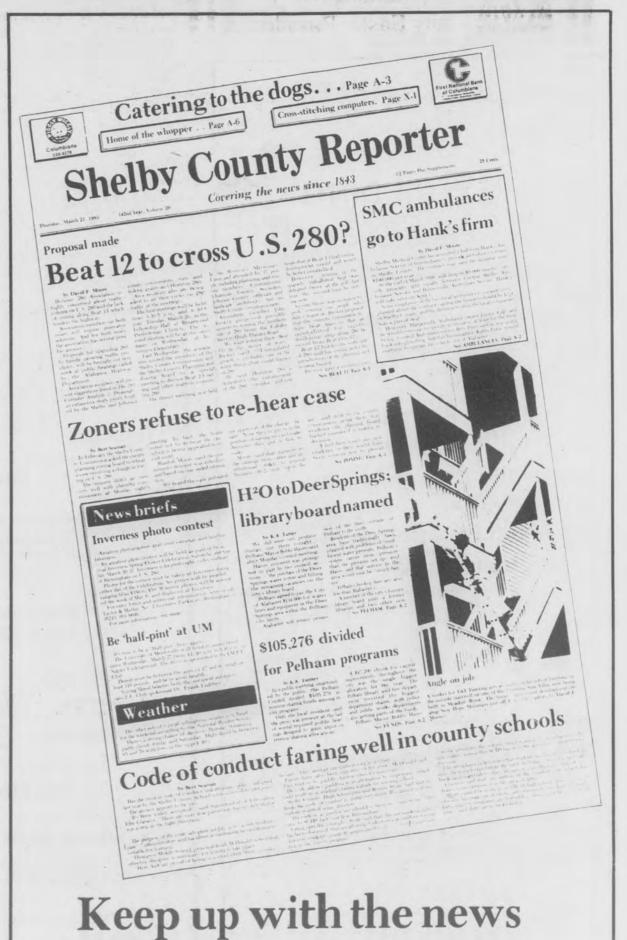

Little pieces of history. Womack gives thousands of newspaper readers a look at them every day with single images that, in one glance, often convey the whole of a personality, or even an entire issue.

"I was in Mississippi. A black man and a Ku Klux Klansman met walking on the street..." The shutter clicks.

"They were against a brick wall and I took a picture of them, back to back, after they passed on the street. It won one of UPI's picture of the year awards that year.'

It also served, as do so many other images Womack has captured on film, to preserve a small piece of history.

"I guess I have an eye on a part of history. I've always tried to be fair in the way I show it to others. I never try to make a picture happen. I just stand back and watch."

in Shelby County. We do.

Elect or appoint?

School board discusses changes in picking ed superintendent

by Bert Seaman

Should Shelby County have an appointed superintendent of education?

Feelings on both sides of the issue were expressed at last week's education board meeting when a resolution was presented to let county voters decide the matter.

The board's vote on the resolution was put off because of the absence of board members Joe Coggins and Dr. Bill Fancher.

Although the proposal to appoint a superinten-dent had never been officially discussed, board president Barbara Whitman said that a number of people have felt that a change was needed.

She said that the resolution she presented was the culminiation of "a lot of time, thought, energy and research" on the subject.

Board member Donna Morris said that the studies she had read on the subject indicated that education was better served with an appointed superintendent.

It was brought out that the best qualified people often do not run for the office because they do not want to subject themselves to the rigors of a campaign.

Another plus mentioned was that by appointing a superintendent, the board has an opportunity to investigate the background and capabilities of applicants. Supporters for the measure said this would increase the chances of getting the best man for the position.

Whitman also said that an appointed superintendent would be more accountable to

However, school superintendent Eliie Glasscox said he felt the person holding that office should be responsible first to the voters.

Another point of contention in the resoltion was that it calls for five school board candidates to run from the four county districts, with one candidate running at large.

Board member Paul Sumners said there should be five districts so every section of the county has equal representation. The other two board members present agreed to that change.

Sumners said he still opposed the resolution because less than two years ago the board adopted a policy to elect a superintendent.

We'd be saying that we five people on the board would be better at choosing a superintendent than 40,000 voters are.'

Central office staff member George Dailey contended that it was not constitutional for board members to run at large if school districts are formed.

However, county attorney Frank "Butch" Ellis later said that running at large would be improper only if it produced a racial impact. That would be unlikely here, he said, since the 1980 census showed that only ten percent of the county's population is black.

The resolution states that each board candidate be a resident of the district in which they run, and that districts be divided on the basis of the latest U.S. census tract, with no more than a three percent population difference among the Teacher representative Wayne Sumners wanted a vote on the resolution delayed because he said his association had not had any input.

He told the board that the majority of the 30-40 people he had talked to about the matter had said they were opposed to an appointed superintendent.

Easter services observed

by Meg Smith Easter, like springtime itself, is the symbol of life renewed. Many churches will hold special services in observance of Maunday Thursday, April 4; Good Friday, April 5; and Easter Sunday, April 7.

EASTER SERVICES: Special services will be held at the First United Methodist Church in Calera.

A Maunday Thursday communion service is planned for April 4 at 7 p.m. with a presentation by the choir of "Do This in Remembrance of Me.'

A Tenebrae service will be held April 5, at 7 p.m. This service commemorates the final hour of Christ upon the cross.

The Dogwood Assembly of God will hold special services for Easter. A re-enactment of the Crucifixion of Christ will be performed Sunday, April 7, at the ll a.m. service.

During the evening services at 6 p.m., the Singing Christians will sing.

Beulah Baptist Church in Sterrett will present the musical Came the Morning at 11 a.m. Easter morning.

News brief

Libraries in Shelby County will celebrate National Library Week April 15-19.

To make it more significant, on Monday, April 15, the Shelby County Library will will be renamed to honor Mrs. Karl Harrison of Columbiana. The facility will officially become the Mildred B. Harrison Library.

A storm system moving from the west is expected to bring showers on Friday. However, the National Weather Service predicted Tuesday that the skies should be clear by Easter Wednesday is expected to be mostly sunny, and Thursday should bring more of the same. Highs will be well into the 70°s, with lows in the 40°s to 50°s.

Police crack burglaries in North Shelby

by David F. Moore First they would knock on the door, ring the bell.

If no one was home, they would enter the house through an unlocked door or window and help themselves to loose change, cassette tapes, sometimes a tape player, radio or knives. In a number of cases, victims did not even know their homes had been entered.

That's the way they operated, said Pelham Police Lt. Donnie Guyer who charged six teenagers with 11 daytime breakins in the Pelham / North Shelby County

Following leads from the only Pelham burglary initially reported, Guyer said inon Friday and Monday.

"In investigating the one fessions on the rest of them." Guyer said.

Tuesday, police filed petitions with juvenile authorities in Columbiana against five of the teens, ages 15-17. Guyer said a warrant would be signed against the sixth teen, an 18-year old.

The first breakin occurred March 8, and the others happened last week. Guyer estimated vestigators came up with the that about $500 cash and other names of suspects. The suspects articles were taken from six were questioned at their school homes in Pelham, one in Riverchase and four in the county.

"For the most part, they were report we had, we received con- taking change and cassette tapes." Guver said. "Then they would close the door or window behind them."

He said that six victims knew things were missing from their homes, but were unaware they had been burglarized.

"Some people think that if they don't have a door kicked in or window broken, that they weren't burglarized," Guyer

No juvenile hearing date had been set Tuesday morning.

Two of the teens are from Pelham, two from Helena, and two live near State 150. All were students at Pelham High School and cut classes to to make the breakins, Guyer said. None of them had previous records.

The case was worked by Guyer, Pelham investigators Sgt. Sherwood Florence and sheriff's investigator Sgt. Richard Fox.

Proposed solutions to U.S. 280 will be costly

by David F. Moore

A Birmingham engineering firm has come up with five design alternatives for curbing the ever growing traffic problems on U.S. 280 from North Shelby County to Birmingham. Tom Douglas, president of Douglas Engineering Company, Inc., said last week that whichever alternative is chosen, it's going to be Douglas Engineering was retained by the state highway department to make an environmental impact study on several alternative improvements to U.S. 280.

Douglas outlined the five classes of alternatives at a series of four public meetings held last week at Inverness Elementary and Briarwood

Presbyterian Church.

He told the gathering of 35 people at the final meeting Wednesday night at Inverness that some $8 million in federal and state matching money has already been appropriated for work on 280 in both 1986 and 1987. But, he said, that will amount to only a "drop in the bucket" towards what is needed for the highway.

'Unless the money is continuously appropriated over the next 10 years, we cannot meet our ultimate goal on 280," Douglas said.

Douglas Engineering is to make a report to the highway department this fall on an ultimate design to solve projected traffic growth through the year 2005. The alternatives at this point range from doing nothing, to building a completely new highway.

•CLASS 1: no bill. Douglas said this proposal calls for doing nothing to the highway

"Those of you who travel the corridor at peek traffic already know how bad it is," he said. "A no bill would turn the highway into a large parking lot. In two or three years you're going to be in big trouble.'

While the no bill is not a viable alternative to 280, Douglas explained that it is used in such studies to establish a cost ratio base for other pro-

•CLASS 2: transportation system management This proposal calls for such steps program. as lengthening acceleration lanes and turn lanes, and synchronizing traffic lights for optimum

Douglas said that such measures would be relatively inexpensive. "But you're only buying limited time" with these improvements, he said. •CLASS 3: arterial type roadways. would involve adding extra lanes to 280 to handle the flow of traffic.

Such a project would be more viable in the Shelby County section of the corridor where development along the right of way has not been as great as it has closer to Birmingham, Douglas

But according to traffic projections, the section of highway from 459 to Homewood would See ALTERNATIVES, Page A-2

Citizens discuss 280 traffic problems

by David F. Moore Much of the rush hour traffic on U.S. 280 travels in the same general direction.

But once drivers exit the 12-mile stretch of often congested highway through Shelby and Jefferson counties, they generally go off in different directions.

In a similar manner, the concensus of opinions from the estimated 130 people attending public hearings last week on the highway's growing traffic problems traveled in the same general direction: that is, something needs to be done fast - to improve traffic conditions on U.S. 280.

However, when it got down to just what and where 280's biggest problems are, and just what should be done about them, those who spoke out at the meetings generally went off in different directions.

The afternoon and evening meetings were held last Tuesday at Briarwood Presbyterian Church, and again Wednesday at Inverness School.

"Are we all saying the same things? Have our comments formed a basic pattern?" asked Cahaba Heights resident Joe Akin at the final Inverness meeting. "Are our comments jiving with what you're finding?"

'The interchange at 280 and I-459 probably got the most attention," answered Tom Douglas, president of Douglas Engineering Company, Inc., the consulting firm retained by the state highway department to study 280. "But everyone seems to have different problems."

Douglas said the intersection with Rocky Ridge Road and entrances in Mountain Brook at problem areas during the other

Douglas said he leaned towards the alternate of making at least sections of U.S. 280 a freeway with limited access interchanges (see related story). However, he did not list Office Park as a site for an interchange.

"It blows my mind that no proposals for interchanges were made for Office Park and Cherokee Roads," Akin said. He added that the traffic light at Office Park caused clogging all the way to Rocky Ridge Road.

Douglas said Office Park was "Chinese puzzle" and that "we don't know what to do there yet."

Valleydale Road resident Anne Frederick said the biggest traffic flow problems occur from the Cahaba River to the traffic light at Cherokee Road.

"Is that light not right?" she

Douglas said 280 traffic patterns are now being studied and that several traffic lights will be timed in the next several months to improve the traffic flow.

Mrs. Reed Hosey of Cahaba Beech Road asked about improvements to the intersection of County 17 and 280.

Douglas said Inverness developer Taylor-Mathis of Alabama, Inc. was paying to install a traffic light at the intersection by the first of July.

County engineer Gary Ray later said that work is due to start "any day now" on improving County 17 some 1,500 feet south of 280. The work will involve adding two lanes and a turn lane to the two-lane facili-

Office Park were often voiced as Colbern said he knew of four traffic deaths at the I-459 "fiasco" interchange, and that the price of those lives seemed to dictate the need for improvements there.

"We should be concerned with all of the corridor," he add-

Douglas said the 459-280 interchange "did not occur by design" but rather by "default" as the results of political and environmental considerations.

"I can assure you that it will not remain that way long," he Valleydale resident Helen McAnnally, Akin and others voiced questions about rights of way along 280.

Douglas said the rights of way now extend 200-300 feet on either side of 280, and that the state would "would utilize to the maximum" the present rights of

Where additional right of way is needed, Douglas said "hopefully, we could negotiate for a fair settlement with the owner." Otherwise, condemnation proceedings would be

He said details on rights of way and proposed freeway interchanges would be forthcoming when his firm completed its environmental impact study and recommended one of its five alternate proposals for 280.

Horizon 280 representative Dick Darden asked highway officials if they couldn't take into consideration probable right of way needs for frontage roads, and establish a legal policy which would prevent developers from building along areas which will be needed for added rights

"As soon as we have geometric designs we can make those decisions," said Shelby County district engineer Jim Braden. "Until then, 280 has to be treated as the free access road that it is."

Inverness resident James Parker questioned why 280 had been allowed to become so overcrowed so fast, and if the state was getting its share of federal highway funds.

Parker and others noted that problems with future growth on 280 had been pointed out eight years ago in a letter to Gov. George Wallace from Elton B. Stephens, founder of EBSCO.

State highway environmental planning engineer Joe Holley said that 10 years ago 280 was new and there was no problem with traffic. At the time, there were other major priorities, such as U.S. 79 to Jasper.

"If we had $40 million a year, we could expend every cent justifibly in the 280 corridor," Holley said. "But you can't just chunk 79 down the drain."

Holley said 280 was underdesigned in the first place, and indicated that the large amount of office and commercial development has made that apparent.

"We can't dictate to private developers where to put their facilities," Douglas said. "We just come in behind them and try to straighten things out."

Holley and Douglas said that changes in federal policy have allowed the state to free up highway money, and the gas tax has generated more funds.

They urged those in attendence to voice the needs for highway funds to their state legislators.

Bringing 280 up to standards to handle present and future traffic will take "big bucks, and it won't occur overnight," Douglas said.

280 Alternatives

require the addition of 16 arterial lanes, he said. This would require purchasing extremely expensive rights of way.

•CLASS 4: denied access facility This proposal calls for building a system of strategic interchanges along the corridor, and restricting access and egress to those particular points, Douglas Frontage service type roads would parallel both sides of 280, running from interchange to interchange and giving access to residential and commercial developments.

A denied access facility "may be the viable alternative," Douglas said.

He said initial studies identified at least seven probable interchange sites on 280: the interchange with Elton B. Stephens Expressway; Rocky Ridge, Shades Crest and Overton Roads; Dolly Ridge Road; I-459; the Cahaba River and the Old Florida Short Route; County 17 (Valleydale Road); and State 119 (Cahaba Valley Road).

•CLASS 5: parallel facility. This alternative would call for building a completly new throughafare just outside the present 280 cor-

Douglas said this alternative was limited because only 10-20 percent of the highway traffic was through traffic, while the rest of it was generated within the corridor itself and would not likely use the parallel facility. Also, the terrain is limiting to this alternative, he said.

"In the next few years, development and increased traffic will parallel or surpass what you've already seen," Douglas told the 35 people attending the Wednesday night meeting. "If something is not done to improve 280, the net effect will be stiffling to development. People will dodge 280 and go to outlying communities.

"Early on, we realized that whatever is done, it's apparent that it will be costly."

Douglas said that by September his firm will complete its environmental impact study of feedback from area residents and highway users, traffic and accident statistics, growth and other factors. Then it will present the most viable alternative to the highway department and open it to public hearings.

Following that, design and cost studies can begin and priorities can be set.

Knight noted that a superintendent accountable to the board is a more desirable situation. "It's like someone being hired to run a corporation who is responsible to a board of directors,"

Statewide, Knight said that 85 superintendents are appointed, 40 elected.

Lefebvre said that in the event of a train derailment involving chemicals, the gun could be set up on a tank car to keep it cool, allowing firemen to remain at a safe distance.

The money to purchase the $1,545 gun was acquired by the fire department's family portrait project. Lefebvre said proceeds from the fund raiser amounted to $2,600.

Money to purchase the $141,000 fire engine came partially from revenue sharing funds - which this year amounted to $35,971 - and other monies which had been set aside in CD's.

At the present time the city has only one engine in service.

Shelby Library have land on which to put up a building, and the expectation of having half of the building materials donated.

But the group still has a long way to go before ground can be broken on its site at the corner of Cahaba Valley Road and Caldwell Mill Road.

Approximately 45 North Shelby residents met at Inverness school Thursday to look at preliminary sketches of the building (see March 28 issue of the Reporter) and to discuss future plans.

Shelby County Library Director Nancy Woosley said that the cost of construction and furnishings will total $125,000, and estimated the minimun cost of operations for the first year at $17,000.

Woosley said that the library is at a disadvantage since it is not located within a municipality, which means it does not have a tax base to support it.

The group was asked to list any fund raising ideas they could think of on a survey sheet that was handed out.

Woosley said funds already in the kitty total $5,000 - $4,000 from the governor's discretionary fund secured by legislators Frank "Butch" Ellis and John Tanner; $1,000 from the PGA tournament which Probate Judge Tommy Snowden secured from promoter Hall Thompson.

Ellis, Tanner and Snowden were present for the meeting, along with county commissioners Leon Archer and Gregg Rushton.

If sufficient funds can be secured, architect Tim Wheeler said that ground may be broken before the end of summer.

Further plans for the library will be discussed at the groups next meeting, tentatively set for Inverness school May 6 at 7:30

New library board officers elected at the meeting are: Carl Carter, president; Larry Dillard, vice-president; Peg Perry, recording secretary; Mary Jo Hand, corresponding secretary; Edith Harwell, treasurer.

SMC board cuts off free medical supplies

A new chairman and vicechairman were elected at last week's meeting of the Shelby Medical Center's board of trustees. Also, a decision was made by board members to charge rescue units for medical supplies which had previously been provided without cost.

Doug Ballard, who recently stepped down as interim SMC hospital administrator, was elected chairman by unanimous consent.

Ballard then had to cast the deciding vote to break a 5-5 tie for the vice-chairman's position. Pete Raughley, who nominated Ballard, was elected to the position over Tom Lloyd.

Ballard, former owner of Ballard X-Ray and a former county commissioner, is chairman of the board of directors at Shelby Bank. He replaces Calvin Smith whose term as SMC board chairman expired last month.

Raughley, who owns Saginaw Pipe Company, is a five-year board member at SMC. Both men were appointed by County Commission Chairman Tommy Snowden.

The board also passed a resolution to stop providing free medical supplies to rescue units however, the board agreed to sell the supplies to the units at

If a patient was transported to SMC, the hospital was able to recover the cost of the supplies by adding it to the patient's bill. But the hospital was out that amount if the patient was taken to another hospital.

In cases where the patient was not able to pay, the hospital again was the loser.

Carter opposed the move to charge for supplies because he said many volunteer rescue workers have to pay for them out of their own pockets.

Trustee Lou Workman contended that rescue units shouldn't have to pay for supplies if the cost is put on a patient's bill. He also thought the units shouldn't be charged if a patient didn't pay the bill.

In the case of rescue units funded by cities, Workman said the city should be responsible for buying supplies for their unit.

Don't kid yourself. The future of U.S. 280 through our part of the country holds ramifications for all of Shelby County.

Right now, plans are being drawn, discussions held and decisions made which will affect the future of U.S. 280. With that in mind, we're disappointed — albiet, not surprised - that so few people from Shelby and Jefferson County turned out for last week's public meetings on U.S. 280.

The meetings were designed to identify and assess all possible environmental impacts associated with the five alternate courses of action outlined by a Birmingham consulting engineer.

We feel that more data and feedback to the planners helps ensure the likelihood of their reaching a good solution.

Therefore, we urge our readers to invest five minutes and 22 cents in all our futures and fill out and return the following questionnaire to Douglas Engineering Company, Inc., PO Box 6205, Birmingham, AL, 35217. (The questionnaires were made available to the 130 people who attended the public meetings.)

Each of the 15 categories should be rated on a scale of 1-5, with "1" being unimportant, and "5" being extremely important. Sign the questionnaire and don't be shy about listing additional comments separately.

If you need more time to complete the questionnaire, fill it out on the way to work while you're waiting for traffic to move on 280...

What America Means To Me by Amy Cleveland

From the seventeenth century to the present time, America has stood for freedom, equality and unlimited opportunity. Our founding fathers, after gaining their independence from England, established the Bill of Rights and the Constitution to insure all citizens of their basic freedoms. They had a dream about a country where all men, regardless of their ancestry, culture and religious and political beliefs, could live a life free from oppression. The price of achieving this dream was often death, as in the case of the great American Patrick Henry.

My country, America, not only means freedoms, but it also means home, the place where I was born and where I hope to spend the rest of my life. When I was very small, America was the house and street where I lived. Today, it is the fifty states, each different and special. I have lived in several states and traveled through many others. I have met people of all races and found that we had a lot in common because of our common heritage, that of being Americans.

To put it simply, America is a land full of Americans, people of every race, religion and culture enjoying a beautiful inheritance, for which our forefathers paid so dearly, called freedom.

EDITOR'S NOTE - Amy Cleveland was judged winner of a recent essay contest at Pelham High School sponsored by the Brimingham Downtown Sertoma Club. The topic of the essays was What America means to Me. Miss Cleveland is a senior at Pelham. Other essay winners are pictured on page A-5.

To catch a bluebird

Memory Lane - We were in the 11th grade, Aliene Spruell and Simon Finley and Evelyn Chapman and Lewis Averytt and Vera Mae Black and Edith Weldon to name a few. The teacher's name was Goodwin. He taught French and I didn't know enough about it to spell cat. So when he put the exam on the blackboard I slipped out the back door and headed outside. On the stairs I met Robert Schrader.

"Where you going, Skillet?" he asked.

"To catch a bluebird."

He looked puzzled. "You'll never do it," he said.

"It'll be easier than passing that French test," I said, still walking. They found him — The one guy who honestly believed Sonny Smith was gonna run off and leave that basketball team he had put together at Auburn. That would have been like killing three bobwhites on the rise and walking off and leaving 'em in the grass because you were afraid of redbugs.

He said it made him want to cry — He watched those better teams make one free throw after another, at the end when the going got tough. And he remembered how Alabama did it in losing to N.C. State in the final minutes. And he said: "It made me want to cry."

Boy! Can they do it - We were at the 4-H club house on the Coosa River. The Gospel Singers from Shelby and Chilton and Talladega counties were having their convention. It was two o'clock. This little lady went to the front to lead a song. That group of folks sang This is My Story, This is My Song. And if you were there and heard it, you heard something pretty special. Boy! Could

A rosey payraise?

If you are a betting man, here's a hot tip — the controversial career ladder (incentive pay) plan for teachers will eventually pass the Alabama Legislature - but it will never be implemented.

What does this mean? It means that the teachers will get the 15 percent pay raise and the vastly expanded hospital insurance benefits which are provided in the bill, but that in two years when a new legislature sees what it will cost to begin the career ladder pay boosts they will run for cover instead.

If this in fact proves to be an accurate prediction, then the brilliant Dr. Paul Hubbert will have scored another stunning victory. Dr. Hubbert, of course, wanted the 15 percent raise for his teachers, and of course, he wanted the state to pick up the tab for the hospital insurance. But he has never been an advocate of merit things he wanted, and he will not have gotten what he didn't want. It will be a masterful stroke.

If it works like it appears it will, he will have gotten the two general.

That this is likely to occur became increasingly evident when the House passed the measure 10 days ago. At the last minute an amendment was adopted to the bill which opened the back door for an escape. The amendment provided that the career ladder provisions of the bill would not go into effect in 1987 until it was approved by a legislative committee, the Finance Director, both houses of the Legislature and the governor.

The bottom line to all of this is simply this — the bill which is likely to pass the Legislature in the next few weeks called career ladder is not that at all - it is no more and no less than a pay raise bill for teachers. A rose by any other name is still a rose — and a pay raise by any other name is a pay raise.

Odds and Ends: Although there have been some exceptions, in recent years the office of lieutenant governor has always attracted a stable full of candidates. It may not happen in 1986. More and more it begins to look like a two-man confrontation between two incumbent state senators — Hinton Mitchem of Albertville and John Teague of Childersburg. Insiders say another member of the upper house, Ryan deGraffenried of Tuscaloosa, is no longer as interested in the race as he once was.

And speaking of 1986, no one is sure in what direction Secretary of State Don Seigelman will go next year. The constitution requires him to vacate his present office, but there's no doubt he will be on the ballot somewhere. The possibilities include U.S. Senate, attorney general, or maybe even the lieutenant governor's race. The early polls show he would be a formidable candidate in any of those races. The odds still point to Seigelman running for attorney

I think it is wrong and a long overabused tactic by the people we elect to run our city and county governments, but then it is the easy way out for you and governments have gotten away with it for so many years without getting adverse feedback from your constituency.

If you are really interested in raising tax revenue then perhaps you should take a good hard look at an untapped source, namely the beer, wine and alcohol sales. If you do I am sure you will realize that a one cent alcohol tax will generate up to ten times the amount you figure to get from a one cent tobacco tax in the same period of time.

If you compare the amount of money spent by both industries on advertising, plus the untold millions paid to sports world spokesmen etc, you can see bet to generate more tax revenues. If you can't then you need glasses and don't know much about business.

To look at it from another point of view, drinking does a far greater amount of destruction, damage to families, the men, women and teenagers than tobacco. Tobacco is not the cause of skidrows, highway accidents resulting in death or maiming or the degrading disease of alcoholism. If you compare the number of deaths in this country from cancer or other diseases caused by smoking, to the number of deaths on the highways as a result of drunken drivers, I think you will

I am certain of what I have written, being a reformed alcoholic and a smoker and a cancer victim (not from tobacco). I think back and compare the money spent on both vices and four times as much per week was spent on alcohol.

Pressure' is on Deer Springs

by K.A. Turner

Late last week, the city of Pelham officially purchased the Deer Springs water system from the Alabaster Water and Gas Board.

On Monday, April 15, officials in both cities will turn a valve and Pelham will begin supplying the water in Deer Springs. Along with the change in supplier will come a change in water pressure for area residents.

"This increase in pressure is what they have wanted all along," Pelham Mayor Bobby Hayes said. "But they need to prepare for the added pressure on the water lines.'

With the change, pressure will rise from its current 25 pounds to 125 pounds. That Hope denied appeal hearing

by David F. Moore

A Shelby County man, serving time on charges of conspiring to murder Attorney General Charles Graddick, has been denied a hearing by the Alabama Court of Criminal Appeals. The denial was made Tuesday, March 26.

Hubert Hope, 62 of Shelby, said he wanted the appeal so new testimony could be made in court by state inmate Jesse David Jett.

Jett's initial testimony, along with tapes produced by the state prosecution, were instrumental in convincing an Elmore County jury in March of 1982 that $500 and a old gun Hope had with him when he was arrested at the Clanton Holiday Inn, were for a "hitman" who had been hired to assassinate Graddick.

The initial arrests also carried charges that Hope had conspired to have the hitman kill Shelby County District Attorney Billy Hill and former Circuit Judge Harold Walden.

Charges involving Hill and Walden were later dropped, but an Elmore County jury convicted Hope on the charges involving Graddick. Hope was sentenced by Circuit Judge Walter Hayden to serve half of a 25-year sentence.

Hope filed a petition claiming that he paid a Birmingham attorney $35,000, and that the at-pointed Tallassee attorney where he could make parole. Steven Schmitt to represent Hope in the claim, but it was denied in June of 1983.

Schmitt said last week that Hope had not been provided complete transcripts from the original trail.

Hope appealed to the Alabama Court of Criminal Appeals. In January of 1984 that court accepted briefs on the case, but denied a motion by Schmitt to hear oral arguments. Last week the court denied the appeal.

"Now a decision has to be made rather to file application for rehearing with the court of criminal appeals," Schmitt said Thursday in a telephone inter-

Country Classic draws praise

by K.A. Turner

Marathon races grew up in the big city; the concrete jungle, heat rising off the pavement.

Saturday marathoners in the central Alabama area enjoyed a 10K race with a difference, the Coosa Valley Country Classic.

Advertised as "level, paved and scenic," the CVA Country Classic course stretched over the Harpersville area. Fiftyeight racers accepted the challenge of the run, entrants ranging through each of nine age catagories in both male and female divisions.

Another 20 conquered the 1.5 mile fun run course, and many of them also participated in the 10K event.

"Without exception, we got

Pelham Bass Masters hold Lay Lake tourney

by K.A. Turner

The day dawned clear, but wind on Shelby County's Lay Lake posed problems for anglers cutting across the bright waters in bass boats.

"All we caught today was a sunburn," one anglers commented when the boats retured to Okomo Marina late Saturday afternoon.

But that wasn't the story for every fisherman in the Pelham Bass Masters second annual Lay Lake Open Tournament.

Of the 55 boats leaving Okomo, many returned with fish for weigh-in. And some of the day's biggest catches, belonging to Pelham Bass the $1,000 top prize. Masters club members, got away... at least from the tournament scales.

Over one hundred area anglers searched the waters of Lay Lake throughout the day, aiming for a special stump or rock with a big bass hiding near-

Two Birmingham boats, Bill and John Conwell, and Randall King and Robert Spurger, tied for third place with 10-pound strings. John Conwell's 6 pound, 4 ounce bass also was the biggest single catch of the day.

Eddie Jones of West Blocton and Bob Jones of Woodstock teamed for fifth place with a 9 pound, 15 ounce total catch.

Sixth place went to Shelby's Harry Ray and Kenneth Harrison of Bessemer for a 9 pound, 9 ounce total catch.

Shelby anglers Paul Dill and Byron Richardson pulled 9 pounds, 4 ounces out of the familiar lake for a seventh place finish.

Dennis King and Tim Curtis, both of Columbiana, finished eighth with a 7 pound, 2 ounce total.

Alabaster's Lee Moore and Montevallo's George White landed 6 pounds, 3 ounces, good for ninth place.

Jeff Snipes of Sterrett and William Snipes of Birmingham rounded out the top ten with a 5 pound, 15 ounce string.

Charles Hedrick directed the second annual Lay Lake event for the Pelham Bass Masters.

Tournament committee members included club president Carl Brackett, vicepresident Brian Haltiwanger, secretary/treasurer Mike Ashe, Mike Wirts, Eason Mitchell, Ottis White, Alan White, and Jim Brasseaux.

The event had more than 25 local sponsors, many donating prizes for a drawing at the close of the tourney.

And now for the tournament's best fish story... the one that got

"I guess it wouldn't look good if one of us won this thing," club president Brackett said, "but you should have seen the string Eason brought in...'

Eason Mitchell, an Alabaster attorney, and partner Charlie Dennis of Riverchase, brought in a 10-fish string that "must have weighed 14 or 15 pounds." The fish were never weighed,

In addition, not quite satisfied with the day's fishing, many of the Bass Masters ended their day just like it began.

"Let's do a little fishing," one said to another. And away the boats went, cutting across the bright waters of Lay Lake headed toward that stump someone said was hiding a huge bass.

Calera shows passing attack in spring intersquad game

by K.A. Turner

Some Calera football fans may wander into the Eagles opener next fall expecting to see the same old things from the Calera offense. They will be in for a big surprise.

"For the first time, our running attack will not be our primary offensive weapon," Eagle coach Danny Alverson said. "We'll live and die by the pass in the fall."

Calera fans who watched the Eagles Blue-White game last Thursday, however, will be expecting the change. They saw a dramatic sneak preview in the White's 18-14 win in the intrasquad clash.

Calera quarterbacks Mark Jones and Ray Ross combined for 509 yards in passing offense on the night, completing 33 passes in 66 attempts. Perhaps more impressive than the 50 percent completion total, was two Mark Jones and Byron White an answering score for the Blues. hot streaks by Calera quarterbacks, 11 of 13 and 8 of 10 in two stretches.

The leading receiver for the evening was Byron White with nine catches for 199 yards.

Brett Holcombe pulled in six passes for 99 yards, Lee Smith caught seven for 56 yards, and Shane Schroeder got three for 36 yards.

The White team scored first,

combining on a 40 yard TD

The Blues answered when Ray Ross hit Brett Holcombe on a 15 yard scoring toss. The two connected again for the PAT to give the Blues an 8-6 advantage.

THE CRISIS OF EASTER Thomas Cheatham Montevallo Presbyterian Church

For Mary Magdalene, an empty tomb brought only tears and despair. Peter and John saw cast-aside grave clothes and believed. But for Mary, they only meant that someone had taken her Lord's body and hidden it from her.

It is only when Jesus encounters Mary in the garden and speaks her name that Mary recognizes Him. She knew that voice. It could be none other than the voice of Jesus, the one to whom she was so utterly cries out with affection and hugs Jesus. He had been taken away one time. She is not about to let Him go now.

But Jesus tells Mary, "Do not ascended to the Father."

It couldn't be like it was before. Neither Mary nor the other disciples would have Jesus physically with them anymore. He was going to the Father. His presence with the disciples would be by His word and Spirit. Jesus and His followers would still have a relationship, but its character would be changed. That is the darker side, the crisis of Easter. The disciples and we today exalt in the triumph and the vindication that the Easter message brings. Upon hearing her name, Mary We love to hear the words, "He

> But before that sentence comes "He is not here." That's scary; that is a crisis. The tendency is to be just like Mary, isn't it? We would want to cling cling to me, for I have not yet to Jesus! Keep Him here, so that we may have someone to help us, to teach us, to guide us.

Jesus is raised; He is ascending to glory. The disciples are still here. "What now?" they ask, 'Who's going to be our leader? Who will heal? Who will confront the power brokers?" It was like a good news/bad news joke! For Jesus to be leaving was to the disciples the same feeling children would have look up and see their parents leaving. Can we hear the words "He is not here" as truly good news as much as the work "He is risen?" 'He is not here; He is risen.' He is not here; He has ascended to the place of power. He is not here, but He has sent His Spirit, and we hear His word.

He is risen: He is not confined to one place and time, but lives in and through His people in every place and time. He is risen. We are called to concretize His presence to each other and to the world. He is risen; He imparts His resurrection life to the church.

Easter is the watershed experience for the church not only for the note of hope and triumph it brings out, but also for the call to maturity it issues. We are to be the church on our own, yet not on our own. The church that lives without touching and clinging, yet believes Jesus' word and has His Spirit.

Because our Lord is risen and gone to the Father, the church has to stop being like children and grow up to full adulthood. Crisis? Yes, Easter was and is a crisis. But we are able to see that another word for crisis can be opportunity?

Shelby County Department of Pensions and Security has filled with said Court in the above-styled matter, a etition to terminate parental rights, for, and to the child; John Orval Edward Smith, and to vest full custody of said child in the State of Alabama Department of Pensions and Security for permanent placent or adoption; said Petition being,

In words, substantially as follows: That said child is dependent in that on or about 9-27-83, in Shelby County. Department of Pensions and Security under a boarding home agreement and custody of this child was award ed to petitioner's agency on 11-15-83. Petitioner further avers that actual paternity of said child has not been legally established and since being placed in foster care, said child has had only occasional visits from the natural mother, the last visit being 12-5-84. Petitioner further avers that said child's mother has lailed to comply with two contracts entered into with the Shelby County Department the amount of $40.00 since said child has been in custody of the Department. Petitioner further avers that said child's mother has not in the past, nor will she in the foreseeable future, be able to provide a fit and suitable home for the child and to provide for his support, maintenance and education, and to petitioner's knowledge, said child's mother is without a source of income to adequately provide for said child's needs. Petitioner prays that the Court will cause service to be effected upon the mother by service of summand upon the putative father publication as provided by law and upon a hearing of the matter, the Court will enter an order terminating all parental rights of the mother and putative father and will commit said child to the Alabama Department of Pensions and Security for permanent acement or adoption, pursuant to action 12-15-30, Code of Alabama,

Broome: tv power and country life

by Meg Smith

Hoyle Broome hums with energy like one of the state-ofthe-art power boosters recently installed at WBMG-TV in Birmingham.

Broome, the station manager at WBMG, says his energy comes in part from loving the work he does.

'If you do something you enjoy, you'll do it well," says

Broome. "This is a volatile business, you can't just sit back and watch. Staying ahead of the competition is what's fun."

Apparently Broome has been having lots of "fun" in the past couple of years. He recently completed the new stateof-the-art tower/power system which he thinks will keep WBMG's competition on its toes.

The system began in 1983 with erection of the 1,100-foot transmitting tower, and was completed in November of '84 with the installation of the two-million watt power boosters. Broome says WBMG now has the best transmitter system in the southeast.

"We now get studio quality up to 60 miles away," says Broome. "This is a good investment for us not only because of our increased coverage area, but also because of the major growth areas we reach.'

Because of Shelby County's rapid growth, Broome says it has become a major target area for his station.

"Of the total disposible income in retail sales in our fivecounty coverage area, 67 percent comes from Shelby County," says Broome. "I call it good business to target this There's another reason Broome feels a special interest in Shelby County. He lives there.

"Nine years ago my wife Ellen and I built one of the first three houses on Deerwood Lake in Harpersville. I told her then I hoped the area would grow over the next five years or else we'd wind up owning property that wouldn't be worth

But growth was not to be a problem. Within six months of building their home, the Deerwood Lake area was 60 percent sold out.

'When we first moved there I thought how nice it would be to have a few neighbors." He laughs. "Now I hope the area doesn't become overcrowded.'

Bagging practice time

Spring weather had a number of people enjoying activities in Oak Mountain State Park during a recent weekend. Perhaps one of the most unusual, however, was the musical past-time practiced by Pat Keith of Hoover. Keith is learning to play the bagpipes, and Oak Mountain offered just the wide-open spaces needed for practice. While she played, her husband sat nearby inside the car... (photo by

Across the finish

Students who have been practicing for special olympic track events were repaid for their efforts as they crossed the finish line and received a ribbon and a word of congratulations from games

And they're off...

At the sound of the starter gun, special education students take off like a flash for the finish line in one of the races held during last week's special

Weather doesn't dampen special olympics fervor

With rain in the forecast for Friday's special olympics, fewer students than usual showed up to compete in the county event. But what they lacked in numbers, the competitors made up for with enthusiasm.

This year's competition drew around 200 participants to Thompson High School to try for a ribbon and a chance to compete in the area event to be held at the University of Montevallo on Wednesday, April 10.

Participants included students in special education classes in county elementary, middle and high schools, and from the center for exceptional children. Handicapped adults from the training center in Calera and the Workshop Inc. in Pelham also took part in the competition.

Track events included the 50and 100-meter dash, the 400and 800-meter run, a 400-meter relay, and 100-meter and 400-meter walk.

Other events were the running and standing long jump, softball throw and a wheelchair

Games officials at this year's special olympics were physical education teachers from the county's elementary and middle schools.

> Story and photos by Bert Seaman

When his turn came up for the softball throw at the special olympics, Thompson Elementary School student Chris Boyd wound up and gave a mighty heave. Chris and all the other contestants in the event got a ribbon for their efforts.

The resolution was presented to the council during its recent convention in Montgomery by Dr. Norman McMillan, chairman of the University of Montevallo English Depart-

"The public is finally becoming aware of the impossible demands we place on English teachers in the public schools," McMillan said.

"To teach writing effectively to as many as 150 students requires that one be either a superhuman or a world class masochist. Since such individuals are rare the students often graduate ill-equipped to compete in a world that requires proficiency at reading and writing."

The resolution, which is similar to one passed recently by the Alabama College English Teachers Association, asks the State Department of Education not only to limit classroom enrollment to 100 students per day but also to limit advanced writing sections to 20 students per class.

"If we want to reduce illiteracy in a country where 75 percent of the unemployed people are illiterate, we are going to have to reduce the burdensome workloads of our English

Homosexuality - Part I

She sat at her desk very much in charge of the interview. She answered me without hesitation or reservation, occasionally asking me about my thoughts and opi-

"Yes, I was a gay", she said. (Lesbian is another word referring to a gay female homosexual.) "Why did you give it up?" I asked.

"I've told my husband if I ever were to be unfaithful, it would be with another female," she just wanted me to know.

But obviously, you had your reasons for going straight," I challenged her.

She told me about the emotional hurt in her last homosexual relationship - the dishonesty -- the ultimate fear of someone coming out of the past to damage her child -her counselor who had helped her sort out her feelings and make choices -- her husband who accepts her behavior in the present and does not judge her for past mistakes.

I wanted to know what she considered as the influences prompting people to choose homosexual behavior. She had chosen a gay lifestyle for almost a decade. She seemed to understand both male and female gay people.

"Mothers who smother their children -- their whole life is centered around the child -- the child hasn't learned to relate to the opposite sex." She continued, "My exhusband's mother told him, 'You don't need friends - you have me' --- she never told him she loved him."

She saw this lack of appropriate parental love as the key ingredient. She also mentioned homosexual experiences in childhood. Although many children engage in experimental behavior with the same sex even into early adolescence, it is an environment of emotional neglect that seems to make these experiences take

Community Billboard... Tornado Safety...

What to Do During a Tornado:

- Take cover immediately if a tornado warning is issued.
- ·Stay calm, don't panic. Don't attempt to flee from the path of the tornado in a car or other vehicle.
- Abandon cars or mobile homes and seek shelter elsewhere. Automobiles and mobile homes afford the least safety during a tornado.
- · If you're at home or at work, stay inside, away from windows and exterior walls, until the storm is over. The safest place in a home during a tornado is in the basement. If there is no basement, take shelter in a bathroom, a closet or under a heavy piece of furniture on the lowest level.
- •If a tornado strikes during school hours, teachers should keep children away from windows and seek shelter either in a designated area or in interior hallways. Concerned parents should not attempt to go out in the storm to pick up their children at school.

Alabaster beginning community ed plans

A second community education program is being planned for by a Shelby County city.

Alabaster has started plans for a program similar to the one that has been operating in Calera for several years.

Dr. Tommie Harrison, who will serve as program director, says that an advisory council has been formed to provide leadership for the school.

The most important aspect of having a successful program is people involvement," she says.

She urges anyone from the community or surrounding areas who is interested either in participating or teaching, to contact her at Thompson Elementary School (663-3858).

The short term courses will include educational, vocational and leisure activities designed

Classes will be offered on the basis of interest and may include such subjects as knitting, stained glass work, calligraphy, painting, theatre workshop, bridge, photography, accounting, woodworking, typing, creative writing, genology, foreign languages, cake decorating and fishing for kids.

Members of the advisory council, who represent a crosssection of the community, are: Steve Cumbo, Jane Cairns, Tom Roberts, Reid Long, Hoyt Filyaw, Ducky Prestridge, Martha Waugh, Jane Riley, Harriet Davis, Chris Oyer, Lamoine Bramblett, Dan Acker, Diane Grillo, Renae Kennedy, Peggy Kent, Lois Lewis, Janice Luster, Dr. Charles Inman and Gail # Got questions on adding to your home?

Homeowners planning additions or major remodeling jobs can find help at the home remodeling workshop which will be held Friday, April 12 at Samford University.

Genta Speakman, extension housing and equipment specialist at Auburn University, says many people don't fully understand what's involved in remodeling a house.

At the workshop she'll give tips on such things as energy, cost effectiveness and planning a remodeling job. There'll also be a tour of local homes that afternoon.

Those wishing to attend must pre-register before Friday, April 5, by calling Gail Reagan at the Shelby County Extension office: 669-6763. There is no charge for the workshop.

Kiwanians serve up Valley pancakes

The Riverchase Kiwanis Club will sponsor an all-you-can-eat pancake breakfast at Valley Elementary School from 7 a.m. until noon Saturday, April 16.

The $2 per person tickets should be purchased in advance at Valley Elementary or Am-South Bank in Riverchase, said club president Woody Hubbard.

The "professional breakfast" prepared by amateur cooks Ray Quinn, Dave Naefe, Larry Lindsey and Dr. Dewey White should be a great event for the entire family, Hubbard said.

"People will be asking me for the recipe when they taste these pancakes," boasted Quinn.

A special guest appearance will be made by the Easter Bunny who'll be handing out candy. Most of the proceeds from the event will be given to Valley Elementary School. 'We take a lot of pride in helping our community," Hubbard said. "This is but one of the ways we help."

Montevallo hears tornado siren testing

What was that blaring racket?

If you heard a loud siren wailing Wednesday at 10 a.m. in Montevallo and wondered what it was, here's the answer.

The city and the University of Montevallo were testing the new tornado warning siren which was installed this week on top of Main Hall.

The siren is the first of its kind to be installed in Shelby

A university spokeswoman said the siren will sound for three minutes whenever the National Weather Service issues a torando warning for Shelby County. Such warnings are given when a tornado has either been visually sighted or spotted on radar.

The test on Wednesday involved two 30-second soundings spaced by a 30-second

The siren will be tested by UM police the first Wednesday of each month with two 30-second blasts. Tests will likely not be made on days when the weather is already

In the event of an emergency persons are urged to seek immediate shelter in the lowest levels of buildings, away from exterior walls and

The use of the siren is being copied from Jefferson County which has 76 of the units. Jefferson County does not sound an "all-clear" notice, and at the present there has been no such policy set for Montevallo.

County libraries offer career help

by Nancy Woosley County Library Director

Graduation is fast approaching for many. It is a time when thoughts turn towards making decisions about what to do with your life - which career path to follow. The future may hold a continuation of study in college or graduate school. Or, perhaps specialized training and immediate employment is more appealing.

A new computerized service available free through the public libraries in Shelby County could prove helpful as you begin exploring options. The SOICC career information system was begun in Alabama in 1975. The system consists of ten national and state data files relating to occupations and career preparation. Access to the information is possible by communicating with the main computer in Montgomery through a WATS telephone line and a computer terminal.

The State Department of Education covers expenses for maintaining and updating the information on the system. This enables the institutions using the system to provide the service at no cost to the public.

The two occupational files contain information on over 1,000 occupations, both nationwide and within Alabama, listing such information as job description, required skills, and average starting salary. These can be used in making career decisions, allowing you to see how your personal desires, concerns and ambitions effect your occupational choices.

With a specific occupation already in mind, the computer will provide a detailed print-out describing the chosen field. But, perhaps there is uncertainty in your mind. You are particularly attracted to traveling occasionally, working outside and serving the public. By stringing these characteristics together, the computer will search for occupations that meet these specific requirements. Looking at the detailed descriptions allows you to eliminate occupations not found interesting. Similar coverage is found on military employment through the Armed Services Occupational File.

Many will find that their problem is not a 'career choice' but deciding where to go to receive the proper education for that type of employment. Here again, there is the option of obtaining a complete description of two-year and four-year programs of study, or grouping characteristics together to locate schools offering the needed education.

Someone majoring in computer science wants to stay in the southeast, but feels more comfortable with the idea of attending a four-year college where an ROTC program is available. Their choice of schools is quickly gathered by the computer.

Other capabilities of the system include coverage of financial aid and scholarships, both available nationwide and in the state. The Job Bank Summary File lists current job vacancies statewide that are registered with the State Employment Service. Although the file does not list specific employers and has no job placement capability, it can provide job vacancy information by Employment Service offices throughout Alabama and can identify related occupations that could be explored.

For further information or requests for computer searches, contact the Shelby County Regional Library: 669-3171 or your local library.

Moore indicates support for compromise

by Mike Brantley

A compromise agreement by state and local officials that would give the state's local governments a portion of the interest earned on offshore oil and gas revenue was approved by the House Ways and Means Committee March 20, and may reach the floor of the House of Representatives as early as this week.

Sonny Moore Rep. (D-Sterrett) said he favors the agreement giving the state's cities and counties 10 percent of the interest earned on future offshore oil and gas revenue once the interest reaches $50 million each year.

Moore said the local governments deserve some of the revenue generated by the state from offshore drilling leases.

Gov. George Wallace entered into an agreement March 14 with local government officials that would insure that the cities and counties receive some of the offshore drilling revenue.

Wallace originally wanted all the money to go to the state's general fund.

In return for Wallace's compromise, members of the Association of County Commissioners and the Alabama League of Municipalities agreed to support a proposed constitutional amendment placing money from an offshore lease sale last August into a permanent trust fund.

The state's voters will have a chance to vote on the constitutional amendment May 14, when it is placed on a statewide

If legislation pertaining to the compromise agreement receives the legislature's approval, some of the money from the interestearning trust fund would go to the local governments.

Johnson Roy Rep. (D-Tuscaloosa), a proponent of the legislation, said the bill containing the compromise will reach the House floor either this week or next.

"It's a bill that's supported now not only by the governor's office, but the cities and associations that represent the cities and county commissioners across the state," Johnson said.

The legislation does not have the approval of Sen. Charles Bishop (D-Jasper), however.

Bishop said he will oppose the compromise agreement when it reaches the Senate and will actively campaign against the proposed constitutional amendment

Bishop said he is not against sharing oil and gas revenue profits with local city and county governments, but he does oppose allocating the money by way of a legislative statue which could be repealed by the legislature at any time, putting local governments "at the mercy of the Alabama Legislature.

"I suggest that we take a certain percent of this one-time wealth and place it in a separate trust fund for cities and counties, and create an agency that would allow them to use only 90 percent of the interest drawn from this trust," he said.

He said the remaining 10 percent of the interest would stay in the trust fund each year, allowing the fund to build on its own

Johnson said he thinks the state already uses its constitution too often to make allocations. He said legislative action is the best way for the state to manage

"I think one of the problems in Alabama is that we have constitutionally earmarked monies too often," Johnson said.

Because of this, he said, the legislature has very little flexibility in budgeting the state's money

"I think it would be a mistake to further earmark money so that you couldn't exercise some flexibility at some point in time," Johnson said. "I think the Legislature might even want to increase the amount of money going back (to cities and counties) if there was a substantial increase in revenues.

Johnson said Bishop's approach would "hinder" such an

He also said local city and county officials can indeed make long-range plans based on money allocated to them by the Legislature. He added, though, that it would not be wise for them to use oil and gas revenue interest given to them as part of their general operating budgets each year.

"Every city in this state and every county has capital outlay needs," he said, "and if they'll use these dollars to build roads and to construct facilities and not go out and hire additional people, then they'll be safe.'

Lt. Gov. Bill Baxley said he is not in favor of the legislation, but he said it will probably pass both houses with a substantial margin of votes.

He said he does not support the constitutional amendment because it "is not going to match the money with the need.'

Baxley said spreading the revenue so thinly across the state is not going to provide much help to each individual city and county government. Dividing the money in such a manner would only place a drain on the state's general fund, he said.

Moore said he predicts the compromise bill will pass both houses of the legislature, and he also said he thinks the state will vote favorably for the constitutional amendment.

"I think it will pass, because I think everybody would like to see a little more coming back home," Moore said.

MHS practices wedding

by Bert Seaman

A trip to the altar is a big step for most people. And it's a step that's apt to trip up those who aren't prepared.

At least some high school students aren't taking that step anymore without a good idea of what they are getting into. The reason for this is a course called family living.

At Montevallo High School, 17 students (8 boys, 9 girls), have been studying dating and marriage. Last week they participated in a mock wedding ceremony and reception.

Has the course been helpful to class members?

"Yes," says Lisa Devinner, who took the part of the bride. "It makes me want to have a wedding - they're pretty and so much fun."

Lisa says she plans to marry when she's 23 after completing training as a physical therapy assistant at UAB

One of the things that Frank Fowler said impressed him when the class studied dating, was the fact that males should be more courteous toward their dates.

Frank said that he did not plan to marry until he had completed at least two years of col-

Teacher Junie Craig said the class has spent a month studying about what should be considered before getting married, and the planning that goes into a wed-

Montevallo attorney Jim Standridge spoke to the class about marriage customs and laws, and caterer Linda Boothe told about how to plan the wedding.

Work pays in TMS fair

by Bert Seaman

All of the hard work involved in putting together projects for their social studies fair paid off for more than 70 Thompson Middle School students.

They were prize winners in six. disciplines, and several other categories including individual performance, group projects and the principal's award.

The fair's two grand prize winners were 6th grader Jeff Bush and 7th grader Tish Zuiderhoek. Both projects were in the geography category.

Jeff's project was a model volcano and the effects of the geography around it; Tish did a fault map demonstrating various land formations.

Broome

Broome says he is interested in seeing Shelby County grow and prosper, but he has strong feelings about how the growth of the county is handled.

'My main concern is with the handling of growth on the 280 corridor. Zoning is badly needed there. The people of Shelby County have the opportunity to say 'Let's define what happens here'.

"I travel the length of the 280 corridor every day. It's a beautiful drive. I'd hate to see that change, to see the natural children have the educational beauty of that area spoiled by a lack of planning.

"There are good things going on in Shelby County. It's growing. But careful thought should be given to exactly what kind of growth the county needs. The work of groups like Horizon 280 will attract the right kind of businesses to Shelby County.

"Growth doesn't have to run rampant. While I have nothing against fast food chains, I don't think a 'fast food strip' along 280 is what will help the county in the long run."

Broome says he feels there will be a change in the political climate as the county grows, because of an increasingly more sophistocated population.

"Shelby County is experiencing an influx of people from all over Alabama and out-of-state as well, I think these people will be shaping the way the county grows in the near future.

"More and more people who work in Birmingham want to live in Shelby County, especially always be better. with the opening of I-459.

Two planners lose positions

Shelby County Planning Commission members Blanton Moore and George Starcher have lost their jobs.

Acting on a motion from Commissioner John Ames, the county commission voted three-two on Monday to end the terms of Moore Commission Chairman Tommy Snowden sided with Ames and Harold Davenport to break the tie. Commissioners Leon Archer and Greg Rushton voted no to the proposal.

In breaking the tie Snowden said he wanted to insure that the planners operated on a specified system of six-year terms with staggared expirations. Snowden said the commission had intended to make some changes on the planning board when it appointed the . seven members last year.

A 1984 state law restructured planning commissions throughout the state, giving all the appointments to county commissions. In a hurried situation, the Shelby County Commission re-appointed the seven current members at that time.

Ames said he proposed the change on the board in order to "inject some new thought" into the group. "I don't think any commissioner has a candidate in mind (to fill the vacancies)," Ames said. He added that it has been the commission's intention since the hurried appointments in 1984 to explore the possibility of "new faces" on the board.

When asked during the meeting by commissioner Rushton if he simply "pulled these names out of a hat," Ames replied that was "more or less" the case.

Since the 1984 bill, the planning commission has been made totally an arm of the county commission to serve at its pleasure," Ames said, adding that the commission probably would not have reappointed the entire seven member board in 1984 had not time

Ames said that another catalyst for the change was the expense to the county for lawyers used to defend the ever-increasing number of suits against the planners.

A thunderstorm with wind gusts of 50-60 mph ripped through Shelby County Friday evening uprooting trees and downing power lines.

No tornados were reported during the hour the storm raged in the county.

One of the reported injuries occurred on the University of Montevallo campus when a tree limb crashed onto the car of librarian Pauline Williams.

She was reported to have sustained whiplash and a fractured vertebra, and was listed in good condition Tuesday by a spokesperson for Shelby Medical Center.

Trees and limbs were blown down everywhere during the storms rampage. Nine county roads were blocked for various lengths of time.

Alabama Power Company officials said downed lines left several thousand customers across the county in the dark. Some areas were without electricty until Sunday morning.

In Wilsonville, a tree fell on the home of Jim and Penny Kovakas, demolishing the front section of the house. Jim Pipe repair Kovakas, who was home alone, said he had just left the front room before the tree fell. A light pole at the ballpark was also blown down.

Tuesday, conservation officials were still assessing the damage but, from indications, all the fish and wildlife inhabitating a 10-mile stretch of the creek in eastern Shelby County are now dead.

Meanwhile, officials with Colonial Pipeline were still sorting through data trying to pinpoint the exact chain of events that led to a computer malfunction and the break in the pipe.

Construction crews worked through the weekend to replace a 165-foot section of three-foot pipe which crosses under Old 280 about one and a half miles west of its intersection with U.S. 280 near Harpersville.

Chief operator Tom Hummel at CP's Pelham office said Tuesday that crews expected to have the section of pipe replaced and operational by that evening (after press deadlines).
Colonial's pipelines transport

Montevallo fire chief injured in wreck

by Bert Seaman

"I can't describe the lump I felt in my throat," said Kevin Colley. "I turned over the man who was half way out of an overturned truck, and found it was 'Doc' Mahan, the advisor for my Explorer

Colley, a senior at Montevallo High School, was on his way home from a date Friday night, when he came upon the accident on County 12 (Springcreek Road) between Counties 16 and 22.

Mahan, a Montevallo dentist and the city's fire chief, was heading south when the truck he was driving went off the left side of the road and overturned in a ditch.

He reportedly suffered a broken collar bone, several broken ribs and a head bruise. Brookwood Hospital listed his condition as The residents of a home near the crash scene had already called an ambulance when Colley arrived. Until medics got there, Colley administered first aid to the semi-conscious Mahan. Colley said that he had received first aid training as a Boy Scout and Explorer, and had been on first aid teams that successfully competed in Scouting events.

"That training really paid off," he said. "Here was Doc, the man responsible for some of my training, getting the useful end of what I'd learned in first aid."

Colley said that the night before the accident he and Mahan had answered a fire call. During that time they had talked about plans for Colley's Eagle court of honor. At the time of the accident, Mahan was reportedly returning from Birmingham where he had attended a function of Delta Sigma, a national dental fraternity. The dentist was driving his father's 1980 Chevrolet pickup truck which is why Colley said he had no inkling at first as to who was in

"If we do that," Rushton said," we might as well become the planning commission."

Rushton further questioned Snowden's reasoning in voting to approve the motion.

"I don't think the resolution established specific terms of office as Chairman Snowden assumed," Rushton said. "There was no purpose in having the resolution and I don't believe Ames simply took those names out of a hat.'

Neither Moore nor Starcher had been officially contacted about the commission's decision late Monday, but neither was terribly surprised.

"I've been expecting this," Moore said, adding that a February letter from Ames that was critical of a zoning decision prompted him to believe he would not serve much longer on the planning board.

Starcher and the other five members of the board also received the letter from Ames.

Moore said he is concerned that future planners will not be able to do their jobs with complete freedom in the decision making process.

"If they don't do what those in power want them to do, the commission will terminate their position," he said. "They won't be able to voice their own opi-

Starcher echoed the sentiments: "If they want to run the county, they should get rid of everyone and do it. It is obvious that this is just a power play."

Starcher said he wished commissioners and planners could have met as a group to discuss problem areas and added that an invitattion to that effect had been issued.

"It was a dictatorial attitude to take," he added, "but I'm not a sore head about it. My wife will be glad to have me home instead of at those meetings."

"There is always an opportunity to fall from the pleasure of the commission," he said, "but that will not affect my deci-

In addition, Ames indicated that recent zoning policies and decisions affecting the U.S. 280 corridor area prompted - at least in part — the commission's decision to change the make-up of the board.

"We have spent tax money on studies in that area," Ames said. "For that reason, the commission has a more important responsibility to watch decisions in that area."

Rushton disagrees with Ames, saying the commission could not act as a censor for the planners.

analyzing its computer tapes in Atlanta to see what caused the second worst spill in the company's history. Indications Tuesday were that the chain of events probably happened like this:

A possible double strike by lightening near CP's St. Ives booster pumping station nine miles east of Vincent caused a momentary voltage change which affected a pump's microprocessor. That change caused the microprocessor to override a two-stage safety command and shut down a valve that should have stayed open.

Thirty pipe miles away, the station in Pelham continued pumping, building pressure in the line which may have sent a "shock wave" running back from St. Ives. The section of pipe underneath Old 280 gave way, spilling gasoline which flowed into the road and eventually a nearby creek.

CP workers in Pelham were notified of leaking gas at 6:55 p.m. Friday by area resident C.M. Hafford, Hummel said. Volunteers fire and rescue crews from Harpersville, Westover and Chelsea assisted county deputies and local law officers in blocking off the road.

The gasoline washed downstream to an area near the intersection of States 25 and 76 (Klein). Fear of an explosion caused Alabama Power Company officials to send home some crews from the Ernest G. Gaston steam plant in Wilsonville about three miles from Klein.

Work crews at the creek contained the massive spill by inflating a series of 10 rubber spokesman said. dams called booms.

Alabaster residents in the Biceville area shouldn't have any more worries with water pressure once the 300,000 gallon storage tank in Hickory Hills is completed.

The tank now under construction is due to be finished within the next three or four months.

Water improvements are also in the works for another area of the city in the near future. Bids are now being taken on the construction of a seventh storage tank on County 12 E, which will

Pelham spells out penalties in seven laws

by K.A. Turner

The recent dismissal of a case in Pelham City court has caused officials there to take a look at penalty provisions in city ordinances

Last week, the Pelham Council ammended seven city laws to include specific provisions for penalities.

The action followed dismissal of the city's case against Carolyn Barr of Discount Family Shoes. Barr was charged with breaking the city's ordinance regulating "going out of business" sales.

The first to be charged under the new ordinance, Barr's case was dismissed after she and her husband Henry bought the necessary license. Pelham Court Judge Brad Bishop determined the Barrs "did not willfully violate" the ordinance and penalty provisions within the statute were unclear.

In response to that decision, the "going out of business" license ordinance and six others wer amended by the council. The city laws and their penalities include:

Ordinance number 120 makes misdemeanor offenses recognized by state law applicable in Pelham, and sets a fine of $1-$500 or not more than six months imprisonment or hard labor for the city. The only exception is the state DUI law which carries a penalty of not more than $5,000 or not more than one year imprisonment or hard labor.

•Ordinance number 121 overns going out of business licenses and sets a penalty of $1-$500 or not more than six months imprisonment or hard labor.

Ordinance number 122 governs parking on public streets and vehicle removal in those instances. Fines are same as ordinance 121.

 Ordinance number 123 gives Pelham traffic control enforcement right on private parking lots within the city and carries fine of $20-$300 or not more than six months imprisonment or hard labor for speeding or reckless driving offenses, and fines of $100-$500 or not more than six months imprisonment or hard labor for DUI offense.

Ordinance number 124 establishes fire lanes within the city and carries fines the same as ordinance number 121.

Ordinance number 125

governs sale and use of alcoholic beverages within the city and carries fines the same as ordinance number 121.

 Number 126 which prohibits prostitution Pelham and carries the same fine as ordinance number 121.

Know the laws

Going out of business?

Pelham City Councilman Jim Phillips, sponsor of the city's ordinance regulating "going out of business" and "disaster" sales, says the law is improtant for the protection of consumers in the Pelham

"It was an attempt to insure that firms have a true need for those types of sales, and to prevent their use as simply a draw for the public," Phillips said.

The ordinance, initially approved last fall and amended to include specific penalities last week, seeks to control both the time span and inventories on going out of business or disaster sales.

Under the ordinance, companies seeking to have either a disaster or going out of business sale must apply for a special liscence through the Pelham city clerk. Judicial sales are exempt from the provisions of the ordinance.

Liscence applications should include a sworn listing of complete inventory to be sold under the special liscence and, as far as possible, the names of persons from whom the goods were obtained and the reasons for the sale.

No liscence required by the ordinance will be issued for more than 60 days. The liscence will be renewable for a period not to exceed 30 days by following the initial liscence request proceedure and updating inventory information.

No goods may be added to or deleted from the sworn inventory list for sale under the special liscence. Each sale of goods not so inventoried will be considered a separate offense under the ordinance.

County considers computer consultant

Faced with buying a new processing unit for the county's computer system during the coming fiscal year, Shelby County commissioners are considering hiring a consultant to help with the decision making

Elizabeth Borders, head for the county's data processing department, has told commissioners that the new processing unit will be a must.

"We've basically grown in the services we offer and that's good," Borders said. But the present system is already nearing capacity and several county departments are still doing part of their report work by hand, Borders has already received a tentative proposal on a processor from Burroughs, the company which manufactured the county's present system.

In light of the cost of the proposed processing unit - or any upgraded system, for that mat-

 Commissioner Greg Rushton said he would like to have a second opinion from a consultant.

"We're talking about spending $500,000 and I think it would make everybody more comfortable with our decision,"

Rushton said. Borders and Rushton agreed that a consultant could help with needs evaluation on both hardware and software and would explore all possibilities

Two consulting firms, Arthur Young, and Ernst and Whitney, sent proposals to the commission Monday detailing the services they could offer.

Commissioners decided to study the proposals for the next two weeks and make the decision at their next meeting

It is also possible that the commission could, at that time, vote to purchase the Burroughs probefore making a recommendacessing unit.

For whom they roll

No man is an island, entire of itself; every man is a piece of the continent, a part of the main. ... Any man's death diminishes me because I am involved in mankind, and therefore never send to know for whom the bell tolls; it tolls for thee.

These lines were written by John Donne in 1624. Ernest Hemmingway found them fitting for the title and introduction to For Whom the Bell Tolls. As evidenced by three stories in this week's newspaper, Donne's message is still relevant.

In the X-tra Section is a story on how the crew of Columbiana's Rescue 88 worked in recent months to earn money for a new vehicle and rescue equipment. We don't wish ill luck on anyone, but chances are almost inevitable that the vehicle will someday save the life of someone who donated time or money to it.

As for the massive gasoline leak in Harpersville over the weekend, it is a wonder that there was no explosion, no loss of human life.

This is a credit, at least in part, to volunteer fire and rescue crews from Harpersville, Westover, Chelsea and elsewhere. We'd like to think that people who might have suffered from such an explosion consider their contributions to their local fire and rescue units as true investments.

Also this past weekend a Montevallo youth used the first aid training he received from scouting to assist a motorist injured in an accident. The victim, a fire chief himself, is an advisor to the youth's explorer post.

Columbiana, Harpersville, Montevallo, where ever... There are no islands.

If someone asks you donate to a volunteer unit in your neighborhood, first make sure the group is legitimate. Then give what you can.

The bell — or siren, as it were — tolls for each of us. Sometimes in general, sometimes specifically.

Either way, when it comes to volunteers, it repays us all to help keep them rolling.

Just pilgrims...

I read it in a book, a little box at the bottom of a page. And, suddenly, other lines began to form in my mind.

There was Ida Vick who, for only 10 dollars, taught me that life was a two-way street.

There was Jim Merrell, a good big-hearted parson, who taught me to visit the sick and the shut-ins, and went with me to do it, week after week when he was ill enough to be in bed.

There was Margaret McMillan Arnold, my first Valentine, who left and came back into my life 60 years later, still a valentine. There was Clarice White Luck who listened to my stuff for years, before Hudson Strode taught me how to write; believing there was something here worth cultivating. There was Mildred White Wallace who walked with me down the writing road for half our lives, never for a moment doubting that we were on the high road.

There was Clifford Esco who waited 30 years to meet me face to face, and slipped out of my life inside of four weeks because he was sicker than we knew

There was Dollie Trippett, crippled with arthritis. who never stopped smiling, and passed away one day without a sigh. There was Jack Stone who followed Dan with me through a thousand sage fields, and died one day too old and sick to do anything but wait and look for a visit from a friend. There was Judge Wallace and Mr. Fowler and Big Handy and Cousin Pearl and Granny and Pop and Pennie and Brother Tom and Miss Sue and Fred and Rip and Lawrence and Simon. There was Uncle Walter and Amos Daniels and Tom Morris and Aunt Olive and Kate Henderson Wallace and Mrs. McMillan and Aunt Louella. There were others, hundreds of them, but this is the end of my paper and there is just room for the lines I read in the book: ... They were just pilgrims on this earth; who learned, as we all must, that love, one for another, is the answer ...

The weekly 'Good Morning' column written by Milton Bird, is brought to you with the good wishes of the First National Bank of Columbiana, member FDIC.

AEA makes power play

While some critics of the Alabama Education Association (AEA) are upset at the control the teacher union would have over the proposed career ladder program, they might do well to keep an eye on yet another power play being made by the same organization.

The AEA is making an unabashed lunge to gain control of the State Board of Education. The powers of that board over public education is enormous. Among other things, the board elects the state superintendent of education.

Presently, the board members are elected from the various congressional districts. In the early 1970's, after the federal census, Alabama had to reduce its U.S. House delegation from eight to seven. This meant reducing the congressional districts in the same manner. However, no change was made in the election of state school board members. They have continued to be elected from the school board districts because they were no longer in balance from a population standpoint. The obvious thing to do is simply adopt the present seven congressional districts, thus reducing the school board membership from eight to seven.

It was here that the AEA stepped in. It is pushing for legislation to create nine school districts. They would bear no resemblance to the congressional districts. The AEA is further insisting that one of the new districts be predominantly black, the other at least half black.

Joe Reed, the associate director of the AEA, insists the purpose of the nine-district plan is to guarantee that at least one black will be on the board - perhaps two. But you can be certain that those elected to the two new districts would be pro-AEA.

An ironical aside to this controversy is that up until 1969 members of the state board of education were appointed by the governor. A constitutional amendment was submitted and ratified calling for the election of the board members because there was too much politics involved in their appointment. Little did the supporters of that amendment realize how political the election of board members would become.

Odds and Ends - A bill likely to pass during this legislative session will equalize the salaries paid to the secretary of state, state auditor and state treasurer. Presently the treasurer makes $45,000, the other two only $32,900 a year. The raise would become effective in January, 1987...

It attracted but scant mention, but a distinguished son of Alabama was claimed by death last week. Dr. Luther Terry of Covington County, who served as surgeon general of the U.S., died of a heart attack. Dr. Terry played a prominent role in putting the health warning on cigarettes as well as banning cigarette advertising from radio and TV.

Dedicated volunteers avert potential disaster

Letter to the editor:

On behalf of the citizens of Westover, I would like to extend my personal thanks and gratitude to the members of Harpersville Fire and Rescue, Chelsea Fire and Rescue, our own fire and rescue, Chief Deputy James Jones, Bill Tucker from Civil Defense and all the deputies who assisted on Friday night, April 5 and into early Saturday morning.

By maintaining an all night

Bill clears way for expansion of fire districts in county

by David F. Moore A bill is now being advertised which purports to amend and clarify certain problems with the law establishing fire districts in Shelby County. If enacted by the state legislature, the bill would also help clear certain hurdles involved with the possible expansion of fire districts.

The bill is being sponsored by Rep. John Tanner and was written at the request of members of the North Shelby County Fire District.

The NSCFD, which is bounded on the north by U.S. 280, has previously attempted to expand its coverage area across the highway into the Cahaba Valley Fire District. Several businesses on the north side of 280 pay Cahaba Valley fire dues and also contract with NSCFD for added protection.

North Shelby trustee Jack van Pelt says that it will probably be another two years before there are enough new residents in the Cahaba Valley district to swing an election and allow the NSCFD boundries to cross 280.

The bill is now being advertised for the second of four required weeks in the legal section ty Reporter. In general, it calls for or clarifies the following •Fire districts are at the county level of government.

•An election to abolish a district cannot be held more than every two years unless it's held concurrently with an election to join an adjoining fire district proposed to be enlarged.

•Fire dues are a "service charge" which can be levied and collected from any land owner in the district, including government bodies, such as Spain Park, and developments tied to industrial development bonds, such as Dewberry Engraving on U.S. 280.

•When property owners cannot be found or otherwise identified, service charges can be collected from the occupant on that

 Nominees for fire district trustees must file with the probate judge before the first primary election day in a year of statewide elections, or that candidate's name cannot be entered on the ballot and can receive only write-in votes.

•For an election to be held in an area proposed to be included petition must first be signed by 100 qualified electors in that area. If the area includes less than 150 electors, then twothirds of that number must sign the petition.

•No district can be abolished or diminished unless full provisions are made to pay off its in-

"It's time to clarify certain problems which became obvious to us over the years we've been operating under the original bill," van Pelt said. But the bill "most certainly has impact on other Shelby County fire districts in the election factors and if there's an attempt to abolish them..

Van Pelt said the main push of the bill is to clarify the owneroccupant question.

Additionally, he said it clears the way for NSCFD's expansion into the Cahaba Valley district. "But we still must get a vote or the people to abolish the old district so they won't have two districts overlapping.'

Van Pelt said that by the time enough votes have moved into the Cahaba Valley district to make that possible, there may be enough new business there to make such a move economically feasible to the NSCFD.

County baseball action hot despite cold and wet

Sophomore pitcher Steve Levan scattered three hits and struck out eight batters to lead the Pelham Panthers to a 6-2 win over Thompson in county baseball action last week

"Our kids showed great character, courage, and pride," said PHS coach Jim Vakakes. "We were 0-1 in the area and had our backs to the wall with Thompson coming in and their great radition. It was a big win for us.

Panther Mike Bramblett picked up the game winning RBI with a solo homer in the third innng. That broke a 2-2 tie and Pelham never lookd back. The Panthers scored three in the fifth to Bramblett, with a homer and a suicide squeeze bunt for two RBIs, and Jamie Lovelady with a double and a single and two RBIs keyed the Pelham win at the plate.

Randy Littleton was the loser for Thompson in a game in which the THS staff said the Warriors were "stone cold" at the plate.

PELHAM 7, GARDENDALE 5

Pelham enjoyed a 2-0 week last week, adding a 7-5 win over Gardendale to their victory over Thompson.

Bramblett went seven innings, striking out six and scattering five hits and three walks to take

Pelham scored three runs in the fifth to take their first lead in the game. Lovelady's two-run triple the big blow. Tony Erwin's started the inning with a solo homer.

But the Panthers needed a stellar play by right lielder John Laird to seal the win. In the bottom of the seventh with one out and a man on, Cardendale's batter sent a shot to right field, a sinking line drive that went "on a rope" according to Pelham's Vakakes.

Laird took a few steps then stretched horizontally to make the catch. Instead of a run scored and the tying runon third, the Panthers had two outs and quickly retired the side.

THOMPSON 24, MONTEVALLO 4

Thompson picked up two wins last week to counter losses to Pelham and Berry, leaving the Warrior record at 7-5 thus far in 85.

Thompson batters pounded out 13 runs after wo outs in the bottom of the first inning, then oasted to a 24-4 win over Montevallo.

A three-run triple by Wayne Price, RBI triples by Shane Horrell and Tim Edwards, and RBI doubles by Byron Partridge and Anthony O'Neal ighlighted the THS first.

Tom Hummell went the distance to pick up the win for Thompson.

THS 13, McADORY 11

Hummell was three of five with two RBIs to help the Warriors to a 13-11 win over McAdory. Horrell carried the game's biggest bat, slamming a homer among three hits good for five RBIs.

Richard Kidd was also three of five with a PBI, and Chuck Edwards had an RBI triple in Randy Littleton picked up the win for Billy Woodham's Warriors. Kenny Johnson got a save in the extra inning affair.

Back-to-back singles by Horrell, Kidd, Partridge, and Hummell provided the winning margin for the Warriors in the top of the eighth.

BERRY 14, THS 3

John Zagar was the loser in a 14-3 THS loss to berry in a game where two of the three Warrior ins were unearned.

SHELBY COUNTY 6, PELHAM 4

The Shelby County Wildcats kept their season perfect at 3-0 by handing defeats to Pelham 6-4

Chilton County 9-3.

David Wood singled in the first, scoring Kevin mes and Ambrose Wood, to give the Cats and arly lead. David was two of three on the night with a double and three RBIs.

In the fifth, Ambrose got his second double of the night then scored on a Kevin Jones single to begin a big fifth inning for SCHS.

lones went two for four.

Pelham's Tony Erwin had a two-RBI double to ead the Panthers at the plate.

Kenneth Jones scattered seven hits and two walks, going the distance for the win for SCHS. Yelms went the distance for Pelham and took the of four with an RBI. Woods homered with a man aboard in the first and sixth, keying a three run first that gave SCHS a lead it never gave up.

Kenneth Jones picked up a save in two innings of relief, while the entire SCHS defense drew praise from Reid for its play.

CALERA 5, MONTEVALLO 4

The Calera Eagles picked up a win in their season opener with Montevallo behind a six strike-out, no walk performance from James "Boo Boo" Jones. Jones scattered eight hits to go the distance for the win.

Danny Kelly took the loss for Montevallo in relief of Anthony Prentice. Prentice struck out nine but walked 10 in four innings for the Dogs. Byron White tripled and scored and Chris

Smith scored twice after walks to lead the Eagle Montevallo's Trey Hughes was the big stick for the Dogs, getting two hits in three at bats, one a double, and an RBI. Bulldog Andy Chism homered but was given credit only for a two-RBI triple after he missed home plate. Montevallo scored twice in the second to take an early lead, but Calera came back to tie with a run in each of the second and third innings. Both teams scored in the fourth, and Montevallo took the lead with a run in the sixth. But Calera scored twice in the sixth on a walk and two errors to take the win. BRIARWOOD 10, ST. CLAIR 0

The Briarwood Lions took a 10-0 win over St. Clair County last week, but dropped a 15-5 area decision to West Blocton.

Gene Carlson pitched a one hitter and walked no one to take the win over St. Clair.

Carleson then added a three run homer to Steve Fortenberry's two run triple to key a big first inning for the Lions.

WEST BLOCTON 15, BCHS 5

Fortenberry had a two run homer and Briarwood got doubles from Steve Blake and Casey Campbell but could not control West Blocton at the plate in the 15-5 loss. Carleson was also the pitcher of record in that game.

At 3-3, BCHS coach Byrle Kynerd feels his team is off to a slower start than expected, but said the Lions were working hard to be more competitive by mid-season.

"We're trying hard to develop into a more complete team," he said.

SHELBY ACADEMY 11, MINOR 8

The Shelby Academy Raiders evened their record at 1-1 with an 11-8 win over Minor last Starting pitcher Mike Upton gave up only four hits and struck out eight over five and two thirds innings, then delivered the game winning RBI with a homer over the 350 mark at the University of Montevallo's field.

Ricky Shaw, who picked up the win in relief. was two of four with two RBIs for the game. Sam Hamm, Raider first baseman, contributed a stellar defensive play to the win, saving a triple on a hard hit ball down the line.

"We made a lot of improvements after our first game," said Raider coach Rod Johnson. "We hit the ball well and played good defense."

Briarwood wins track meet

by K.A. Turner

The Briarwood Lions gave new coach Bruce Hubbs two big wins in county track action last week.

Briarwood won the competition in both men's and women's divisions of a tri-meet with Shelby County and Montevallo. In men's competition Briarwood racked up 82 points to finish in the top spot. Shelby County camein second with 48 and Montevallo scored eight.

In the women's division the Lady Lions totaled 85 points to win, followed by Montevallo with 23 and Shelby County with 17.

"They all did an excellent job," Hubbs said of his Lion teams. Pat Grant, John Kirkpatrick, Conrad Carpenter, Hugh Thomas and Wayne Miller drew individual mention from Hubbs for improved performances.

But Hubbs was not the only coach pleased with the effort shown at the match as both Randle Cassady of Shelby County and Sammy Skinner of Montevallo saw positive points in their team's perfor-

Cassady was excited about the effort shown by an SCHS team competing with only a week-and-a-half's practice. Gerald Lawson and Leon Davis, both individual event winners, were pleasant surprises with their speed, Cassady said.

In Montevallo's first meet of the year, Skinner watched his team members improve on the times they had recorded in practice. The MHS women were especially impressive and Skinner said several of the Lady Dogs could do well in sectionals if they continue to im-

Specifically, Skinner cited the efforts of Mary Anne Sailes and Jenifer Bivins for the Lady Dogs, and was pleased with the 23-point final total for a Montevallo team which does not have entrants in the field events.

MEN'S COMPETITION

Briarwood's David Deason won the shot with a 38'10" throw. Scott Robinson, SCHS, finished second; Shawn Lowe, BCHS, third; Will Burke, BCHS, fourth.

Youth policy set

The Shelby County Reporter is making a committment to expand its youth sports coverage throughout the county.

But we need your help. In order to provide the best possible coverage for youth baseball and softball, we need to deal with a single publicity representative from each county league to insure equal ink for all involved.

The Reporter will hold an important meeting at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, April 18, at our offices in Columbiana to meet the publicity reps from each league and instruct them on proceedures for getting their teams' stories in the paper.

With the help of these publicity chairmen, we hope to bring news of every league every week. In addition, the Reporter will sponsor an amateur youth baseball and softball photo contest. Weekly winners will have pictures published in the paper, and a grand prize will be awarded at season's end. We're excited about youth baseball and softball. Help us help you see more of it by making sure your league has a represenatative at the Thursday meeting. For more information, call

Weight:

gaining and training for youngsters at SCHS

by K.A. Turner

"How much did you weigh today?" Shelby County High School coach Wimpy Winthers asked a young weightlifter. "120, but that was Friday," the youngster replied. "Go weigh today," Winther

A few minutes later an aspiring lineman returned to report a five-pound gain... since Friday.

"That's good," Winther said. "We want to get them in these growth spurts."

Getting them while they grow is what Shelby County's junior high weight program is all about.

Under the direction of head football coach Randle Cassady the junior Wildcats participated in abbreviated spring drills and are participating in a weight program for the first time in several years.

Winther, who directs the weight training, said the young kids are getting excited about the program.

"They're enjoying ing to do some things so that can still improve and help the themselves," he said. "We're try- they won't get burned out but program."

Stallions' Stable

Q: What Birmingham Stallions defensive back provides doubles as a "return specialist"?

A: Former Auburn Tiger Chuck Clanton. doesn't return punts or kicks, but is making a career out of returning pass interceptions for touchdowns. A Pro Football Weekly all-USFL rookie last season, Clanton intercepted 10 passes and returned three for scores, his 24.9 return average tops in the USFL. This season, Clanton (24) continues to give fellow defensive backs and the Stallions a lot to be happy about. Clanton leads the league with eight interceptions, returning one 49 yards for a score in Sunday's game with San Antonio. It was Clanton's first official TD of the year, but he also returned an intercept for a touchdown during preseason action.

The Montevallo High School Band will compete in the State Band Contest at Troy State University Friday, April 19. This is the latest competition which the band has entered, following a string of superior ratings

MHS won the honor of traveling to state after beating six area bands in district competition at Shades Valley recently.

MHS band also won honors in the State Solo/Ensemble competition at UAB Mar. 23.

Thirty students participated in the contest and a record 51 medals were brought home. The band also won the first division.

Four Montevallo area students will travel with the Jemison High School Band to Washington, D.C., where the band will participate in the agenda for the next meeting at Cherry Blossom Festival.

Stephanie Emfinger; Laura Martin, daughter of Jane and Jim Martin; Christie Parks, daughter of Joyce and Bobby Parks; and Tim Harrell, son of Betty Harrell, left Apr. 10 for the Festival.

The band will spend four days seeing the sights of the nation's capital as well as playing in the Festival parade Apr. 13.

A special dinner was held by the members of the Epsilon Psi Chapter of the Beta Sigma Phi Mar. 26. at the Mandarin House.

·Encourage your child to put forth his best effort when taking

•Refrain from making your child anxious about the tests to the extent they will be afraid of failing.

•See that your child is in school every day possible and is diligent in homework assignments.

•Insure that your child will have had the proper amount of sleep and rest before each school day and especially on test days.

 Encourage a nutritious diet and particularly a good breakfast.

Parents with questions concerning the Basic Competency Tests and Stanford Achievement Tests should contact their child's school for more information.

"It is not enough to leave Egypt, one must also enter the Promised Land." This statement, made by St. Chrysostom in his IN MAT-THAEI EVANGELIUM, is precisely the proposition which the Parable of the Demonaic (and his relapse) makes. (St. Luke 11:14-28).

"When the unclean spirit has gone out of a man, he passes through waterless places seeking rest; and finding none he says, 'I will return to my house from whence I came.' And when he comes he finds it swept and put in order. Then he goes and brings seven other spirits more evil than himself, and they enter and dwell there; and the last state of that man becomes worse than the first." (vv. 24-26).

to belong; he is created to seek for something greater than himself to which he can pledge his allegiance. Mankind is not complete without this, because mankind is not capable of mastering his own soul.

We see this all around us in our world today - in the form of drugs, crime, por-nography, etc. All of these have seized upon the souls of their victims. Even such seemingly innocent things as television and sports can take over the souls of man, if allowed to do so.

The Parables of the Demoniac tells us that when we abandon one vice, sweep our houses and get our lives in order, unless we replace this vice we have expelled with a sound faith in our Lord Jesus Christ, above whom there are none greater, then that vice which we have abandoned will return, and with it will come other vices, until, shortly, we will find our lives worse off than before.

The political and social dictators whom we see and read about everyday obtain their power by offering their followers a figure which they can perceive to be greater than themselves. They fill the emptiness in their followers' lives with a temporary filler. They supply fleeting relief, and when they are overthrown, the followers are, once again, left to sweep their houses and put them in order for successive rulers and dictators.

"secularism". Secularism has been termed the moral vacuum of the twentieth century. It is the antithesis of Christianity. Whereas Christianity builds character and moral values, secularism tears them down. One cannot profess to be a Christian and a secularist at the same time. There is no gray area.

It was this about which lesus said: "He who is not with me is against me, and he who does not gather with me scatters." We cannot profess Christianity if we do not try to act Christian, and we cannot be Christian if we do not profess Christ.

LEGAL NOTICE STATE OF ALABAMA

COUNTY OF SHELBY NOTICE is hereby given that a bill substantially as follows will be inroduced in the Legislature of Alabama and application for its passage and enactment will be made.

AN ACT Relating to Shelby County, to fur-ier amend sections 3, 5, 12, 14, and 15 of Act No. 62, H. 213, first special session 1977 (Acts 1977, p. 1483), which relates to districts for lighting or preventing lires, so as to further ride for elections concerning such districts and the collection of service charges; and to further pr vide for the method of enlarging and

LEGISLATURE OF ALABAMA Section 1. Sections 3, 5, 12, 14 and 15 of Act No. 62, H. 213, first special session 1977 (Acts 1977, p. 1483), is nereby amended further to read as

Section 3. Any area situated en tirely within the county may be fires and for emergency medical se vices in the manner hereinafter pro vided for provided, however, no land lying within the boundaries of a cipality at the time of the election for the establishment of the district shall be included in a district. A district formed in accordance with the provisions of this act shall be ned to be at the county level of

"Section 5. a. When a petition to permanent trustees as provided section 10 of this act, is filed with the probate judge, the probate judge shall order the election sought by the petition to be held on a day not less than thirty days nor more than forty calendar days from the date on which the probate judge enters said order. b. The provisions of subsection a of this section shall apply to all elec-tions, except for an election for per-nament trustees as provided in sec tion 10 below, provided such an elec-tion is not prohibited by subsection of of this section or other provisions of

"c. Elections on the question of the amount for service charges may be held pursuant to the provisions of subsection a of this section of sec-tion 13 of this act. Elections pertainng to the establishment of the same district or portion thereof or the aboli-tion of a district shall not be held more than once every two years, except that an election providing for the abolition or diminution of a district may be concurrently joined with a tion to become a portion of an adng district proposed to be enlarg-

'd. Elections for permanent trustees shall be as provided in section 10 of this act. However, unless ch trustee is filed with the probate judge before the first primary election day in year of a statewide election the probate judge is prohibited from causing the name of such candidate to be printed on the ballot, and votes for such candidate can only be orded as write-in votes.
'Section 12. The expense of establishing and maintaining a district shall be paid for by the pro-ceeds of a service charge which shall be levied and collected in an amount sufficient to pay said expense. Said service charge shall be levied upon and collected from persons and properties served by the system. Such charges shall be collectible from any owner of property, including subdivisions of the state, municipalities counties or other public bodies. Such charge shall be a personal obligation of the owner of the property served by the system; and to secure the colle tion of the charge there shall be a lie against said property in favor of the district, which lien shall be en-forceable by sale thereof in the same manner in which the foreclosure of a municipal assessment for public im-provements is authorized. In the event that the occupant of a property is not the owner, and for whateve reason the collection of the charge cannot be effected from the owner in a timely manner, the occupant shall le to the district for the pay ment of such charge.

"Section 14. a. A district may be enlarged in accordance with the terms of this section, provided however, that no area lying within a municipality at the time of the enlargement shall be brought within the district.

b. No area shall be brought within a district by enlargement unless the majority of the votes cast at the election provided for by subsection c of this section, approve the inclusion of the area within the district and also approve every service charge in effect within the district at the time of the

c. The term 'proposed area' as us ed in this subsection c, means an area which is proposed to be brought within a district by enlargement of the district, and such area in con-tiguous to the district to be enlarged. When the board of trustees of the district determines that the inclusion of a proposed area contiguous to the district would be to the advantage of the district and also to the advantag of the majority of the residents of th proposed area, the board of trustees may file in the office of the probate judge a petition, signed by 100 per-sons who are qualified electors ng within the boundaries of the proposed area, or by two-thirds of the qualified electors residing within the boundaries of the proposed area if there are less than 150 of such qualified electors, that there be an election in the proposed area at which there shall be submitted to the qualified electors residing within th proposed area the question of whether the proposed area shall be included within the district and also the question of whether every service charge in effect within the district at the time of the election is approved, upon such petition being filed, with he times provided for in section 5 a qualified electors shall vote on the two foregoing questions. Notice of such election shall be given as pro-vided for in section 7 of this act. the election vote in the affirmative or each of the foregoing questions, the roposed area shall not be included within the district. Upon the officers convassing the returns of the elec tion certifying that a majority of the sion of the proposed area in the district, and the majority of the votes

Bentley: working with the tide

by K.A. Turner

Paul William Bryant Hall on the University of Alabama campus is home to Crimson Tide football teams. For that reason, it's home — at least for now — to Alabaster's Jeff Bentley.

The hall is an impressive place.

The burnished gleam of golden trophies fills the lobby area of the dorm. Most of the trophies bear the number one.

The walls are adorned with portraits of men now legendary, the kind of men that change people's lives forever.

Yet surrounded by all of this, Jeff Bentley remains unchanged.

"I'm still the same," the former Thompson High Warrior said. "I can't tell that all this has changed me much. People don't tell me I'm different."

Bentley, it would seem, has every right to change. His surroundings definately have.

From a comfortable home with family and friends in Alabaster, to leather furnishings and athletes of Bryant Hall...

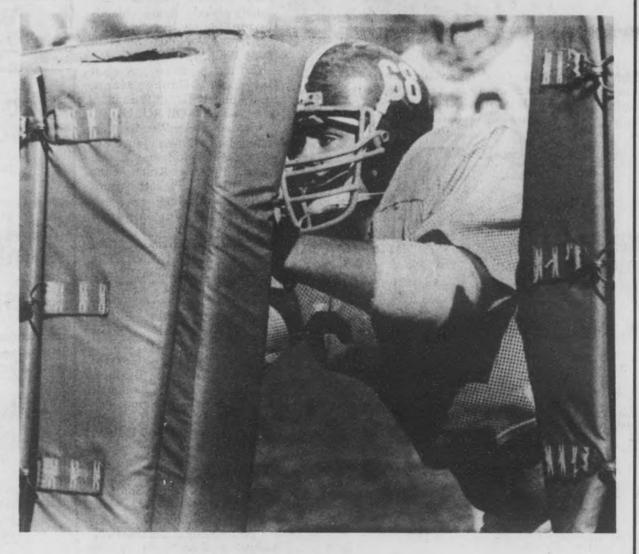

From a starting position on Thompson's offensive and defensive lines, to a starting quick guard position with the Crimson Tide — complete with 70,000 Legion Field fans.

From hunting with buddies in Shelby County, to hunting with Curt Jarvis, USA Today's Most Outstanding Freshman noseguard two years ago. But Bentley insists his new surroundings have become a way of life now, a life he still leads in much the same way he grew up in Alabaster.

"Sure it was a big change at first," Bentley said of his initiation into the Alabama system. "But now its just the thing I do. You go out and practice here just like we went out to practice at Thompson. No one here puts on any airs."

What Bentley and his fellows do put on is a See BENTLEY, Page X-5

Outstanding Young Women named for '84

Twenty-three Shelby County women have been selected for inclusion in the 1984 edition of Outstanding Young Women of America.

Candidates for the award must be women between the ages of 21 and 36 who have distinguished themselves in their homes, professions and communities. Nominations are made by various women's organizations, college alumni associations and public officials.

Approximately 30,000 other women nationwide have been tapped for inclusion in the 1984 volume. The awards also recognize 51 women who are selected as Outstanding Women of their respective states as well as those who were selected as the Ten Outstanding Young Women of America.

The following Shelby County women are included in the 1984 edition:

•Deborah Susan Lybrand Marcus, Helena;

•Kathy Denise Kirby, Calera; •Susan Annette Smith, Vincent;

Susan Annette Smith, Vincent;
Davonia Jo Shipp, Alabaster;
Julie Spafford Ryland, Montevallo;

•Lisa Gaines Chilson, Montevallo;

•Mary Lynn Lane, Montevallo; •Brenda Lee rice, Leeds

Making it with Mental Health!

JOHN S. BRUMLEY

Sexual Addictions

Homosexuality

Part II

Last week I shared part of an interview I conducted with a former lesbian or female homosexual. I came away from the interview more convinced that homosexuality is not determined by heredity or environment -- that it remains a matter of choice. The clincher for my taking this opinion is my knowledge of others who have had very similar circumstances but have chosen different lifestyles. Often these individuals have severe problems. Some suffer from loneliness, depression, alcoholism and underdeveloped interpersonal skills, nevertheless, they stay "straight."

During the interview this person told me, "I think they (homosexuals) are rebelling -they're telling their parents, "I'll show you!" What starts as curiosity and a choice to participate in a "new experience" may turn into passion, addiction and commitment to a gay lifestyle.

And then I remembered Dr. Abraham Maslow who taught that man is a creature who is driven by his needs -- whether basic physical and safety needs or more sophisticated needs such as achieving our life's goals and ambitions. This begins with the infant who needs to be touched, held, rocked, talked to and totally accepted and nurtured. If this complete love is supplied a bond is formed between parent and child that will go a long way toward preventing future emotional problems and vulnerability to addictive behavior. But even when this bond does not get adequately formed there is still opportunity for success and happiness. Whether you hear it from a minister, a friend or a good therapist/counselor, the choice to seek help is always available -- many have overcome with this help and if the shoe fits, you can too.

The phone is ringing and our clinics are very busy. We're listening to your comments and suggestions.

Education foundation

established

The Alabama Foundation for Educational Excellence has been established by the Alabama Department of Education. The purpose of the foundation is to improve and enhance elementary and secondary public school programs in Alabama.

"I want to point out that this is not a political fund," said Dr. Teague, Superintendent of Education. "The Foundation has been developed to assist, support and foster educational and public service programs, opportunities and activities encouraging fund contributions for educational purposes not covered by traditional state appropriations."

Serving on the Board of Directors for the Foundation are several of Alabama's leading businessmen and industrialists.

John Harbert, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Harbert Construction Co. in Riverchase, is among those from across the state serving on the new board.

lot of sweat and dirt during the spring practice sessions they're now undergoing. In addition, there is pressure, pressure that comes with the job of being an Alabama football player.

"People think you should be number one when you're from Alabama," Bentley said. "I guess everyone feels the pressure every now and then. The fans don't always realize that it's not as easy as just wanting to win. You have to work real hard at it."

Bama coach Ray Perkins said last week that Bentley's hard work is beginning to pay dividends itself.

Moved into a starting role by an injury to returning letterman David Gilmer, Bentley

JEFF BENTLEY

"Jeff started slow," Perkins said, "but he's been making good progress in the last couple of practice sessions. Just like everybody else, he has a long way to go but he's a hard worker. He has a lot of pride and desire to play so he'll play." Bentley is "pleased to a point" with the progress he has made this spring, but still feels he can do better. Yet, keeping things in perspective, Bentley also realizes what kind of accomplishment it is to simply be a member of the Crimson Keeping things in perspective is something Bentley seems to be good at. Like spending his little bits of free time hunting and fishing with new friends at Alabama - Jarvis, Britton Cooper, and roommate Mike Burkett.

He stays involved with his girlfriend, Lori Winford, even though she's in school at Auburn. He keeps in sight post graduate plans, where education plays a more important role than foot-

"Everyone has dreams of playing pro ball or something," Bentley explained, "but I don't really see it right now.

"The hardest thing for me right now is getting these books down," he said. Bentley is currently an education major, but plans to try a new college program at Alabama that will give him a chance to choose his own currriculum. He hopes to make a career in conservation or "something else outdoors." And he wouldn't mind spending that career somewhere close to the Alabaster home he grew

"I don't know if I'll ever live in Alabaster, but I wouldn't mind being somewhere in the area. That's my home, it's where I grew up.' But thoughts of a permanent home now take a back seat to thoughts of his home in Bryant Hall. As a sophomore next season, Bentley will have three more years to give to the Tide before he has to make any decisions about letting football be his occupation "somewhere outside.

And with the hoem at Bryant Hall comes the pressure of tradition created by it's namesake.

"You have to work hard and do well at everything," Bentley said. "The pressure is there if you want to keep your job.

UM honors 'ghost writer'

Truly a "ghost writer, Kathryn Tucker Windham, renowned for her ghostly tales of the Deep South, will receive the University of Montevallo's Charmichael Library Award for Distinguished Contributions to Arts and Letters in Alabama.

The presentation will be made at a noon luncheon in the Montevallo Room of the campus dining hall during National Library Week, Wednesday April 17.

Windham is the author of numerous books on ghosts in Alabama and elsewhere in the Deep South. Her latest book is Jeffrey's Latest 13 — More Alabama Ghosts.

She has served as a member of the Board of Directors on the National Association for the Preservation and Perpetuation of Storytelling. She is a former reporter for the Alabama Journal in Montgomery, the Birmingham News and the Selma-Times Journal.

Columbiana beefs up Rescue 88

by Bert Seaman "We've got $30,000 sitting outside city hall," Mike Atchison told the Columbiana Council Thursday.

Atchison was referring to the worth of the rescue squad's new van and its contents, which were on display for the council and public.

Last year the city donated $4,000 to Rescue 88, $2,000 of which was earmarked for a new van. Atchison and Lester Young raised $10,000 by soliticing donations from individuals and businesses

"This is the biggest, fastest, and nearly the best equipped rescue vehicle in the county,' Atchison said.

By getting the vehicle at cost the rescue squad saved $3,000. Equipment and supplies worth $15,000 were secured for $12,000, Atchison said.

The city was responsible for purchasing one of the unit's most valuable pieces of equipment a $3,400 hurst tool.

Atchison said the unit is averaging two calls a day.

With a new, larger rescue vehicle, Atchison asked the council to provide funds for enlarging the garage at the unit's base station. He also said the building needed a new roof.

Because the work would cost over $6,000 the council decided it might be wiser to put up a new building. City owned property behind city hall was mentioned as a good location.

The matter is to be discussed further.

Officers of the rescue unit are: Nena Atchison, president; Johnny Lee, vice-president; Mike Atchison, secretary, treasurer; Mark Bray, chief; Charles Duncan, assistant chief.

Serving on the board of directors are: Charles Bray, Shirley Davis, Larry Ray, Lester Young.

PHS, Riverchase win mind olympics

by Bert Seaman
Two Shelby County schools were first place winners in the Olympics of the Mind competition held Saturday at Riverchase Middle School.

Out of the 34 competing teams, Riverchase and Pelham High School won top spots with robot projects. Riverchase also took a first with a balsa wood structure.

Three teams went to compete in Tuscaloosa April 10. Last year, a Riverchase team advanced to the national level.

In the robot event, Riverchase enrichment teacher Cindy Kirkpatrick explained that the robot - known as Hi-tech Smarty Pants — had to perform tasks such as traversing a course, and be able to answer questions in history, math, geography and

In the project called Com-pound Fracture, the Riverchase team had to build a balsa wood structure similar to a suspension bridge that would support a heavy load. The team also had o answer spontaneous questions.

Riverchase teams also won three second place ribbons with projects called: Big Top, Music Maestro Please, and Ecology Pelham's winning team was composed of: Chuck Morris, Kelly Martin, Dale Cooley, Julie Bullard, Sam Jones, Bryan Jackson, Jesse Jones.

Creators of the winning Hi-tech Smarty Pants project at Riverchase were: Gwen Meister, Ashley Boatwright, Stephanie Sautel, Rica Sirbaugh, Rachael Braden, Andy Norris, Tracy Griffin.

Team members for the Compound Fracture project were: Frank Patrick, Sean Lindsay, Mike Cook, Mike Russell, Scott Huling, Nathan Ingram, Paul Lydolph.

Second place team winners for the Big Top project were: Tim Patton, Amy Baker, Amy Dixon, Jennifer Barnes, Teresa

Blevins, Lila Henderson, Jill

The team for Music Maestro Please was: Kristi Henson, Becky

Ashcraft, Ann Argo, Christy Ponder, Jennifer Wolfe, Donna Bryan, Tracy Moore.

were: Ricky Weber, Mike Stevens, Shawn Adams, Todd Chambers, Lance Meister, Randall Smith. Ecology Dozer team members

When students got outside they had 75 friends from the Columbiana Middle School

"This was all the kids idea," FHA sponsor Carol Hill said. The group first visted the center last Christmas time at Hill's suggestion, bringing gingerbread houses for the center students.

"They said that field trip was the best they ever had," Hill said. "They wanted to come back to see the kids they had 'adopted'."

The FHA students hid eggs, baked bunny cakes, and threw a big Easter party for the center students. In addition, they participated together in playground game, a softball game, and a little basketball shootout.

Through it all, FHA Easter bunny Scott Armstrong entertained the center children.

"They shared a lot of things," Hill said later. "But most of all the seventh and eighth grade students shared part of themselves with these youngsters."

Center for Exceptional Children principal Beverly Hall enjoyed watching the festivities and commented on the Easter surprise the children got to enjoy. She also remembered a se-

Calera church helps family

Northside Baptist Church of Calera has established a fund to assist the family of Robert Johnson of Calera, which is unable to work but faced with mounting consumer and medical Johnson has been in the hospital 10 times since January '84 and has had both open-heart and hernia surgery which left him unable to work. His wife, Caroline is also experiencing medical problems which prevent her from doing more than light household chores.

The Johnson family's only income at present is less than $500 per month from Social Security.

Fund trustee Curtis Cofer said the Robert Johnson Fund account was opened two weeks ago with Central State Bank to handle donations to the family.

"We have a benevolent committee that tries to help people in need and we feel there is a need here," Cofer said. "This is part of our out-reach ministry."

"What the people at Northside are doing is wonderful," says Caroline Johnson. "It eases the burden on my mind.'

church members have already donated to the account, Cofer

Cofer said that donations should be made out to the Robert Johnson Fund, and taken or mailed to the bank.

Calera loses

postmaster

Calera Postmaster Betty McGowen has been transfered to the Hemphill Texas Post Office. She was postmaster in Calera for two years.

Her husband, Jim McGowen. was a postal systems examiner at the Birmingham Post Office. The couple formerly lived on Lay Lake, but were originally from Hemphill.

Chuck Conn was been named officer in charge on March 16. He will hold that position for about three months until a new postmaster is named.

Conn is the manager of the Pratt City Post Office in Birmingham and lives in Mt. Oliver. He has been with the postal service 17 years.

"Any problems anybody has with their mail or post office proceedures can come in and I'll be gald to help them," Conn said. "If I can't, I'll be glad to point them in the right direc-

Bikers ride for charity

Penny Kovakas and Maurice Turgeon have been appointed as chairpersons for this year's St. Jude's Children's Hospital Bike-A-Thon.

The Bike-A-Thon will be held in Wilsonville Saturday, April 27 beginning at 9 a.m. In case of rain, the date will be May 4.

The St. Jude's Bike-A-Thon raises funds for the hospital which treats children with cancer and other catastrophic diseases. No child is turned away from the hospital, therefore fund-raisers such as this are imperative to the functioning of St. Jude's.

Sponsor forms for interested bikers may be picked up at the First National Bank of Columbiana, Wilsonville and Columbiana branches.

SA contest stresses safety

Students at Shelby Academy are going to be thinking more about safety than they ever have before.

The reason is the poster safety contest sponosred by Traveler's Protective Association, a nonprofit orgainzation devoted to child safety awarness. Larry Childers, who handed out certificates and monetary awards to winners Wednesday, said the organization can outfit school safety patrols with no cost to the school.

He said the group also gives free bicycle inspections.

Anyone interested in obtaining more information about the organization, which has 500 members in Alabama, may contact Childers at 663-2158 or 323-6121.

The winning poster in the SA competition was done by 6th grader Billy Lee, who was presented a $100 savings bond.

Kindergarten student Teal Glasgow won a $50 savings bond for the second place poster; 6th grader Honor Ingals won $15 for third place; 3rd grader Lindsay Falls received $10 for fourth place.

Pelham Library issue appears to be settled

by K.A. Turner

It appears that the final chapter may have been written in the Pelham Library story.

Following a meeting last week with state library officials, Pelham Mayor Bobby Hayes said he felt "very good" about the library situation. Hayes said he is now ready to move forward with the city's new library board.

The Pelham Library boards - both old and new - were the subject of scrutiny from the Alabama Department of Library Services and its director Anthony Miele.

After the council voted on Jan. 7 of this year to dissolve the original board, county library officials brought the matter to Miele's attention. Miele received an attorney general's opinion which stated that a mayor had no power to dissolve the board without just cause.

That opinion raised questions as to the Pelham Library's status as a state recognized entity.

But following a meeting between Miele, Hayes, and State Senator John Teague in Montgomery, the situation was resolved.

Hayes presented Miele with the reasons for dissolving the board, and noted that it had been an action by the Pelham City Council, not the mayor's office alone.

Following that meeting, Meile requested and received a second AG opinion which supported the

Spill kills 22,000 fish

by Bert Seaman

The gasoline spill in Yellow Leaf Creek last week has killed an estimated 22,000 fish.

Dan Catchings, a biologist with the state department of conservation, said that the gasoline which spilled into the creek from a ruptured line killed fish over a 13-mile stretch of

The line owned by Colonial Pipeline running under U.S. 280 west of Harpersville ruptured on creek.

Alabaster-based home health care firm becomes subject of investigation by DA

by David F. Moore

About 160 employees of a now defunct Alabaster-based home health care service have been left holding worthless paychecks.

By Monday, the bad payroil checks had generated 35 complaints to the Shelby County District Attorney's office which has officially launched a full scale investigation into the possibility of bringing criminal charges against the owners of Shelby County Health Services of Alabama, Inc.

"We've got an active investigation on," District Attorney Billy Hill said Monday. "We're concerned that a number of employees have been wronged, as well as patients who were counting on the company for health services.'

DA's investigator Bob O'Connor is asking that former employees or anyone else with information on the company to contact him: 669-4161.

Shelby County Health Services of Alabama, Inc. formerly operated a chain of 10 offices in Shelby, Jefferson, Talladega, St. Clair, Bibb and Chilton Counties.

A former employee said she was notified that the company folded on April 4, but probate records do not show that it has been dissolv-

Hundreds still owe on overdue property tax

Some owe thousands of dollars. Others less than $10. All told, Shelby County is out more than $60,000 for delinquent property taxes on 350 parcels of land. Unless the late taxes are paid by 10 a.m. on Wednesday, May 15, the property will be sold at public auction to the

On such sales the tax collector gets the amount of the tax plus interest and advertising costs, and any bid over that goes into the county general fund.

The master list of delinquent taxes and the owners of those parcels were printed according to state law in last week's edition of the Shelby County Reporter.

Shelby County Tax Collector Annette Skinner said the master list of 350 unpaid tax notices this year mark an increase of 16 over last year.

As of noon last Thursday, 31 of the late tax payments had been made and purged from the master list. Those notices unpaid as of that deadline, are printed again this week on Pages A-12 through A-14.

A final list of notices will published in next week's newspaper.

Goggins' case goes to state appeal's court

by Bert Seaman

Danny Goggins has taken another step in his fight to keep his position as principal at Calera High School

Last week Goggins and his AEA attorneys appealed to the state court of appeals to reverse the ruling of Circuit Court Judge Robert Armstrong.

Armstrong had said in March that the board of education's decision to transfer Goggins to the principal's post at Shelby Elementary School could not be considered a loss of status.

However, the door for Goggins to stay on at Calera was left open a crack when the judge sent the case back to the state tenure commission to determine whether the transfer was "arbitrarily unjust or for political or personal reasons."

Rather than waiting for the tenure commission to meet, Goggins and his attorneys opted to go the appeal route.

"I feel that we have an excellent case," Goggins said. "I'm optimistic that the circuit ruling will be overturned."

Goggins says he will take the case all the way to the supreme court if that should become necessary.

Shelby County Superintendent of Education Ellie Glasscox cited a lack of harmony with the school's faculty when he recommended Goggins' transfer last Goggins said last week that Calera has had a good school year and that everyone has been cooperative. He said he is sure that cooperation will continue.

Glasscox's recommendation to transfer Goggins was reaffirmed in June following a hearing before the board of education. Later, the Alabama Tenure Commission overturned the board's decision, and the board took the case to circuit court.

Goggins will stay at Calera as long as litigation continues.

Sammy Arledge will continue as interim principal at Shelby Elementary until the situation is

Commission divided on districting question

by K.A. Turner

Shelby County commissioners are divided in their preferred methods for filling county commission seats.

A move by Commissioner Harold Davenport to have that method changed, however, failed to pass during last week's commission meeting.

Davenport introduced a resolution that could have given county voters the opportunity to again elect commissioners by district. Commissioners are currently elected on a county wide basis with district residency requirements.

Davenport's proposal would have also altered the current commission districts, making them more equal in population.

Commissioners Leon Archer and Gregg Rushton opposed the move while Commissioner John

Ames supported it. State Senator Frank "Butch" Ellis, present in the meeting, said that the county's legislative delegation would probably not draft a bill to change the districts and method of election with the county commissioners so divided.

Rushton indicated that he would support a move to make the districts more even in population if the method of election remained county-wide.

Voter list purged

The Shelby County Board of Registars has dropped 410 people from the county's official

The names of those dropped are published according to state law on Page A-11 of this week's Shelby County Reporter.

Board chairman Vestula Thompson said the names have been purged since last October and are supposed to include only voters who have died, been indicted for felonies or have moved from Shelby County.

However, Thompson said that registered voters should check the list for their names to insure that no error has occured. Those with any questions should contact the board of registars: 669-3197.

The purging of the list lowered Shelby County's number of registered voters to

Harrison honored

Regional library is renamed for Mrs. Mildred B. Harrison

by Jim Parks

In the early 1940's the Columbiana Culture Club used to end its meetings by playing several hands of Boston Rook.

The winner was presented a book with the understanding that it be placed in the Columbiana Library when the reader finished it. This was one of Mildred B. Harrison's ways to build up the small rental library then located inside J.L. Davis Drug Store.

Today, the Columbiana Library operates inside a much newer, larger building, which as of Monday now bears a new name — that of Mrs. Harrison.

She was officially given the honor this past Monday morning as a host of friends and Shelby County dignitaries attended a special dedication ceremony at the Columbiana-based regional library, renamed the Mildred B. Harrison Library by resolution of the Shelby County Commission, adopted March 25.

Constructed in 1969, the 11,455 square foot institution houses both the Columbiana Library, under the direction of Barbara Roberts, and the regional library, directed by Nancy Woosley.

Mrs. Harrison, who holds a Master's degree in Library Science from Emory University, moved to this area in the mid-1930's and accepted a librarians position at the Birmingham Public Library. Then Mildred Bennett, she married Karl Harrison, a prominent banker, and moved to Columbiana in 1937.

When the county library was created, the Culture Club donated their books, and Mrs. Harrison was employed as librarian. Later, as plans were being laid for construction of the present county library headquarters, she was named chairman of the building committee.

In 1946, she became chairman of the Shelby County Library Board. Gov. Albert Brewer named her to the state board in 1970; and in 1972, she was dubbed chairman of the state library building committee.

During her term on the state library executive board she was instrumental in the construction or renovation of 30 libraries including the Regional Library for the Blind and Physically Handicapped, currently directed by Hulen Bivins, who spoke at Monday's dedication ceremony.

In addition to her library work, Mrs. Harrison has been chairman of the Columbiana Beautification Board, president of the Culture Club, a Regent of the DAR David Lindsay Chapter, taught English and was librarian at Shelby County High School, taught Sunday School at the United Methodist Church, was UMW Society president, PTA president and established the library at Camp Sumatanga.

Columbiana may extend sewer

by Bert Seaman
Which comes first, the sewer or the road?

It isn't certain which project will take precedence, but the Columbiana Council has agreed to pave Seale Road and to acquire engineering services to extend lines along that road and County 47'N.

The sewer project will serve 12 households on Seale Road and will enable another six families to hook on along 47.

Plans to extend lines to the city limits fell through last year when CDBG grant money did not stretch far enough, and the city was unable to finance the project.

Now, Councilman Frank Owen says the city has found the necessary $46,000 to extend sewer lines an additional 2,800 feet.

At the April 4 council meeting, Councilman William Rasco suggested it might be wiser to put the sewer line in Councilman Willard Cross was asked to go ahead and get an engineer to handle the planning which will have to be done before either project can start.

Cross said he hopes that the work can be done this summer.

Provide proper fire extinguishers in readily accessible places in city hall;

Stop and litter

One can draw a number of conclusions about people who stop at stop signs and empty their automobile ash trays onto the pavement. However, none of these conclusions are particularly flattering to those who commit such trashy offenses. If you ask us, we think Shelby County has a lot to be proud of. Unfortunately, it appears that not everyone agrees with us. (photo and comment by David F. Moore)

•Various organizations concerned about the problem of drunk driving stood up and cheered last week when the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board adopted some new policies concerning "Happy Hours."

The new rules prohibit the multiple sale of drinks for one price, they also prohibit offering free or reduced-price drinks to a specific group of people. The latter rule drew loud applause from college officials, who claimed that taverns near campuses were having special nights for fraternities and sororities, and often times these promotions turned into drinking contests in which fraternities were trying to outdrink each other...

Starcher fights resentment over treatment

Letter to the editor:

I do not intend to fight the action by Commissioners Ames and Davenport. However I would like to publicly commend Commissioners Gregg Rushton and Leon Archer. They obviously said the true, not the expressed "reasons" for the action.

Mr. John Ames shockingly blunt letter in February prepared me for his vindictive

The ordered "rehearing" of the four-acre zoning charge is a typical pressure tactic, not a valid reason for action.

1) The case could NOT legally be reconsidered on the same day the rehearing was requested in the County Commission meeting the petitioners filed suit in the circuit court, placing any further action in the courts pur-

2)On the evening on which the County Commission expected us to "reconsider" the zoning action NO ONE from the petitioners made their presence known. No new or changed facts, plans or evidence was there presented.

So, Mr. Blanton Moore's motion, my second and the necessary Commission approval were entirely in order.

3) Also, on the evening in question, it became public knowledge - at least to most of us — that the Chairman of the Planning and Zoning Commission is also a Board member of the Horizon 280 group, which had filed suit in conjunction with businessman.

This creates a very unusual and awkward situation.

Since the County Commission partly subsidizes (rather the taxpayers do) the Horizon 280 study it, in effect, seems to be underwriting partially the above mentioned suit.

Further, since the Shelby County Attorneys defend the Planning and Zoning Commission, County (taxpayers) funds will be spent on that defense.

Poor taxpayers! And where does Chairman Al Knight stand in this - on the horns of a dilemna.

Doesn't it begin to become clear why I do not wish to fight the dismissal?

Mr. Ames' "new faces" will neighboring find, as we have on several zoning cases, that they will not be able to prevent unhappiness onone side or the other of ANY, much less EVERY zoning request, nor be able to prevent the lawsuits as long as there is such a valve on alternate zoning classifications.

I hope the County Commission will be very careful, not political, in their filling the vacancies. They will NOT be able to improve on Blanton Moore!

I have written four drafts of this letter, each more calm, fighting the natural resentment as honest sincere volunteer would naturally feel when so shabbily treated

The revival of isolationism bothers writer

Letter to the editor:

I find it hard to understand how intelligent, patriotic Americans can be oblivious to the threat of Soviet-dominated countries in our hemisphere. Yet it is so.

I see United States Congressmen and others in leadership positions opposing aid for El Salvador to strengthen her defense against the rebels supported by the Soviets through their satellites in Cuba and Nicaragua. Even more vehemently these same spokesmen fight any assistance to the Contras, who are Nicaraguans fighting the communist dictators of that unhappy state. And, it seems to follow, these critics always picture the United States as the villain in our conflicts with the established communist government of

This shortsighted view must be considered a revival of the American isolation that has served us so poorly in the past.

glance at the map would bring concern to any American. Cuba sits astride our strategic shipping lines, Nicaragua cuts the Americans in two, El Salvador is separated from vulnerable Mexico only by weak Guatemala. Hardly deniable is the threat of the long-standing Russian military bases in close-by Cuba, now being extended into Nicaragua, as they will be into other areas captured in the

Still, the Monroe Doctrine,

It would seem that a simple which for a century protected American countries from domination by hostile outside forces, is ignored by these new isolationists and their allies, the national media and others calling themselves liberals. The failure to overcome such blind opposition will bring our pledged enemy, Russia, her missiles and communist armies, ever closer to out borders.

Good Morning

Lida still lovely at 97

At first there were many - Mrs. Handy Ellis and Mrs. W.W. Wallace and Mrs. Henry Chapman and Mrs. George Green and Mrs. Hardy Nelson and Mrs. Frank Norris and Mrs. Charlie Niven and Mrs. Nell Davis to name a few.

And there was Mrs. Steadman Wood - Cousin Lida. They are all gone now, sleeping on little hills here and there. Each passing this way and stayed a little while and quietly slipped away. All except Cousin Lida. She is the last one, maybe a little more fortunate than the rest, who, at age 97, has won the title of Ms. Sylacauga Health Care Center.

They sent her picture along for me to see, with a bouquet of flowers in her arms, and a little smile on her lips, a lovely lady still, 97 years away from the crib.

But she was always lovely. And she was always kind and gentle, living her full life among the folks she loved - folks she still loves even though time has put miles between them.

Lida is the mother of Earl, Mary Nell and Margaret Freeman as well having four grandkids and two great-grand children.

She will compete for the State title in Montgomery on May 1. And if there is a lady in Alabama lovelier than Lida Nelson Wood, we are going to have one lovely lady for Ms. Alabama Health Care Center.

The weekly 'Good Morning' column written by Milton Bird, is brought to you with the good wishes of the First National Bank of Columbiana, member FDIC.

Vincent men take win in Briarwood Relays

The Briarwood Relays last week brought in invited track and field teams from throughout central Alabama - including the winning team from neighboring Vincent High School.

"Everybody was real pleased with the relays," said BCHS track coach Bruce Hubbs. "It offers competition with a little different flavor for the kids and they seemed to enjoy it."

The Vincent Yellowjackets won the men's division, taking first place finishes in six different events enroute to a 110 point total.

"You can't say enough about the kids' performances," said Vincent coach Jim Barnes. "The kids worked real hard, and the guys went out determined to win."

The Jackets took firsts in the 4 x 800 relay, the discus, the shot, the high jump, the distance medely relay, and the shuttle hurdle relay - all team events.

Earl Lawson, Clark Dates, Troy Datcher, and Jerome Mann teamed for the shuttle hurdle win.

Lawson, Scottie Kelly, James Kern, and Phillip Bruno won the distance medely relay, a series of two 220 runs, one 440, and one 880 leg.

In the Briarwood Relays, even traditional field events are approached from a relay team concept.

Lawson and Dates teamed to win the high jump for Vincent, totaling 11'3" in their best Hugh Kidd and Jerome Kelly teamed for wins in both the shot - an 83'1034" combined total throw - and the discus - a Individual efforts by Jeff Kelly and Donald O'Neal also stood out as Barnes reflected on the meet. Kelly set a school record in discus competition, while Donald O'Neal established a record in the pole vault.

Briarwood's men finished fifth in the relay meet, their best showing coming when Mitch Wilcutt and Tom Blose teamed to win the pole vault event.

Wilcutt cleared a school record nine feet while Blose cleared 8'6" to take the combined title.

John Kirkpatrick and David Deason teamed to give Briarwood a second place finish in the discus. Conrad Carpenter, Pat Grant, Hugh Thomas, and Greg Harper then gave BCHS a second in the hurdles.

Randolph won the women's division of the Briarwood Realys with a total of 47 points. Host Briarwood finished second.

The Lady Lions placed second in five different events for 21 points total.

Sherri Boots and Catherine Carlson teamed for a second place finish in the shot with a 48'71/2" combined total.

Connie Shoemaker, Suzanne Law, Boots, and Mitzi Harper teamed to finish second in the distance medely relay.

Beth Schreiner, Shoemaker,

Allison Peavy, and Darlene McGinis brought home a second in the shuttle hurdles.

McGinis and Schreiner also combined to finish second in the high jump with an 8'8" total.

Boots and Karen Carlson teamed to take second in the discus with a 146'9" combined

Vincent finished third in the women's competition despite having several girls missing from the team due to a conflict with band competition.

Elder leaves UM for Mobile College

For the first time in 11 seasons Dr. Bill Elder won't be leading the University of Montevallo basketball team onto the court when the season opens in November.

Elder resigned his position as UM head basketball coach last week to accept a dual role as athletic director and head basketball coach at Mobile College.

Mobile College President Mike Magnoli has decided to initiate an athletic program at the small Baptist school in south Alabama and has handed Elder the reins.

Elder has 199 wins at UM. His 18-year career totals 317 wins. "I'm excited to have the chance to start a new program," he

"Bill Elder's acceptance of a position at Mobile College is a tremendous loss for the University of Montevallo," said UM athletic director Dr. Leon Davis. "I want to express gratitude to him for sustaining our basketball program at such a high level for 11 years, and wish him well.'

In 1975, Elder's first season at Montevallo, he took the Falcons to the NAIA National Tournament. Since then his teams have posted a 199-127 record, won the Southern States Conference Tournament twice and finished as runner-up twice. Four NAIA All-Americans have been produced during Elder's tenure at UM, along with numerous All-SCC and All-NAIA District 27 performers. Elder said he prides himself in the fact that over 80 percent of his UM players have gone on to earn college degrees.

For the Record

UM golfers cart record

The University of Montevallo set a new team record for lowest 54-hole score while taking a fourth place finish in the Alabama Intercollegiate Golf Tournament last week. The Falcons shot a three-day total 864, beating the previous low mark by 25 strokes. Auburn University carted an 844 to win the tourney.

Alabama's Red team finished second and Troy State third. Mike Craw of Tasmania, Australia, was the only UM golfer to make the all-tourney team. Craw finished the event with a 211

Bulldogs announce schedule changes

Bulldog baseball coach Johnye Horton has announced two changes in the MHS schedule. Montevallo's April 20 game with Maplesville will begin at 2 p.m. rather than the original 4 p.m. start time.

The Dogs April 22 meeting with Jemison will be played in Jemison, not in Montevallo.

Pike hurls no-hitter

Paul Pike of the Alabaster Farm League Reds pitched a nohitter in his team's 16-2 opening day win over the Cubs. Pike also collected three hits in the contest, while team-mate Jason Neal homered twice. The Reds are coached by Dennis Pike and Richard Payne.

Falcons sweep twinbill

The University of Montevallo Falcons used a seventh inning homer from Roger Wesson to nail down a sweep of Livingston in baseball action in Montevallo.

UM got 15 hits enroute to a 12-6 win in the opener, then won the nightcap on Wesson's roundtripper.

Pelham's Tod Bass and Rebel Houston of Childersburg collected three hits each for UM in both games.

Rick Slomkowski and Grant Abercrombie picked up the wins for the Falcons whose season record now stands at 22-16.

Leaping hurdles

Pelham's Carvis Jones leaps a hurdle during competition in a recent duel meet with Shelby County High School. Jones finished third in the event, and the Panthers won the over-all competition, keeping their record in duel and tri-meets unblemished. (photo by K.A. Turner)

County baseball roundup

McADORY 8, PELHAM 7

If the Pelham Panthers don't finish atop their area race in 1985, coach Jim Vakakes may look back to six inches that made a big difference in

That six inches was the extra distance needed for Steve Levan to homer and tie the score in the bottom of the sixth against McAdory

Instead, the long drive hit the fence, Levan tripled, two runs scored, but the Panthers eventually settled for the short end of an 8-7 area decision with McAdory.

Wakakes said later. "It's just one of those things."

Levan, a sophomore, may have done even more for the Panthers with his pitching arm than with his bat. In relief of losing pitcher Lee Snyder, Levan struck nine in four innings, giving up no earned runs.

PELHAM 2, HOMEWOOD 1

After dropping an area game with McAdory, the Panthers bounced back to take a 2-1 win over Homewood and throw the area race into a fourway tie for first.

The win evened the Panthers' area mark to 2-2, identical to records posted by Thompson, Homewood, and McAdory through last week.

"It was a great win for Pelham," Vakakes said. "It puts us in a position to win it and we control our own destiny. I'm just happy as a lark for the Steve Levan went the distance to get the win for Pelham, pitching five innings of no hit ball and striking out 11 in seven innings of work.

In addition, Levan pitched out of jams in the sixth and seventh to preserve the win, striking out the final two Patriots he faced.

Homewood got a good game from their pitcher, Doug Gann, son of Patriot coach Gerald

A Lee Snyder sacrifice fly keyed the two-run Panther second inning that provided the evenmal victory margin.

SHELBY COUNTY 16 DALLAS COUNTY 6

Gerry Lewis went 4 of 4 at the plate including a triple, had four RBIs and scored three times to lead the Shelby County Wildcats to a 16-6 win over Dallas County.

The area win ran the SCHS record to 5-0 on Mike Fant, Ambrose Woods, David Woods, and Kenneth Jones also turned in good plate performances for the Cats.

Fant was 3 of 4 with an RBI and two runs scored. The Woods brothers each homered and combined for five RBIs and four runs scored. Jones was 2 of 3 with three runs scored.

Jones also went the distance to pick up the win for Shelby County, facing only 28 batters.

Lewis and Mark Cardwell played good defense on the left side of the SCHS infield, Lewis recording eight assists from his shortstop position and Cardwell adding three assists from third.

"Mark and Gerry handled some pretty tough shots," SCHS coach Bill Reid said.

Charlie Watters was the losing pitcher for Dallas County, but helped his cause by going 3 of 3 with a homer on the day.

VINCENT 5, B.B. COMER 2

Reginald Riggins struck out 12, scattered seven hits and recorded two RBIs to lead Vincent to a 5-2 win over B.B. Comer.

A Max Whitfield homer in the second gave Vincent an early lead. Riggins singled in the third, scoring Heath Reynolds and Cedric Riggins to extend the Vincent margin.

VINCENT 4, PELHAM 1

Vincent got RBIs from Cedric Riggins, Blaine Shaw and Reginald Riggins, and Shaw went seven innings on the mound as Vincent beat Pelham 4-1.

The Panthers took an early lead when Tony Jeffers singled, stole second and third, and scored on a Lovelady single.

Vincent answered with two runs in the second. one in the third, and one in the fourth.

Blaine Shaw upped his record to 5-1 in taking the win. Shaw struck out three, walked no one, and scattered seven hits.

VINCENT 11, LINEVILLE 0

George McConnico homered and singled and Max Whitfield and Willie Peterson added RBIs as Vincent took care of Lineville 11-0.

The Vincent offense was evenly balanced throughout the line-up, every Jacket contributing to the win that ran the Vincent record

Reginald Riggins allowed only one hit, walked no one, and struck out three in taking his fifth win of the season.

MONTEVALLO 12, WEST BLOCTON 0

Montevallo scored three runs in each of the first four innings to takle a 12-0 area win over West Blocton.

Johnny Holsombeck led the Montevallo hit parade with a double, a triple and two RBIs. Heath Galloway singled and tripled for one MHS RBI, Trey Hughes collected two RBIs with a single and Antonio Devould had an RBI double.

Freeman Rutledge took the win for Montevallo, striking out six while walking five and allowing four hits.

MONTEVALLO 14, CHELSEA 2

Andy Chism homered and Andy Anderson and Freeman Rutledge each had two hits as Montevallo beat Chelsea 14-2.

The Dogs and the Hornets were tied at 2-2 going into the bottom of the fourth, but Montevallo bats and Chelsea errors helped the Bulldogs pick up 12 runs in the inning.

Rutledge got the win for Montevallo, while Chelsea's Robby Reece took the loss.

Jeff Kendrick paced the Chelsea offense with a bounce-over double, a single, a stolen base, and a run scored. Kendrick also pitched well in a starting role said Chelsea coach Lee Hibbs. Reece had a triple and an RBI for Chelsea.

CALERA 11, CHELSEA 5

Scottie Wells' three hits - one a double - and two hits from Keith Dowdell led a Calera offensive attack that saw almost every Eagle get a hit in taking an 11-5 win over Chelsea.

Calera scored five in the third inning and added four in the seventh to take the win.

The Eagle plate efforts partially overshadowed a 4 of 4 performance from Chelsea's Jeff Kendrick who also stole three bases and had three

Jamie Jones was the winner in the contest, while Kendrick took the loss in relief of Robby

MINOR 9, SHELBY ACADEMY 6

Raider starter Sam Hamm pitched a two-hitter through four innings and struck out five Minor batters, but eight walks and some late innings errors spelled a 9-6 defeat for Shelby Academy.

Jeff Dunaway, Dennis Attaway, and Ricky Shaw each got two hits for SA, while Ray Smith contributed a hit and three stolen bases to the Raider offense.

Ricky Shaw took the loss in relief for SA.

"We did well but just fell apart late," said Raider coach Rod Johnson. "That seems to be the way things are going for us right now. We can't hold on to a lead."

AUTAUGA 6, SHELBY ACADEMY 2

Shelby Academy got good defense from its entire outfield, Wade Edmonds, Ray Smith, and first game starter Terry Garrett, but couldn't find any punch at the plate in taking a 6-2 loss to the game.

Dennis Attaway got the Raiders only RBI of

Jeff Dunaway took the loss for SA.

SHELBY GIRLS 16, 4, AUTAUGA 6, 8

The Lady Raiders ran their record to 3-1 on the year by splitting a twinbill with Autauga.

Holly Hadaway walked only two in taking the 16-6 first game win. Bev Winslett, Kim Childress, Amy Snow, and Kelli Reid provided offensive punch at the plate for Shelby.

Katrina Gentry walked only two in the second game, but the Raiders could not find their offensive firepower in the 8-4 loss.

Gentry, Childress, and Nichole Parrish looked good at the plate despite the loss, according to coaching reports.

Shelby County hosts state gym meet

by K.A. Turner Shelby County once again played host as boys teams from throughout the area gathered for a state championship meet last week at the Joel Inman Gymnastics Academy on U.S. 280.

JIGA students acted as models - not model hosts - in two of the competitions' divisions, taking all-around first place finishes.

In addition, the JIGA boys took second in team competition, a finish that academy director Joel Inman said "feels just as good as a championship at this point."

Up until two weeks before the meet, the first year team competed with only two members. Then three boys worked through classes to a point where they were ready for team competi-

"This was really their first taste of competition," Inman said. "They went into the meet nervous and excited, but we were more than pleased with their performance.

Veteren performers Shawn Hall of Sterrett and Clint Lovett of Vestavia led the JIGA team to the win, chalking up individual titles in the process. In addition, team members Patrick Anderson of Pelham, Jeff McPeters of Pelham, and Jeffery Sciascia of Riverchase performed well in their first official meet.

The Montgomery Majestics won the team competition with Huntsville Gymnastics Academy finishing third.

Hall won all events to take the all-around championship in class IV competition for ages ·

Lovette finished first in the parallel bars, pommell horse and floor exercises; second in the rings; and third in the vault and horizontal bar to take the allaround top prize in class IV ages

Grady Trammel of Montgomery and James Miller of Huntsville finished one-two in all-around competition for class

Wilsonville Civitans sponsoring bike-a-thon

Riding a bicycle is fun and good exercise, but it also can help save lives.

On Saturday, April 27, the Wilsonville Civitans will sponsor a local "Wheels for Life" Bike-A-Thon to raise money for St. Jude's Children's Research Hospital.

All area bicyclists are asked to of Columbiana.

get sponsors to much per mile for the 11 mile event, starting at 9 a.m. at Wilsonville Elementary School. T-shirts will be given to bikers raising at least $25, and tote bags will be given for raising $75 or more. Additional prizes will be given by First National Bank

Sponsor forms can be picked up at Kovakas Realty in Wilsonville or any branch office of First National Bank of Columbiana. A diagram of the 11-mile course will appear on the Community Billboard in the April 25 edition of the Reporter.

Shelby County's Lay Lake was full of bass boats Saturday as 398 anglers gathered for the Jack's Tournament. (photo by K.A. Turner)

Bass fishers snag 1,400-lb. haul

"At four this morning, you could have walked from boat to boat all the way to that bouey and never touched the water,' said Joel Robinson of Shelby.

"That bouey" is about 500 yards offshore from Shelby's Okomo Marina, so the 199 bass boats Robinson was talking about must have done a fair job of filling up some space in a Lay Lake inlet.

the $2,500 first place prize in the Lay Lake stop on the Jack's Tournament Trail last Saturday. By the time they returned to Okomo on Saturday evening, 398 fishermen had hauled in over 1,400 pounds of bass.

A 26-pound 4-ounce string of fish from Joel McCoy and Jerry Renfro of Centerpoint claimed the top prize. Dennis Barnes of

The boats gathered for a try at Gadsden netted $1,000 when he landed the tourney's big bass, a 6-pound 15-ounce "keeper".

> Tournament director Jack Mitchell said that Saturday's stop was a good one on the tourney trail. Anglers will try to better their efforts on the trail's next stop at Logan Martin Lake on May 4 where the top prize will be a $14,000 bass boat.

Calera Elementary students (grades K-5) raised nearly $60 to buy food baskets for two local indigent families during an Easter egg decorating contest held at the school on Thursday before Easter.

Each participating student also donated 25 cents per entry, and several students made donations without entering eggs. Approximately 150 eggs were entered in the local fundraiser, sponsored by the Calera Community Education Program in cooperation with

CES principal Phillip Haynie. Lamont Franklin, Calera Communi-

If you want youth baseball coverage . . .

Beginning next week with coverage of season openings in Pelham, Montevallo and Helena, youth baseball will become a regular feature of the Reporter's X-tra Section.

Youth baseball leagues throughout the county are urged to have a representative at the Reporter office in Columbiana Thursday evening, April 18, 7:30 p.m.

The publicity rep will learn how to best cover your entire league and will become familiar with Reporter deadlines and Don't miss the meeting. It will help the Reporter help you get equal ink for all county youth involved in baseball and softball.

Honored for service

Special Offer from

Nell Shelton of Westover was honored recently by Rev. Bill Phares and members of Mt. Tabor Methodist Church for serving over 60 years as Sunday School teacher of the Primary Class. Shelton began teaching the Primary class when she was 16 and is still teaching it today. The church proclaimed a Sunday in March as Nell Shelton Day and named the class after her. Margie Archer (left) presented Shelton with a plaque in her honor.

"b. The provisions of subsection a of this section shall apply to all elections, except for an election for permanent trustees as provided in sec-tion 10 below, provided such an elec-tion is not prohibited by subsection c of this section or other provisions of amount for service charges may be held pursuant to the provisions of subsection a of this section or sec-tion 13 of this act. Elections pertaining to the establishment of the same district or portion thereof or the aboli-tion of a district shall not be held more than once every two years, ex-cept that an election providing for the abolition or diminution of a district may be concurrently joined with an election to become a portion of an ad-joining district proposed to be enlarg-

"d. Elections for permanent trustees shall be as provided in sec-tion 10 of this act. However, unless the petition for nomination of any such trustee is filed with the probate judge before the first primary election day in year of a statewide election to be printed on the ballot, and votes for such candidate can only be

Section 12. The expense of establishing and maintaining a district shall be paid for by the proceeds of a service charge which shall be levied and collected in an amoun sufficient to pay said expense. Said service charge shall be levied upon and collected from persons and pro-perties served by the system. Such charges shall be collectible from any owner of property, including subdivi-sions of the state, municipalities, counties or other public bodies. Such charge shall be a personal obligation of the owner of the property served by the system; and to secure the collection of the charge there shall be a lien against said property in favor of the district, which lien shall be en-forceable by sale thereof in the same manner in which the foreclosure of a municipal assessment for public im-provements is authorized. In the event that the occupant of a property is not the owner, and for whatever reason the collection of the charge cannot be effected from the owner in a timely manner, the occupant shall be liable to the district for the payment of such charge.

"Section 14. a. A district may be enlarged in accordance with the terms of this section, provided, however, that no area lying within a municipality at the time of the enlargement shall be brought within the district.

"b. No area shall be brought within a district by enlargement unless the majority of the votes cast at the elec-tion provided for by subsection c of this section, approve the inclusion of the area within the district and also approve every service charge in effect within the district at the time of the election

"c. The term 'proposed area' as used in this subsection c, means an area which is proposed to be brought within a district by enlargement of the district, and such area in contiguous to the district to be enlarged. When the board of trustees of the district determines that the inclusion of a proposed area contiguous to the district would be to the advantage of the district and also to the advantage of the majority of the residents of the proposed area, the board of trustees may file in the office of the probate judge a petition, signed by 100 per-sons who are qualified electors residing within the boundaries of the proposed area, or by two-thirds of the qualified electors residing within the boundaries of the proposed area if there are less than 150 of such qualified electors, that there be an election in the proposed area at which there shall be submitted to the qualified electors residing within the proposed area the question of whether the proposed area shall be included within the district and also the question of whether every service charge in effect within the district at the time of the election is approved upon such petition being filed, within the times provided for in section 5 a of this act, at which election the qualified electors shall vote on the two foregoing questions. Notice of such election shall be given as pro vided for in section 7 of this act. Unless the majority of votes cast at the election vote in the affirmative on each of the foregoing questions, the proposed area shall not be included within the district. Upon the officers convassing the returns of the election certifying that a majority of the votes cast was in favor of the inclusion of the proposed area in the district, and the majority of the votes cast approved every service charge in effect within the district at the time of the election, the proposed area shall become a part of the district. "Section 15. Any district created reunder in strict accordance with the provisions of sections 3 and 4 of this act may be abolished in the man ner provided for in this section; pro vided, however, that no district created in strict accordance with the provisions of sections 3 and 4 of this act shall be abolished nor shall the boundaries of any district be diminished in any manner, when it has any indebtedness, direct or contingent, unless full provision for pay-ment of such indebtedness, direct or contingent, in a form satisfactory to the debtors and to known conting beneficiaries, or their legal represen-tatives, has been made. Upon the petition for abolition or diminution of a district conforming to the re quirements set forth below, being fil ed with the probate judge, he shall order an election on abolition of dimunition of the district to be held in the district within the time provided for by section 5 a of this act at which electors residing within the district shall be entitled to vote. The petition shall be signed by at least 100 per sons who are qualified electors residing within the boundaries of the district. It shall contain a recital that either (a) the district is not directly in-debted or contingently liable for any debts, or (b) the provisions that have been made for the payment of all in-debtedness, direct or contingent, together with affidavits from debtors nd known contingent beneficiaries their legal representatives, that such provisions are in a form satisfactory to such parties; and it shall request the probate judge to order an election on whether the district shall be abolished or diminished. In the case of the diminu-tion of a district, the petition shall contain a recital of the names of not less than 100 qualified electors who will be retained in the diminished district, who shall also sign the petition, and a legal description of the boundaries of such diminished district, no portion of which may be within a municipality at the time of the election. Upon the officer's cancertifying that abolition or diminution of the district was approved by a ma jority of the votes cast at the election, the district shall be abolished or it shall continue in a diminished form

"(b) The trust capital shall

(c) Provided, however, beginning with state fiscal year 1989 90, one percent of the income from The Alabama Trust Fund shall be reinvested in The Alabama Trust Fund; two percent of such income shall be reinvested in the following year, and one addi tional percent of such income each subsequent year shall be reinvested until a total of ten percent of such income from The Alabama Trust Fund each year shall be reinvested in The Alabama Trust Fund

Section 5 (a) The trust capital shall be held in perpetual trust and shall not be appropriated by the legislature or expended or disbursed for any purpose other than to acquire eligible investments in accordance with the provisions of this amenament. All eligible in vestments acquired, in whole or in part, with moneys constituting part of the trust capital shall to the extent of such moneys constitute part of the trust capital, but any trust income derived therefrom shall be paid directly into the general fund as it is received by the board, subject to ap-propriation and withdrawal by the legislature "(b) To the extent practicable, the board shall keep all moneys at any time held in the trust fund invested in such eligible investments as shall, in its sole and uncontrolled judgment, produce the greatest trust income over the term of such investments while preserving the trust capital in making any investment of moneys held in the trust fund, the board shall exercise the judgment and care.

under the circumstances prevailing at the time of such investment, which an institu-tional investor of the highest standard of prudence, in telligence and financial exper tise would exercise in the management and investment of large assets entrusted to it not for the purpose of speculative profit but for the permanent generation and disposition of funds, considering the probable safety of capital as well as the expected amount and frequency of income. The board shall have full power and authority to select the eligible investments in which moneys held in the trust fund snall at any time be invested, and, to the extent not inconsistent with any express provision of this amendment, the eligible investments so selected shall be acquired from such issuers, under-writers, brokers or other sellers on such terms and conditions; shall be acquired for purchase prices reflecting such discount below or premium above the par or face amount thereof; shall bear such dates and be in such form, denominations and series; shall mature or be sub ject to mandatory redemption on such dates; shall bear interest at such rate or rates payable at such intervals or, alternatively, shall provide in-come to the holder thereof in such manner (including, without limitation thereto, the purchase of such investments at a discount which represents all or part of the income or profit derived therefrom); shall be unsecured or secured in such manner and subject to the provisions of Section 2, paragraphs 2 and 3; shall contain such provisions for prepayment or redemption at the option of the issuer or obligor; and shall contain or be subject to such other provisions as shall, in all of the foregoing respects, be deter mined by the board in exercise of its sole and uncontrolled judgment. The board shall have full power and authority to invest the trust capital in any eligible investments producing trust income in accor dance with such schedule as the board shall, in the exercise its sole and uncontrolled judgment, determine to be in the best interests of the state, and in determining such schedule the board may emphasize future benefits in preference to near-term needs. The board shall have complete and uncontrolled discretion in making decisions as to when moneys in the trust fund shall be invested, as to the purchase price or other ac quisition cost to be paid or in curred in acquiring investments for the trust fund, as to when investments con-stituting part of the trust fund shall be sold, liquidated or otherwise disposed of, and, as to the amount and nature of the price or other considera-tion to be received by the trust fund upon the sale, liquidation or other disposition of in-vestments constituting part of the trust fund. No law shall be enacted nor any action taken enacted nor any action taken by the executive department of the state which impairs or interferes with the power authority and discretion conferred upon the board by this amendment with respect to the acquisition, management, control and disposition of investments at any time con-stituting part of the trust fund.

"(c) To the extent ap-propriate and not at the time prohibited by law, the board shall use the facilities of the state treasurer in the ad-ministration of the trust fund, including but without limits. including, but without limita tion thereto, the keeping of bank accounts, the transfer of funds and the safekeeping securities evidencing vestments (d) The board shall cause an annual audit of the trust fund to be performed for each fiscal year by the State Ex-aminers of Public Accounts or, in the discretion of the board, by an independent cer tified public accounting firm and shall cause a report of such audit to be prepared in accordance with applicable accounting principles. The board shall cause to be prepared and publicized such financial and other informa tion concerning the trust fund as may from time to time be provided by law duly enacted by the legislature, but in the absence of any law directing the preparation and publication of different reports, the board shall cause to be prepared and made public, within thirty (30) days after the end of each quarterly period in each fiscal year, a report containing (i) a state ment of the trust capital then held in the trust fund showing any changes thereto since the last quarterly report, (ii) a statement of the trust income received during the quarterly period in question, (iii) a statement of the investments then held in the trust fund in cluding descriptions thereof and the respective values thereof, (iv) a statement of trust income received to date during the current fiscal year, and (v) any other infor-mation determined by the board to reflect a full and complete disclosure of the financial operations of the fund. "Section 6. An individual trustee shall not in any way be personally liable for any liability, loss or expense suf fered by the trust fund unless such liability, loss or expense arises out of or results from the willful misconduct or wrongdoing of such trustee. ### Griswold: Studebakers, 45's, kids

by Meg Smith

George Griswold Jr. collects things. "I'm a pack rat," he admits.

It all started one day over 20 years ago when he bought his first rock-n-roll 45 rpm record. Since then he has collected hundreds of 45's, nearly 20 Studebakers, a wife and four kids not necessarily in that order.

Griswold, who lives in Chelsea, collects more than things. He also "collects" memberships in clubs and organizations which reflect his various interests, for instance the Studebaker Driver's Club, the Alabama Record Collector's Association and the Alabama Friends of Adoption.

Most of Griswold's hobbies have a definite '50's flavor, and he feels the things that best exemplify the era are its cars and music.

"I love rock-n-roll," he says. "Nothing could be more fun than driving around in a Bulletnose Studebaker listening to True Love Ways by Bud-

Griswold has been collecting '50's memoribilia nearly all his life, since before it was memorabilia in fact.

He began collecting rock-n-roll records in the '50's. He was still too young to drive but he says cars were inevitably the next step in his rock-nroller's lifestyle.

Griswold was in college when he got his first Studebaker.

Believe it or not I got my first Studebaker for transportation. It was in '64 while I was in college at the University of Alabama. My roommate and I paid $37.50 each for it. I had a policy back then not to pay more than $40 for a car.'

Griswold paid less than $40 for another of the Studebaker's, a Bulletnose '67. This car he left with a friend to keep for awhile. It was 15 years before Griswold got the car back.

Those two Studebakers began the collection which now numbers nearly 20 (some of them actually run) and inculdes a '46, three '50's, a '51, '52, '53, '54, two '56's, a '57 and two '62's. Just for fun he threw in a 1941 Packard limo.

"Some of these cars are just hulks and most of them could use some work," says Griswold, "but I love them, there are a couple I wouldn't ever want to get rid of, like the '67 Bulletnose, it's my

Jobs for summer offered

by Bert Seaman

School will be out in two months and a number of students will be hunting jobs.

One possibility for employ-ment is the Summer Youth Employment Program which gets underway June 17.
In Shelby County, there are 176 openings for economically disadvantaged youth between the ages of 14 and 22.

The $16 million statewide program is funded by the Alabama Department of Economic and Community Affairs and administered locally by the Office of Employment and Training.

Pat Rush, coordinator of the Shelby County program, says that the young people signed up for the eight week session will do general maintenance work at sites which include schools, cities, Oak Mountain State Park, the Attention Home, King's Ranch, and the 4-H Center.

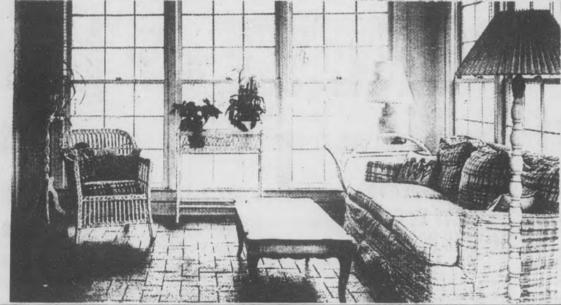

Rush says that those employed will work 40 hours a week for the minimum wage of $3.35 an

Statewide this summer, the program will give financial assistance to over 10,000 youth, who will also benefit by acquiring work experience.

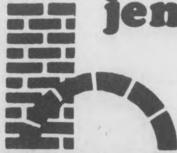

The program will also boost the overall economy through the See JOBS, Page X-7

The Regressive Farmer by David F. Moore

Of the all the excuses in the world not to plant a veggie garden, only six come anywhere close to being acceptable reasons.

1) You absolutely hate the taste of fresh vegetables.

2) You're not old enough to drive a roto-tiller.

3) You're a cannibal.

4) For April Fool's Day, 25 drivers from the local concrete company dumped their mixer truck loads on what used to be your yard. (In this case, you might try selling used cars from your home...)

5) You're in jail for planting something you shouldn't have been have been planting.

6) Blackberry Winter. More on this in a minute.

Except for these six excuses, no others are acceptable. I'm sorry, that's just the way the ol' dirt clod crumbles.

I DON'T WANT TO HEAR IT

"But I don't have the time to garden," you whine.

"I don't have enough room in my yard." "My neighbors will hate me."

"I don't know how to plant a garden. Besides, my thumb's the wrong color and I don't own any overalls and...

Hey, I don't want to hear all that. I've been through this before. Believe me. I invented the original excuse. All you're trying to do is get out of planting a garden, but these kinds of excuses just don't cut

First, if you truly want to, you can make the time to garden. Then you can always use working in your garden for an excuse not to jog, paint the house or change the oil in the car.

Also, you don't have to own half the county to have enough land for a garden. A plot of ground the size of an office desk can grow enough 'maters to last all summer. (If you don't know what a 'mater is then maybe you're right — you shouldn't be planting a garden.)

You can forget all about your neighbors hating you. Simply knock on their door and offer them a basket of your fresh homegrown veggies. That can buy you as many friends as money... almost.

As for not knowing how to plant a garden, all you have to do is read the Regressive Farmer on a regular basis and I'll tell you how-

Don't misunderstand me. As past readers know, I'm no pro. Fact of the matter is that last year was the first time I ever planted a garden. Before then I couldn't even spell garten...

What I offer you is the unique opportunity to learn from all my blunders, and believe me, that's a big opportunity.

Besides learning from my mistakes, the folks at the Shelby County Extension office are good about sharing non-regressive tips on

Furthermore, people who have been growing gardens longer than I've been growing hair are good about writing in tips. Sometimes I'm good about sharing them.

If you have a gardening questions, write me at the Shelby County Reporter (PO Box 947, Columbiana, 35051) and I'll get the right answers for you. If I can't get the answer, don't worry. I'll make

Let me hear from you. Just don't give me any lame excuses for not planting a garden. I don't want to hear it.

BLACKBERRY WINTER

Ever notice how it always seems to get chilly one more time during April? The other day Shelby nursery owner J.D. Lewis informed me that this cold snap is called Blackberry Winter.

I'm not too sure why it's called that. According to some old wives tales that drifted down from Etowah County, Blackberry Winter occurs at about the time blackberries bloom. The tale is that blackberries won't be sweet in the summer unless they bloom during a cold spell in the spring.

But regardless, I've been informed that it's a prefectly legit excuse for not having planted a veggie garden yet.

That just tickled my tickle spot too, because I had just about run out of excuses.

A month ago I went ahead and tossed out some manure and fertilizer and tilled my garden patch. The next weekend I really didn't feel like planting anything, so I tilled it again. Tilling's such fun that I woke up at 5:30 the other morning and did it again.

But when it came to planting, well I always had to wash my hair or something important like that.

As it turns out, I've been told that for the most part the ground has been too cool, or would have cooled too much during Blackberry Winter for planting to have been productive.

Now that Blackberry Winter's over, however, we're all out of excuses. So sometime before next week, I'm going to get off my procrastinating posterior, go out to my garden spot — which has been tilled to consistency of baby power - and insert some seeds in the

Come on. Make a committment. If I can plant a garden, so can

GET IT IN GEAR

Here's some tips from extension agent John Jones and myself on the first steps you need to take in planting your garden:

•If you haven't already taken a soil sample and mailed it to Auburn for analysis, do so immediately. The kits are available free from most any seed and farm supply store in the area. The test only costs a couple of bucks and the folks at AU will tell you if you need to add lime, and what kind and how much fertilizer to use.

•Borrow, buy, rent or build yourself a roto-tiller. If you're a traditionalist, masochist or a cheapskate with no friends, get yourself a hoe. You'll need it anyway.

•Your garden spot should be in full sunlight and located near a source of water. It doesn't have to be a creek or river. Your hose will •Choose a spot of ground close to your house. If you have to hike to Maine just to work your garden, you'll find it cramps your •Don't make the garden spot too big. While it's true that planting is easy, come late July when the weeds and sun attack, the smallest of garden can look the size of Texas.

•If you don't like okra, don't plant it.

We'll get into more details and more junk next week, but that ought to be enough to boggle the mind of your basic city-slicker. It's enough for me.

THOSE FIRE ANTS...

If you were among the more than 1,000 people who signed up for the Amdro subsidized program so you could go to war against all the fire ants building highrise condos in your yard... forget it.

"The Amdro program has been officially canceled," said extension agent Grant Gober. "We got a letter Wednesday.

"They (the Feds) couldn't negotiate a contract with the supplier. People are going to ask why the contract was not finalized first. I've got a problem with that myself."

Gober more or less said the nation-wide deal fell through because off too much government red tape.

How come that doesn't surprise me?

I'll see if I can't publish some alternate ways to war with the ants. Whatever you decide to try, take my advice and don't burn them with gasoline. Believe me, it's embarassing when the fire truck has to come out and extinguish a major grass fire in your yard.

JOHN S. BRUMLEY

She is married and has both career and young children. She has a loving, supportive husband and other friends with whom she can confide. Besides her husband, perhaps her best friend over the past several months has been Dr. M.C. Collins, an Alabaster physician who practices Internal Medicine along with Dr. Ivana B. Kajdos.

I asked her to describe her symptoms before treatment: When it started, I would lose all common sense. It came on real fast. Every thing was wrong. I was tired of my kids. I didn't love my husband. I'd say hurtful things that I didn't mean. No normal marriage could survive it! I couldn't remember things - like my girlfriend's phone number my world was total despair, black. I would diet about three weeks out of the month and then binge on sweets and salty foods. I had weight problems. These symptoms would come and go but I couldn't see the cycle -- I decided I couldn't keep living like this. Sooner or later I was going to kill myself."

Other symptoms reported by other victims of PMS include moodiness, sensitivity, water retention, fatigue, headaches, cramps and backaches. These symptoms usually begin from two to seven days prior to the onset of menstruation and subside after onset. PMS sufferers range from those with occasional mild symptoms to those who experience severely disruptive symptoms every month like the woman I interviewed.

Although no specific physiological cause for PMS has been identified, this is now a widely recognized and accepted diagnosis. In the past some professionals tragically suggested that "it's all in your head." But according to a patient who was given the run around, "Women should not accept that from a doctor -- When a woman is seriously considering slitting her wrists, she must find someone who will listen."

Dr. Collins did listen and he did find a treatment for this patient which along with other steps taken by her has led to vast improvement. He gives a great deal of credit to her for being willing to follow through on modifications in her diet and on pursuing "wellness counseling." This kind of counseling provides education on general health and how to cope with stress through various adjustments in lifestyle: exercise, nutrition, communication, etc.

Dr. Collins and others have developed an approach to PMS that addresses the suspected hormonal imbalance and any other associated problems such as obesity, edema (water retention), hypertension, etc. He supports physiological (what the body would normally produce) levels of chemotherapy versus pharmocological (high) doses of these medicines.

As Dr. Collins and I discussed, treatment of PMS seems to be a "mixed bag" of intervention. It presents a challenge to the physician and wellness counselor to work together wholistically -- work with the whole person.

Busy Bees

engineer at Southern Company Services in Birmingham, he and his wife Beebe are involved in raising four children.

"We wanted six kids originally, but so far we've only got four. We added the newest member to the collection of kids about a year ago by adopting TaeJane.'

This new addition is a special part of the collection. Not only is she the baby of the family, she was an abandoned Korean orphan whom the Griswolds adopted through Children's Services International.

"We wanted an infant girl and we told them we'd be willing to accept an abandoned child. It was eight months from the time we applied for adoption to the time we picked Tae up at the airport," laughs Beebe. "That's quicker than nature, and believe me the delivery was much

The only problem the Griswold's had with getting Tae was a bit of confusion on the part of their youngest son Austin, then three years old.

"For the longest time after we picked Tae up at the Atlanta airport Austin was confused about where babies come from,"says Beebe." Instead of the stork, Austin thought babies were delivered by Eastern Airlines.'

Before Griswold and Beebe started "collecting" kids, they were both students at the University of Alabama.

'We were both from Birmingham and our families had known each other all along," says Griswold, "but we didn't meet until college.

The Griswolds married in '69. After college they lived in Texas for some time. It was there they published North Texas Wheel a newsletter for the Ft. Worth-Dallas chapter of the Studebaker Driver's Club.

It was also there that the Griswolds became interested in Indian art.

"Besides everything else, we also collect paintings and pottery produced by the Southwestern American Indians," says Griswold.

"It seems to me the Indians were always on the raw end of the deal. I want to preserve a part of that heritage by collecting the art of the native

It appears that preserving parts of American heritage are the motivation behind most of Griswold's collections.

Among the old cars and parts of cars in his back yard are the vestiges of America's past. On his shelves, or perhaps playing on the 1959 stereo or the hand-crank Victrola is the music of those bygone days.

But the collecting is not all for Griswold. He says it is important to him that his children remember their heritage.

"My kids are growing up in the '80's but are raised in the '50's because of the cars and music they've been surrounded with all their lives.

"It's not that I'm stuck in the past, it's that I want my children to know about their past and the parts of history that aren't covered in history books. I want to keep part of American history alive for future generations."

Griswold says he plans to continue to collect pieces of American history. He also says he would welcome news of any old Studebakers or vintage rock-n-roll records.

"If anyone has any old Studebaker parts or old 45's just lying around, I wish they'd give me a call (678-9932).

Vincent sets Settler's Day for April 27

Settler's Day celebration in Vincent is drawing nearer and many Vincent civic groups are busy in preparation for the big annual event.

Settler's Day 1985 is set for Saturday, April 27 and will celebrated throughout the main streets of town.

The Vincent High School marching band will kick-off the activities at 9 a.m. with Boy Scout Troop 549 raising the flag.

The Kawaliga Cloggers, a dance group from Alexander City, will be on hand throughout the day to provide entertain-

But the big attraction will be the wares sold by area civic groups, all to benefit community needs and charities.

Student artists show work

by K.A. Turner

Student artists from every corner of Shelby County met in Columbiana recently to receive prizes and view work in the 1985 edition of the Superintendent's Art Show.

The annual show brought nearly 100 artists to the halls of the board of education's central office to hang their works.

"I have no artistic talent," school superintnedent and show sponsor Ellie Glasscox told exhibitors with a smile. "If we have anything pretty over here, you have to provide it."

Students won the right to compete in the Superintendent's Show in competition at local schools throughout the county.

An outside panel of judges then chose winners from among the 96 entrants and Glasscox awarded prizes to students of all ages competing in a variety of media fields.

In addition, three best of show prizes were given, one each in elementary, middle school, and high school divisions. Works by these students will now go on to represent Shelby County in a state show in Montgomery later this month.

Best of Show in the elementary division went to Clarissa McKenzie of Vincent Elementary. Clarissa's example of classroom art using tempra paints was a brightly colored

In the middle school division Teresa Blevins won best of show with a watercolor. Blevins is from Riverchase Middle, one of the few middle schools in the county with an art instructor.

Pelham High School's art program produced the best of show piece in the high school division. Cynthia Cooper won the award with a watercolor.

Tampering with an electric meter is dangerous and costly.

Power loses thousands of dollars because of meter tampering and electricity theft. An additional burden on honest customers who pay their bills. In Alabama, attempting to steal electricity is a criminal offense. Alabama Power employs a full-time staff to investigate meter tampering and energy theft. But meter tampering is not only costly, it's dangerous. Deaths related to attempted power theft have been reported in several states.

Dixie unit sets reunion

The 31st Infantry (Dixie) Division Club of Montgomery is making plans for a June 1985 reunion of all its former members. We plan to pay tribute to Lt. Gen. "Crack" Hanna and other former division members.

We are seeking the name, address, phone number and wife's name of all former members who would be interested in attending. This information should be forwarded to Floyd Rice, 1110 Bassett Dr., Montgomery, AL 36116. I will forward additional information to all who respond.

The formation of a statewide 'Dixie" Division Association will be discussed at the reunion. I urge all former division members to contact me.

Musical 'Brighthope' staged by UM theatre

The University of Montevallo mit Hunter was produced in '80 Lyric Theatre will present the and '82. premiere performance of Brighthope April 18-20 at 8 p.m. in Palmer Hall Auditorium.

Brighthope was written for the Brierfield State Park Foundation by UM's Bill Cobb, professor of English, and Ed Robertson, professor of music.

Cobb and Robertson's work is the second production at the park to carry the name Brighthope. A more traditional outdoor drama written by Ker- tions: 665-6202 or 665-6383.

The new production is a musical fantasy about a romance between a young Southern girl and a Yankee officer. While there are historically accurate elements in the play, Cobb and Robertson say they were more interested in creating an enjoyable storyline than in recreating history.

Tickets are $5, $6 and $7. For more information and reserva-

Micheala Kovalchick, a Thompson High School junior, has been accepted for admission to the Summer Scholar Program at Birmingham-Southern College for High School Juniors.

Wilsonville to register

Wilsonville School Kindergarten and first grade will hold registration Apr. 19 and Apr. 26 from 8 a.m. - 3 p.m.

Parents are advised to bring a birth certificate and certificate of immunization for each child being registered.

For more information:

Kovalchick has met the qualifications for the program which require the student to be a high school junior, an honor student with a strong composite ACT score, and a student with high character standards.

She plans to attend Birmingham-Southern this summer where she may take two courses for college credit with no tuition, and sample a bit of college life.

In the fall Kolvachick will return to Thompson High while also attending the University of Montevallo where she has also been accepted.

Kolvachick is the daughter of Ed and Pat Kovalchick of Alabaster. She plans a career in TAKING APPOINTMENTS NOW !

A staggering number of books have been written on pregnancy, child care and parenting.

One of the most popular of these is Jane Fonda's Workout Book for Pregnancy, Birth, and Since pregnancy doesn't affect only the woman, future fathers may want to read Father-to-Be by Eric Trimmer, or How to be a Pregnant Father by the irrepressible Peter Mayle. Both books will help fathers understand what their wives are going through so they can better help Naming the baby is an important part of good parenting. Agonies of embarrassment have been suffered by unconventionally named kids.

The Modern American Enlopedia of Names for your Baby or Choosing A Name: An A to Z of First Names and Their Meanings can help you with these deliberations.

New mothers may be interested in Diane Lynch Fraser's Complete Postpartum Guide, providing everything you need to know to take care of yourself after you've had a baby. It will help the new mother understand and cope with the experiences of childbirth and the year that follows.

While becoming a new parent may be one of the most thrilling experiences in life, it also brings with it bills and a thousand

First-year Baby Care: An Illustrated Step-by-step Guide for New Parents and 500 Questions New Parents Ask won't help pay the bills, but will give a great deal of practical information that should prove useful. # County fights B'ham at the line

by David F. Moore and K.A. Turner

Annexation battle lines have been drawn at the North Shelby /

Jefferson County border. A local bill aimed at stopping Birmingham's aggressive drive to annex into Shelby County stirred a major filibuster last week in Montgomery. If passed, the bill would stipulate that no outside city can annex land inside Shelby County without a countywide vote.

Monday, the Shelby County Commission added what it could to the defense by passing a resolution asking all state legislators to support the bill.

Shelby County Rep. John Tanner initially introduced the bill April 11. Jefferson County delegates contested it and were successful in sending it back to the legislative calendar.

Last Thursday, Tanner "caught the Jefferson County delegation sleeping" when he had Gardendale Rep. Jack Biddle re-introduce the bill. The bill went to the floor on a 67-0 vote.

(Tanner previously sided with Biddle to block a move by other Jefferson County delegates to de-annex part of Gardendale into Birmingham.)

Tanner and Shelby County Rep. Sonny Moore fended off a fourhour filibuster which tied up the passage of any local legislation Thursday, while the Jefferson County delegation tried to kill the bill with amendents.

At one point, Tanner said, he tried to end the filibuster by evoking cloture — a little used and rarely successful move which would have ended the debate and called for a vote. While that move failed 31-21, Tanner and Moore were able to pull enough votes to defeat most of the amendments 37-7.

However, an amendment by Rep. Gregg Beers of Hoover was added to bill, exempting cities which were already in both Shelby and Jefferson Counties.

The bill was eventually carried over as unfinished business to be reconsidered on Tuesday. As the Reporter went to press at 1 p.m., there had been no report on the bill's status.

"I'm bloody, but we're still fighting," Tanner said Monday in a telephone interview. "I think the bill will pass. If it doesn't, I think we'll see it (Birmingham moving on Shelby County) soon.'

Rep. Lewis Spratt of Birmingham was quoted last week as saying that Birmingham needs room to expand, and that Shelby County is the logical direction for it to go.

Besides expanding into a financially lucrative area, Tanner ventured a second reason for the annexation push. He said that by being in two counties, Birmingham would no longer fall under the justisdiciton of the city's personnel board. 'John has handled the bill in an intelligent fashion," Sen. Frank "Butch" Ellis said Monday. "I don't think they (the Jefferson County delegates) can continue to block the local bill forever.

If the bill passes the House it goes to the Senate where the fillibuster rules are more liberal and it could prove easier to block. "Whether they (the Jefferson County delegates) have the manpower and the willpower to block the bill in the Senate, we'll just wait and see," Ellis said. The choice of a site near Trussville and I-459 for a Birmingham horse track started the city off on an aggressive annexation drive. Presently, a move is also underway for Birmingham to annex a major arm of land which would wind between Montain Brook and Leeds, and take in the part of Lake Purdy which is not in Shelby County. Furthermore, the city now owns Spain Park which is located on Valleydale Road.

If Birmingham is able to annex contigious land up to either the See ANNEXATION, Page A-2

Pause to ponder

Math — whether at the blackboard or computer — often causes one to pause and ponder. Montevallo Elementary School student Denise Carter illustrates the point as she ponders a computer problem during her weekly 5th grade class session at the University of Montevallo's computer lab. UM President Dr. James Vickrey spoke with the class Monday as the school observed Public Education Week. On Tuesday MES hosted 150 grandparents for breakfast and a tour of the school. Shelby Medical Center opened its new catherization lab Monday, April 22.

The lab enables SMC physicans to diagnois and evaluate heart diseases. They can also perform specialized treatments which can stop a heart attack and reduce damage.

In other matters, SMC administrator Charles "Chip" Denton said that despite some rumors and a drop in area hospital business, "There is no discussion of any layoffs.

Williams is new DPS director

Rene Williams was named director of the Shelby County Department of Pensions and Security on Apr. 15. She took over the position from Susan Treadwell who transferred to a supervisory position in Jefferson County.

Williams has been with the agency in Shelby County 111/2 years and for the past 41/2 years has served as supervisor of Protective Service and Foster Care.

Calera gets $50,000 grant

Sen. Jermiah Denton last week announced a $50,000 grant to develop Calera's Oliver Park. The grant will be matched by funds from the city.

Calera purchased land three years ago which almost tripled the size of the park. The money will be used to develop that land, said city clerk Lamoyne Payton.

"It's still very much in the planning stage, but there'll be ball fields, play areas and access roads," she said. "Everything will comply with the government standards for the handicapped."

Columbiana acts to improve police

by Bert Seaman

Changes aimed at improving the operation of the Columbiana Police Department were adopted at last week's council Recommendations formulated after a six-month study of the department were made by the public safety committee members Jessie Jones, William Rasco and Mayor Buck Falkner.

The recommendations include reinstating the position of assistant chief, keeping up professional training, and hiring additional dispatchers.

Last fall, after some residents expressed dissatisfaction with the department and personnel leadership, a council committee was appointed to study how the police department was being run and how it could be improved.

Planning Commission denies request

by Bert Seaman

A depleted Shelby County Planning Commission last week denied a request from Steve Chambers to rezone property off County 14 from R-1 to R-3.

Chairman Al Knight made the motion to deny rezoning in the R.C. Cross subdivision and it passed by a 3-1 vote. Kathryn Coleman and Bill Covne voted with Knight; Joey Walden voted for the change and Roy Martin abstained.

Two seats were vacant at planning commission table because of the decision by the county's governing body two weeks ago to remove former members George Starcher and Blanton Moore.

The reason given was to ensure the rotation of terms on the planning commission. During the lengthy discussion on the R.C. Cross rezoning it became apparent that the majority of those in the audience opposed the proposed change. Some lived in the Cross subdivision; others in neighboring Sunny Meadows.

It was the second time that Chambers and engineer Larry Weygand appeared before the planners requesting the change. When the request was turned down last year the planners advised Chambers to talk to area residents to see if something couldn't be worked out. It was also suggested that Chambers find a solution to improving an access road.

Chambers said that he endeavored to contact every homeowner involved, and that he was ready to spend an estimated $18,000 to widen and otherwise improve Piney Woods Road which is now considered dangerous.

But residents contended they would lose property if the road were widened three feet from its present 15 feet. There was also opposi-

Libraries explain new tax

by K.A. Turner

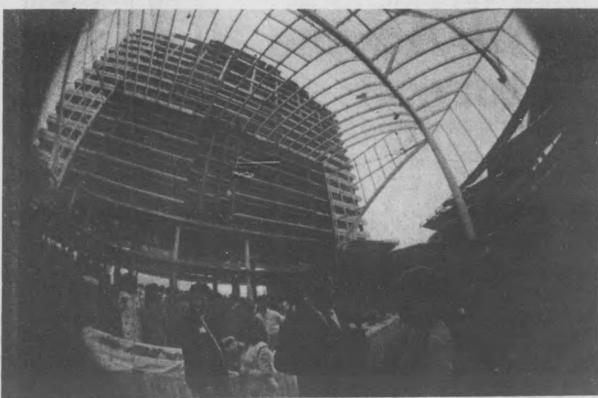

The money isn't in the bank yet, but Shelby County library officials are already giving serious thought to spending priorities for revenues that would be generated through a half-mill tax for libraries.

Shelby County voters will decide the fate of the proposed tax at the polls on May 14.

'The top priority will be buying books," county library director Nancy Woosley said, noting that money would be spent to upgrade collections in all libraries with reference volumes receiving the most attention initially.

"We have science books in some libraries that are 20 years old," Woosley said. "Right now, a good reference book can cost

Other recommendations

•All police personnel in-cluding the chief should annually attend at least one professional development course, seminar, and or activity for a minimun of one day.

•The police chief should delegate more authority where

•To better provide 24-hour police coverage, the city should hire two full-time dispatchers to supplement the present 4 p.m. to midnight shift.

Iones said that a work schedule will be discussed with the chief and assistant chief and adopted at a later meeting.

park or Lake Purdy, it would then be in position to take in neighboring parcels of land in Shelby County without legislative action.

Ellis told Shelby County Commissioners Monday that he thinks this is the plan of attack Birmingham has now fomulated.

If the city expands into North Shelby, then the county would lose control of zoning and future development in annexed areas. Furthermore, Birmingham could conceiveably surround unincorporated areas in North Shelby and along U.S. 280, cutting off their growth potential.

Commissioners discussed these ramifications, then passed the resolution in support of Tanner's bill.

Tanner described his bill as an "affirmative defense" and said he had received numerous calls of support over the weekend from Shelby County residents.

However, some concern has been expressed by Shelby County officials that even if Tanner's local bill passes, it may not stand up in tion to increasing traffic on the road.

In his arguments for the zoning change Weygand said the subdivision would be an assest to the area, and that the topography lent itself to R-3 zoning.

But attorney Sonny Conwill, who represented the majority of homeowners opposed to the zoning change, said that the request was a matter of economics for Chambers, who, he said, could not afford to develop the land as R-1.

Hoping to save the county some money since Chambers had agreed to improve Piney Woods Road, commissioner Bill Coyne made a motion to delay a vote.

He suggested Chambers, property owners and the County Engineer Gary Ray try to work out a solution.

But Conwill said that Chambers had been trying to negotiate for the past of the couple of months, but that residents were still oppos-

He contended that R-1 is the proper zoning for the land and that it should not be changed because it would alter the character of the neighborhood.

The majority of the planners agreed.

Editoria A well spent $2.50

It won't pay your power bill.

It won't get you through the checkout counter at the grocery.

It won't get you in most movie theaters, not to mention past the consession stand. And depending on where you live, it might not even buy enough gas to drive to Birmingham and back.

Fact of the matter is, in this day and age $2.50 just won't go far at all.

But there is at least one excellent buy on the market today for about $2.50; namely, an improved library system for Shelby County.

On May 14, voters will have the opportunity to levy an additional half-mill property tax on themselves to support our libraries. For the owner of homes valued at $50,000, the tax would cost but $2.50 annually; for a $100,000 home, the cost would be only $5.

The tax would generate some $150,000 annually, which library officials say would be used to upgrade outdated reference books, hire a coordinator for children's services, and provide more large print books and cassette recordings for the elderly and those with eye problems.

This tax may become even more important when one considers that federal library funding will be cut out in 1986. This means that some of the limited funds now spent on new books will probably have to be funneled into cataloging and other needed library pro-

The tax, — if passed as we certainly hope it will be, will not go toward building projects or to any particular library. It will be used to improve all our libraries, those in Alabaster, Calera, Columbiana, Helena, Montevallo, Pelham, Vincent, the Harrison Regional Library and the proposed facility in North Shelby County.

While $2.50 or so may not buy much these days on the retail market, it could go a long way toward improving the Shelby County library system. And if you think about it, that's something that's good for all of Simply put: if Birmingham had honorable intentions in considering annexation into Shelby County, it would probably make them known.

Simply put: if Birmingham had all the drawing power for development it seems to claim, then we would probably see large corporations from out of town building there.

Instead, we see local companies and development

We have nothing against Birmingham, Indeed, a strong Birmingham means a stong metropolitan area. But there's a time and place for everything, and Shelby County — at least for now — is not the place for Birmingham.

Select, not elect

Letter to the editor:

Shelby County Reporter it was brought out that the idea of selecting a Superintendent of Schools should be changed. I must say that having a Superintendent elected would work against the betterment of education. Forty thousand totally objective and has good voters cannot pick a good superintendent.

If we voters have elected a school board, then in effect we are saying we trust you to pick the very best for our children.

The Superintendent should be selected by the School Board. The Board can advertise nationwide and more qualified persons could apply. From these applications the Board could easily select the best candidate through interviews, background checks and resumes.

It is not good to have a Superintendent elected. Anyone could run for the position, and In the April 2nd edition of the someone without the experience or knowledge could be elected. Not just anyone, even a former teacher and coach, can run a multi-million dollar business for after all, that is what the school system is.

You also need someone who is administrative qualities. Cronism and politics have no place in education. Someone with a business and education background is needed. In having a well qualified person selected by the board, a school system can run smoothly. If you don't change the way a superintendent is selected, your educational system cannot possibly come up to par with the best. In all things, change must occur, and to better education a change will have to be effected.

figuring my feeble finances. Where were you when the lights went out last Thursday in Columbiana, Shelby, Westover and Chelsea? I know... in the dark. Why do I ask?

It wasn't as bad as the New York blackout in the mid-70's, but that's only because the Columbiana area isn't as large. But one thing's for sure, New York doesn't have the edge on darkness.

There's little that compares with the exerience of sudden darkness. I suspect it is surpassed only by sudden lack of air. I mean, when the lights go out, air is all you've got. And your lungs take in about one-and-a-half times their capacity in less than a Eyes are funny in the dark. Mine are hilarious.

I was working on a weekly financial report when the lights went out. My glasses were on the desk top. For some reason, after I regained my composure, my eyes told me to put them on. 'But it's dark. You don't need them," I thought.

You don't have to talk to your eyes. They hear your thoughts because they are connected to your brain. And they think back, too. "If you don't put on your glasses, we'll tell Brain to make you trip over a chair.' "Okay, okay, but I can't see to find them any better than you

After reshuffling some important papers and knocking over my leftover cup of morning coffee, I found my glasses near the phone and proceeded to seek the source of the blackout, or at least get out of the building. "You took too long finding your glasses," my eyes said, and slammed my face into the wall beside the door. "That should teach you. Outside was no better. No store lights. No street lights. Only a few headlights. But the stars were pretty.

Suddenly my brain kicked in and remembered the two-way

There's no sound more blood-curdling than the scream of a child in the dark.

From the basement, Wayne cautiously dashes up the stairs to comfort his frightened daughter. Does he make it? Get real folks, this is the Black Out Zone.

A card table has been left on the stairs for just such an occasion. He finds it. His brain hears the crash and suddenly refuses to cooperate with reason. It says, "The roof has fallen in, and your daughter is trapped in the kitchen while you're tangled in a card table on the basement floor." He — or, rather his wife — gains contol of the situation, and finally takes a seat outside to relax under the stars. Wayne intended to see space one way or the other Thursday night.

Teachers fail test; win case

The timing couldn't have been worse. Just as the legislature was in prolonged debate over legislation to improve teacher competency, the news broke of a settlement of a court case in which the top education official agreed to grant teaching certificates to some 650 teachers who had failed a competency test.

It is all rather involved, but several years ago the State Board of Education - reacting to charges that incompetent teachers were being admitted to classrooms — began requiring would-be teachers to pass an exam before gaining certification. The rate of failure was inordinately high among the predominantly black graduates of Alabama State and Alabama A. & M.

A group of the failed graduates filed suit claiming the test discriminated against blacks. They asked that they be certified to teach; that a new non-discriminatory test be prepared; and thirdly, that they be paid monetary damages.

Last week it was revealed that State Supt. of Education Wayne

Teague, apparently convinced the state was about to lose the case, agreed to an out of court settlement in which 650 applicants who failed the test would indeed be given teaching certificates, and in addition, the state would pay them $500,000 in damages for the embarassment caused them. When Atty. Gen. Charles Graddick learned of this settlement, he went into orbit. While some felt Graddick was using the affair for political gain (he is a sure-fire candidate for governor in 1986) the fact nonetheless remained that he had raised a sensitive issue. He called the settlement a "sell-out," and that the real losers would be the children who would be taught by incompetent Graddick's attack quickly caught the attention of the State Board of Education members, who apparently were not a party to Teague's settlement. The board voted 5-3 to take a second look at the matter before agreeing to the Teague plan.

Perhaps the most damaging aspect of the out of court settlement was the stipulation that until a new test is devised, certification will be based to a large degree on the grades made by the applicant while in college. Ironically, this was the precise reason the test was devised in the first place — the belief that some colleges were giving passing grades to students who were not qualified to teach.

What effect this controversy may have on the pending career ladder plan in the legislature remains to be seen. It is quite obvious that if disgruntled applicants can successfully throw out a competency test for teachers, then the same approach might be used in demanding higher pay under the career ladder plan should they feel they have been discriminated. Imagine the litigation that could arise if the teachers who are given pay raises under the career ladder plan are predominantly white.

Pieces of April

What an April!

I've covered my strawberry patch five times already and the blackberry briars haven't even bloomed. But I think I'm gonna' have a bumper crop. I may even sell some if I stay able to cover 'em twice more, while blackberry winter scampers about. Maybe I can get a nickle a berry at the patch, and a dime a berry delivered.

Remember the Aprils of yesteryear? Warm sunny days and a cloud bubbling up and crying for a few minutes, and the sun coming back, warmer than before. We called em April showers. Now if you get one, it'll last two days, cold as a dog's nose, with a wind out o' Chelsea 20 miles an hour.

We picked roosterhead violets on April Fool's Day, all the way up the road to Mount Dixie, all of us who were brave enough to miss school, knowing what was waiting back there when we returned. Now if we're lucky, we can pick roosterheads around the middle of April, pretty blue flowers standing in half an inch of ice.

Remember the bluebirds that showed up around the first of April and started housekeeping in old fence posts with knot holes in 'em. They came to my box today, the 16th, and had little overcoats on and funny overshoes that reached half way up there legs. I was bringing in firewood and scared 'em off, but they came back after a little, still wearing their overcoats. Granny always planted her corn by the middle of March and by the middle of April it was six inches high. I planted my corn the 16th of March. I looked at it today, the 16th of April. It was frozen stiff and as black as night. Somebody said it would come out and start over. I'll wait and see. But I don't make the weather. I just take it as it comes and fuss a little and hope a little. Maybe that's why I'm the oldest rat in the Children and the elderly will also be priority items to gain some protion of the estimated $150,000 the tax would generate.

Woosley said a coordinator of children's services would also be hired to design special programs and events for children in libraries throughout the county, and help in upgrading juvenile collections in all libraries.

Services to the elderly could include homebound delivery, more books on cassettes and additional large-print volumes.

Woosley said current federal programs may lose their funding in the coming fiscal year and would have to be picked up with state funds.

Those state funds are currently making 80 percent of the book purchases in Shelby County, and without the tax the county library would be left without a means to purchase books.

Vincent clinches area; county action continues

VINCENT 11, RANDOLPH 0 The Vincent Yellowjackets clinched their area title and a trip to the state playoffs with an 11-0 win over Randolph County one of four for Kenny Wright's club last week

Foot race

Blaine Shaw hurled a onehitter in the Jackets' title win, allowing one baserunner and striking out six.

Vincent exploded for three runs in the first against the Wedowee school, getting hits from Cedric Riggins, Derek a four-run lead in the first, a Whitfield and Shaw. After that the entire Jacket team hit the ball well. Willie Peterson had two hits. an RBI and three runs. Cedric Riggins added three RBIs, two hits and scored twice, while Reginald Riggins scored once after two hits. VINCENT13, B.B. COMER 2 Six straight hits in the top of the fifth lead to Vincent's 13-2 win over B.B. Comer.

Leading only 1-0 going into the fifth, Willie Peterson, Derek Whitfield, Max Whitfeld, Cedric Riggins, Blaine Shaw and George McConnico combinfour runs to blow the game open. Vincent went on to score four in each of the sixth and seventh innings.

Blaine Shaw got the win, striking out 10 and giving up three hits.

VINCENT 7, PELL CITY 2 A Max Whitfield homer in the seventh broke open a close game and propelled Vincent to a 7-2 win over Pell City.

Vincent used run-scoring doubles by Jimmy White and Derek Whitfield to take a 3-2 win after two innings. The score stood until the seventh when the homer insured Jerry Moore of his third pitching win of the season.

VINCENT 9, SCHS 6 Reginald Riggins got his seventh win of the season against no losses as Vincent beat Shelby County 9-6.

The loss was the second straight for the Wildcats who saw their record fall to 5-2. Vincent ended the week at 16-2-1. Gerry Lewis took the loss for Whitfield's three-run homer served to pad the lead in the fourth, and VHS went into the seventh up 9-1.

With two out in the bottom of the seventh, SCHS staged a comeback. After three walks, Fate Bryant singled to drive in two runs then David Wood hit a three-run homer.

The rally ended, however, and Vincent took the 9-6 win. IEMISON 2, SCHS 1

SCHS suffered its first loss of the season earlier in the week, dropping a 2-1 decision to lemison in an area contest.

There were no earned runs in the game. Jemison scored twice in the fourth and SCHS answered with one in the fifth.

PELHAM 5, THS 0 PELHAM 5, McADORY 3 Panthers moved into a area tie with Homewood after taking wins over Thompson and McAdory last week.

Sophomore pitching sensation Steve Levan picked up both wins for Jim Vakakes Panthers, running his record to 5-0.

The Panthers jumped to an early 5-0 lead at Thompson on Tuesday, then supported Steve Levan as he struck out ten enroute to the win.

Kenny Johnson took the loss. Tony Jeffers, Joey Stamba Pelham offense.

Thompson rallyed in the late innings behind timely hitting from Shane Horrell, Tom Hummel, Byron Partridge and Anthony O'Neal. But the Warriors could not overcome the margin.

Coupled with a 14-3 loss to Homewood late in the week, Thompson fell from the playoff picture.

Pelham scored four runs in the sixth to take a come-frombehind 5-3 win over McAdory on Friday, assuring at least a tie for the area crown. Homewood travels to Pelham Wednesday, April 24, to decide the championship.

The Dogs dropped a 15-2 area decision to Briarwood, however, leaving the Lions in contention for area honors as well.

Freeman Rutledge and Kevin Lucas took wins in the Oak Grove games. Rutledge's was a one-hitter, while Lucas issued no walks in taking his win.

In the first game, Johnny Holsombeck went 3 for 3 with a home run, double and a single. MHS got added offensive power

Panthers take Thompson Invitational track win

by K.A. Turner The Pelham Panthers combined strong showings in both men's and women's events to take the team title in the Thompson Invitational track meet last week.

Thompson finished third in the meet, despite the fact that the Warriors did not enter any of the women's events. Briarwood finished sixth overall.

"This is a big win for the Pelham program," said PHS track coach Kevin Crook. "I'm really pleased with all of the kids and the effort they gave."

Thompson coach Thomas Johnson also saw positive points in the meet for his tracksters. "Some of the kids had their best times of the year," he said.

As in past meets, the Pelham men finished strong distance running events.

Steve McDonough won both the mile and the 880 runs and finished in the top five in the two-mile. Rusty Williams won the two-mile and finished fifth in the mile, while Bryant Henderson finished second in the mile and sixth in the 880.

Byron Dixon and Winfred McCall showed strongly in field events. Carvis Jones, Buck Helms, Gary Majors, Jamie DeBoer, Jerry Harris and Tommy Fletcher also finished in the top six in various events for Much of Thompson's strength centered on the events Dana Washington entered. He won the long jump, finished fourth in the triple jump, second in the 120 high hurdles, and second in the 330 intermediate hurdles.

Kevin Ballard, Homer Threatt, Todd Harris, Otis Bivins, Darrell Dowdell, David Brumbelow, Steve Freeman. Jimmy Epperson, Jerry Hubbard, David Self, David Allen and James Dupriest finished among the top six in various events for the Warriors.

Briarwood's strongest single event was the shot, where David Deason, Will Burke and Shawn Lowe finished three-four-five.

Conrad Carpenter provided something for Briarwood fans to cheer about, winning the 120 high hurdles. Distance running events also proved to be strengths of the Pelham's women's performances.

Tammy Garvin won the mile, the 880 and the two-mile. Allison Barnes, Cathy Kenny and Jenifer Cawthon finished high in the distance events. In addition, the Lady Panthers won the mile relay.

Renee Portis won both the long jump and the 220 dash for Pelham. Shannon Hodgins, Shawn Glasscox, Tammy Gorham, Tammy Miller and Beth Kirkemier finished among the top six in other women's Briarwood showed no particular strong area but recorded good finishes in a number of events to take second place in girls point totals.

Darlene McGinis won the high jump and Beth Schreiner took the 110 low hurdles to give the Lady Lions two top finishes. Additionally, Sherri Boots, Karen Carlson, Vonnie Hitchcock, Mitzi Harper and Connie Shoemaker turned in good performances for the Lady

All County squad.

Calera's Gary Griffith, who took the 2A Eagles to the semi-finals of the state play-offs in his initial year as head basketball coach, was named "Coach of the Year."

Under Griffith Calera posted a 25-4 record before falling to eventual state champion St. Jude in over-

"I didn't change much when I became the coach," Griffith said.

"The guys just came through at the right time and I benefited from it."

Two of those guys, Greg Haynes and Kenny Marsh, represent Calera on the all-county team.

Thompson also placed two players on the squad, Tony Hale and Chris

Rounding out the 10-member allcounty team are Briarwood's Bob Farris, Chelsea's Steve Shelton, Montevallo's Tommy Bivins, Pelham's John North, Shelby County's David Wood, and Vincent's Tony Hamilton.

Honorable mentions went to Byron White of Calera, Keith Welch of Chelsea, Barney Reed and Slade

Reporter pageant policies

Springtime not only brings out blossoming flowers but also blossoming beauties who participate in area beauty pageants.

The Reporter will be accepting pictures of overall winners in each age category.

If your child is an overall winner in their respective age category, you are invited to send a photograph no larger than 4x5 - either color or black and white, that is in sharp focus and correctly exposed. Pictures that are too dark will not print.

Also provide information on the names of parents and grandparents, school the child attends, title of the contest and category in which the child won.

Pageant coordinators are requested to contact Meg Smith at 669-3131 before upcoming pageants for information.

National Day of Prayer will be celebrated May 2.

On that day, the National Day of Prayer Task Force is urging Americans to "Take 5 at 12" to pray for God's continued blessings on the nation and its leaders.

"It would be impossible for any one person to know about all the activities that are taking place that day," said Mrs. Bill Bright, co-chairman of the National Day of Prayer Task Force.

"But we're excited abouth the many activities we do know about," she continued, "and we believe they represent only a small fraction of the whole picture."

On the designated day, Bright said that millions of people, in small groups or as individuals, will simply stop for a few minutes, give thanks to God, and pray for the nation.

Shelby Christian Fellowship Assembly of God on County 25 between Wilsonville and Columbiana will host a Gigantic Gospel Singing Benefit Friday and Saturday, Apr. 26, 27 at 7:30 p.m.

Guests include The Cavaliers Quartet, Highlander Quarter, and the newly formed youth group Rama.

Proceeds from the singing will benefit the Shelby Youth Services and Attention Home.

Macedonia Baptist Church in Pea Ridge is accepting donations for clearing and care of the cemetery.

"If you have relatives buried there and would like to help, please donate to the cemetery fund," said pastor Neal Bearden.

Checks may be made payable to Madeconia Cemetery Fund and sent to Jimmy Pickett, Rt. 4 Box 126, Montevallo, 35115. For Chris and Jennifer Heiron surprised their parents with a luncheon to celebrate Mr. and Mrs. Heiron's 20th wedding anniversary.

Mable and Bill never suspected a thing until April 21 when family and friends gathered to help the couple celebrate with their children Chris, who is 17 and Jennifer, 11.

Ralph Shaw is a graduate of the University of Alabama with a degree in mechanical engineering.

In the April 18 engagement announcement of Shaw and Sarah McWhorter, it incorrectly stated that he attends the university. The Reporter is glad to set the record straight.

STATE OF ALABAMA COUNTY OF SHELBY NOTICE is hereby given that a bill ubstantially as follows will be insubstantially as follows will be in-troduced in the Legislature of Alabama and application for its passage and enactment will be made.

TO BE ENTITLED AN ACT Relating to Shelby County; to fur ther amend sections 3, 5, 12, 14, and 15 of Act No. 62, H. 213, first special session 1977 (Acts 1977, p. 1483). which relates to districts for fighting or preventing fires, so as to further provide for elections concerning such districts and the collection of service charges; and to further pro-vide for the method of enlarging and abolishing such districts.

BE IT ENACTED BY THE

LEGISLATURE OF ALABAMA: Section 1. Sections 3, 5, 12, 14 and 15 of Act No. 62, H. 213, first special session 1977 (Acts 1977, p. 1483), is hereby amended further to read as tirely within the county may be established as a district for lighting fires and for emergency medical ser-vices in the manner hereinafter provided for, provided, however, no land lying within the boundaries of a municipality at the time of the election for the establishment of the district shall be included in a district. A district formed in accordance with the provisions of this act shall be deemed to be at the county level of Section 5. a. When a petition for the holding of any election hereunder, except for an election for permanent trustees as provided in section 10 of this act, is filed with the probate judge, the probate judge shall order the election sought by the petition to be held on a day not less than thirty days nor more than forty calendar days from the date on which the probate judge enters said order.

"b. The provisions of subsection a of this section shall apply to all elections, excent for an election for permanent trustees as provided in sec-tion 10 below, provided such an elec-tion is not prohibited by subsection c of this section or other provisions of trustees shall be as provided in section 10 of this act. However, unless the petition for nomination of any such trustee is filed with the probate judge before the first primary election day in year of a statewide election, the probate judge is prohibited from causing the name of such candidate to be printed on the ballot, and votes for such candidate can only be recorded as write-in votes.

"c. Elections on the question of the amount for service charges may be held pursuant to the provisions of subsection a of this section or section 13 of this act. Elections pertain ing to the establishment of the same district or portion thereof or the abolition of a district shall not be held more than once every two years, ex-cept that an election providing for the abolition or diminution of a district may be concurrently joined with an election to become a portion of an adloining district proposed to be enlarg-

"Section 12. The expense of establishing and maintaining a district shall be paid for by the pro ceeds of a service charge which shall be levied and collected in an amount sufficient to pay said expense. Said service charge shall be levied upon and collected from persons and properties served by the system. Such charges shall be collectible from any owner of property, including subdivi-sions of the state, municipalities, counties or other public bodies. Such charge shall be a personal obligation of the owner of the property served by the system; and to secure the collection of the charge there shall be a lien against said property in favor of the district, which lien shall be enforceable by sale thereof in the same manner in which the foreclosure of a municipal assessment for public im provements is authorized. In the event that the occupant of a property is not the owner, and for whatever reason the collection of the charge cannot be effected from the owner in a timely manner, the occupant shall be liable to the district for the pay ment of such charge.

"Section 14. a. A district may be enlarged in accordance with the terms of this section, provided, however, that no area lying within a municipality at the time of the snlargement shall be brought within the distinction.

"b. No area shall be brought within a district by enlargement unless the majority of the votes cast at the election provided for by subsection c of this section, approve the inclusion of the area within the district and also approve every service charge in effect within the district at the time of the 'c. The term 'proposed area' as used in this subsection c, means ar area which is proposed to be brough within a district by enlargement of the district, and such area in con tiguous to the district to be enlarged.

When the board of trustees of the district determines that the inclusion of a proposed area contiguous to the district would be to the advantage of the district and also to the advantage of the majority of the residents of the proposed area, the board of trustees may file in the office of the probate judge a petition, signed by 100 per sons who are qualified electors residing within the boundaries of the proposed area, or by two-thirds of the qualified electors residing within the boundaries of the proposed area if there are less than 150 of such election in the proposed area at which there shall be submitted to the qualified electors residing within the proposed area the question of whether the proposed area shall be included within the district and also the question of whether every service charge in effect within the district at the time of the election is approved, upon such petition being filed, within the times provided for in section 5 a of this act, at which election the qualified electors shall vote on the two foregoing questions. Notice of such election shall be given as pro-vided for in section 7 of this act. Unless the majority of votes cast at the election vote in the affirmative on each of the foregoing questions, the proposed area shall not be included within the district. Upon the officers convassing the returns of the election certifying that a majority of the votes cast was in favor of the inclusion of the proposed area in the district, and the majority of the votes cast approved every service charge in effect within the district at the time of the election, the proposed area shall become a part of the district.

this act may be abolished in the man-ner provided for in this section; provided, however, that no district created in strict accordance with the provisions of sections 3 and 4 of this act shall be abolished nor shall the boundaries of any district be diminished in any manner, when it has any indebtedness, direct or contingent, unless full provision for pay-ment of such indebtedness, direct or contingent, in a form satisfactory to the debtors and to known contingent beneficiaries, or their legal represen-tatives, has been made. Upon the petition for abolition or diminution of a district conforming to the re-quirements set forth below, being fil-ed with the probate judge, he shall order an election on abolition of dimunition of the district to be held in for by section 5 a of this act at which electors residing within the district shall be entitled to vote. The petition shall be signed by at least 100 per sons who are qualified electors residing within the boundaries of the district. It shall contain a recital that either (a) the district is not directly indebted or contingently liable for any debts, or (b) the provisions that have been made for the payment of all indebtedness, direct or contingent, together with affidavits from debtors

"Section 15. Any district created hereunder in strict accordance with the provisions of sections 3 and 4 of such provisions are in a form satisfactory to such parties; and it shall request the probate judge to order an election on whether the district shall be abolished or diminished. In the case of the dimini tion of a district, the petition sha contain a recital of the names of no less than 100 qualified electors who will be relained in the diminished district, who shall also sign the peti tion, and a legal description of the boundaries of such diminished district, no portion of which may be within a municipality at the time of the election. Upon the officer's can-vassing the returns of the election certifying that abolition or diminution of the district was approved by a ma-jority of the votes cast at the election, the district shall be abolished or it shall continue in a diminished form,

Guy: writing word quilts

I guess my scribblings are like a colorful crazy quilt, without form or unity.

I picture the quilt: a gray background because of the depression, but with patches of bright red, purple, green, and blue. The bright patches are the incidents I remember because they add humor to our lives in their retelling.

The incidents I remember most vividly are those that happened in the early thirties when I was around ten years old. ... Maude Guy

Her knack for observation and memory for detail stands Maude in good stead as a writer. There isn't much that escapes her attention, whether she's sitting behind her desk in the Admission's office or driving down the road.

"I've just always been this way," she laughs. "My brother was always amused at the things I'd notice. It might be just a plowed furrow in a field -- I'd think what a pretty pattern it made. Or the clouds - how they'd be darker on the bottom when they were heavy with rain."

See MAUDE, Page X-8

Maude Guy goes on to write about scenes from her childhood, sewing the colorful patches of memories together against the drab depression background of 1930's.

The piece — Maude Alice and Sara Bess — won the President's Award for Excellence in Writing competition held earlier this month at the University of Montevallo.

Maude, who lives in Montevallo, has fashioned other word quilts besides one. One of the "quilts" she has just finished was put together with vivid scraps of memories from passing scenes she witnessed over the years at the university.

Because she will be retiring next month from the admission's office at UM, she says this particular quilt will serve as a reminder of the many years she worked there.

Explaining her urge to write, Maude says that she wanted to pass on the family history to her children and grandchildren. She and her husband Ed have three children and three grandchildren.

In order to make the story interesting, Maude began taking English classes offered at UM. The first one was in 1973. Her story which won the UM writing award was done for her class on Southern writing with Sarah Palmer.

She writes with humor and warmth of incidents involving the sister who was two years younger - incidents such as taking Sara to school for a visit, playing 'walking blind,' falling off the platform during a brush arbor service.

MAUDE GUY ...eye for observation

The Regressive Farmer by David F. Moore

Eenie, meenie, minie, moe Off your rear and out you go. Stick some seeds down in the ground; Then sit back and wait around. Something sure is bound to grow But whether it's eddible, I don't know ..

...Burma Shave

HERE'S HOW YOU DO IT — SORTA'

Surely since last week's inspirational message all my fellow would-be vegetable gardeners have come out of the closet, picked out a sunny patch of ground (preferably in your own yard), tilled it up, and are ready to plant. Right?

If not, you may already be a vegetable anyway. If so, now comes the fun part - picking out what you want to grow.

The regressive rule of thumb says that if you like to eat it, plant it. This works out pretty well except for hamburgers. There may also be a problem with seasonal timing because cool weather crops such as cabbage beets, spinich and turnips should probably have been planted in February. At the risk of sounding sexist (not to be confused with sounding sexy) it's worth remembering that Mother Nature is a woman and retains all rights in regards to changing her. mind about weather and whatnot.

Last year, red potatoes were one of my biggest successes. But when I went out shopping for seed recently, Margaret Walden said it was too late to plant potatoes. The guys over at Harmon's told me it was okay, so I planted them anyway.

Shelby County extension agent John Jones road the fence on the question and said maybe, maybe not. It all depends on whether May is 100° and dry, or 80° with spring showers. Flip a coin and your guess'll be as good as Mike Royer's.

My wife and I love broccoli, even though it is hard to spell, so I planted some of that, too. Meg Smith at the Reporter office told me that I planted it too late so it'll be tough and have worms. The worms wouldn't be so bad, she said, if they were dark and you could see them before you put your fork in your mouth. Yuck, Meg!

You can save yourself a problem with corn if you don't do what I did last year. When I was a kid I had seen the way ground is furrowed for planting corn, so I furrowed my ground and planted on the

This seemed smart to me because the corn wouldn't grow down in a hole where it could fill up with water and drown.

Sure enough, my corn didn't drown. It blew over in a small storm and grew sideways the rest of the season. John recommends planting corn in two or three rows instead of just one. This way it pollinates better. (Yes, you can say pollinate in the newspaper.) Moral to corny story: plant in the furrows and when the stalks start growing, pull the ridges around them for support. For more details on planting, stop by the extension office in the courthouse and get the Vegetable Garden Handbook. It's free. Also, you can see the chart on Page X-6 in this week's newspaper.

THE MAGIC OF GARDENING

I planted my garden April 13, and went outside the next morning to check on it. Even I know that these things don't grow over night, but I thought I just might see something poking up through the ground.

Nothing.

I checked again on Monday and several more times. Nothing. Then the magic of gardening started happening. Little green sprouts started poking through the soil. Boy, for a second there I got real excited and even started dancing with our German sehpherd, Buck E. Moore Dog.

But upon closer examination I noticed that the green things were growing out between my row marker strings, and then it all came back to me. I'd seen these things before. They're called weeds. In a couple months I guess I'll have to do something about them...

Friday before I came to work I checked the garden again and noticed one little clump of crusty ground cracked into a circle. I lifted the crust like the lid on a pot, and there they were - little bitty pea stems curling up and shoving away at the dirt, fighting for light and life.

If you don't know how neat a feeling that is then you'll just have to try planting your own garden.

(A rain makes the soil crusty on top. John Jones says you can help your plants break the crust by taking a pronged tool and lightly cracking it - the ground that is, not the tool.)

OTHER GROWING (AND CREEPING) THINGS

If gardens hold an attraction to gardeners, then I suppose it's understandable that they hold an attraction to other dirty things such as bugs, worms and diseases.

Not to be an alarmist, but 1985 may be the Year of the Bug. John says that his office has received many more bug calls than normal this spring, so it might be a good idea to prepare for war. We don't want another story similar to the infamous Chicken Heart That Ate New York City ..

Sevin and Malathion are the most commonly used and effective weapons in the realm of chemical warfare against bugs. While some people have an adversion against using chemicals, they are at least safer than hand gernades.

Sevin can also be used against all those worms you may have been seeing. These are probably Eastern tent worms, John says. They do nasty things like spin big webs in your trees and eat the folliage.

When using Sevin, opt for spraying the wetable powder or liquid forms. Spraying dust in the wind is much like... well, spraying dust in the wind.

Although I'm often regressive in many ways, I seriously recommend that before you go out and spray the world with a bunch of chemicals that you: 1) Get a copy of Insect Control in the Home Garden (circular number ANR-35) from the extension office. 2) Talk to the people who know about these things at your favorite seed store. Read the instruction carefully.

4) When in doubt, call the extension office: 669-6763.

John believes in chemicals, but notes that when you start spraying them, you're messing with Mother Nature. (And remember, she's a woman.) While chemicals kill the bad bugs, they also kill the good ones that eat aphids (a bad bug). Also, once you start spraying for bugs, you need to keep it up on a regular basis.

If you're out chemical shopping go ahead and spring for some fungicide and start a regular weekly spraying routine to fight diseases. The extension offices recommends any of the following chemicals: Zineb, Maneb, Dithane, Manzate or Bravo. (Sounds like a family of Indians or something, huh?)

In the realm of natural chemicals, one way to discourage bugs in your veggie garden is to plant marigolds around it. Meg and John both said they know people who swear by marigolds; something about the odor from the flowers.

I'm going to plant some and see. If you've got a kid who plays little league ball, I've heard that you can keep bugs away by planting after game baseball socks.

Chelsea cheerleaders

B-team cheerleaders

Cheerleaders are as much a part of the team as the players themselves. B-team cheerleaders for the upcoming football season at Chelsea High School are, in front; Kim Bradley and Genia Davis; second row, Wendy Massey, Samantha Robinson and Charlene Landers; in back are Pam Loring, Wendy Schilling and Kim Wallis. # Park hosts pet show

The Shelby County Humane Society is holding a fund raiser to kick off Be Kind to Animals Week May 4 at Oak Mountain State Park.

There will be a pet show for dogs, cats and stuffed animals (this last event is for children without live pets).

Awards will be given for Longest Whiskers, Biggest Feet, Waggiest Tail, Most Colors, Owner Look-a-Like, and more.

Free rides will be given in the Magic 96 Hot Air Balloon and a yard-sale will be held all day. Refreshment booths, T-shirts and balloons will be available. All proceeds go to the Shelby County Humane Society.

Anyone wishing to contribute to the yard sale may contact Shirley Mulrooney: 663-3339.

JOHN S. BRUMLEY

A Patient's Perspective On PMS Pre-Menstrual Syndrome PARTII

"Husbands Should Realize they Live with Jekyll and Hyde'

Last week you met a woman who described to you her severe and disruptive symptoms of PMS such as fatigue, memory loss, hostility toward family members, depression and even thoughts of suicide. You also met her physician, Dr. M.C. Collins, whose concern and professional care have resulted in her significant improvement. You learned that she is also seeing a wellness counselor who supports her in her weight control program and other lifestyle adjustments.

PMS is a complex disorder and there have been a variety of treatment approaches. The patient I interviewed shared with me her experience with mega vitamin therapy.

"One physician took me off all hormones and put me on large doses of Vitamins C, B and E." This approach had disasterous results although she suggests that a slower, partial withdrawal from the hormones along with the vitamins might have worked.

It seems that there is not any one treatment available to put the PMS victim back into sync. Indeed, a comprehensive approach seems to work best and this may include chemotherapy -- encompassing hormones and other medicines, proper nutrition, PMS group therapy, stress management and other aspects of wellness counseling.

I asked specifically about advice and help for family members. Dr. Collins has found that the whole family improves as the patient gets

The PMS patient says, "Husbands should realize that they're living with Jekyll and Hyde -- these wives don't mean a word of what they're saying -- being patient and understanding is critical -- but the husband should push the wife to get help -- because she might think she's losing her mind like I used to think -- I couldn't see the cycle until a friend referred me for help."

PMS can be conquered. If you or someone you know seems to fit the PMS description, don't put it off. We can help with wellness counseling as well as refer you for appropriate medical care.

Our office numbers are 668-£313, 663-1252, 672-2401.

Spring is finally here, and now is the time to act to protect property from one of Spring's most deadly companions: floods.

Action taken now can help to minimize the impact of flooding. The following tips on what to do are suggested by the Federal Emergency Management Agency:

- Learn the safest route from your home and place of business to high, safe ground. 2. Never attempt to drive through water on the road since sections of the road or bridge may have already been washed away.
- 3. Keep a battery-powered radio, emergency cooking equipment and flashlights in working order at home.
- 4. Residents of frequently flooded area should keep materials such as sandbags, lywood, plastic sheeting and lumber which can be used to protect property 5. Purchase flood inusrance. Your homeowners or business insurance policy will not
- protect you from flood loss. 6. Make an itemized list of personal property, including furnishings, clothing and valuables. Keep this list and your insurance policies in a secure location.
- A more complete listing of steps to take before, during and after a flood is published in the NFIP pamphlet, "In the Event of a Flood." For a free copy, write: Consumer Information Center, Department 600M, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

Ham operators raise funds for weather radar link

The Shelby County Amateur Radio Club has spearheaded a drive which led to the purchase of an emergency radio link between the National Weather Service's Birmingham office, and the weather radar station in Bibb County.

break normal communications between the weather office and the radar station. Warnings and preparedness meteorologist Jay Shelley said the radio link will provide important backup communications when such problems arise.

The Shelby County club coordinated fund raising efforts with amateur radio clubs in Birmingham and Calhoun County to buy the transmitter.

Besides a tie-in with the weather service, the transmitter now allows radar operators to monitor reports from storm spotters as far away as Tuscaloosa, Shelley said.

"This radio service will be an aid for us in picking out develop-Heavy storms sometimes ing thunderstorms that may be severe and need close watching," Shelley said.

"We appreciate the efforts of the Shelby County club in spearheading this effort, and to the Birmingham and Calhoun clubs as well," Shelley said. He added that efforts by "ham" operators across the state provide a vital contribution to the efforts of the National Weather Service in keeping citizens informed of pending severe

UM raises funds for playground

The University of Montevallo is holding a drive to raise funds for the renovation of playground facilities at the George C. Wallace Speech and Hearing Center on campus.

UM students, personnel, alumni and concerned businesses and individuals have joined efforts to bring about the necessary changes.

Plans for renovation of the playground will focus on the learning needs of children who are developing their speech and language skills and learning to communicate more effectively.

Specialized improvements will be made to meet the needs of specific groups of children served by the clinic. For physically handicapped and preschool aged children, for instance, plans call for a triangular lumber climber and a platform swing with six tires.

Persons interested in helping in the drive, either by donating funds or materials, may contact Nanette Meline: 665-6326.

Vincent trio signs to play basketball for Livingston U

by K.A. Turner The Livingston University basketball Tigers will have a big Vincent Yellowjacket influence

LU coach Rick Reedy collected signatures from three big men in Vincent on Wednesday, the first day to sign a letter of intent in this post-season signing period.

The Hamilton brothers -Tony and Bruce — will continue to play together in the fall, this time wearing the red and white of Livingston.

In addition, LU picked up a tall post player when former Yellowjacket Earl Datcher signed with the Tigers. Datcher has just concluded a successful twoyear career at Southern Union Junior College.

For Tony and Bruce Hamilton, the chance to continue playing together was a big draw to Livingston.

Both had received offers from other Division II schools, and they could have played together at any number of junior colleges. But when Livingston had openings for both, the decision was not a difficult one.

"I'm just real glad we're going together," Tony said after signing.

"But we won't stay in the same room," cautioned Bruce.

Last season at Vincent the two averaged 34 points — Bruce 19 and Tony 15 — and 31 rebounds Tony 17 and Bruce 14 - per

In their three-year careers Vincent won 66 games against 24 losses and made two trips to the state playoffs.

Reedy said that the Hamiltons would probably be Livingston's only high school signees for the

"Not only are we getting great players, we're getting good people," he said, adding that both could see a lot of playing time for LU in the fall.

Coming from Southern Union loaded with experience, Datcher should fit well into a Livingston team previously short on size.

Datcher, who still holds the Vincent record for shots blocked in a season, averaged nine points and seven rebounds per game in his final year with Southern Reedy said that Datcher will be most helpful on defensive where his height will be an intimidation factor that could change some opponent shots. In addition, Datcher will be counted on for steady rebounding and a little help on offense.

Watching three players move from his program to paying for their education through basketball, Vincent coach Richard Crumpton refused to take the credit.

'The kids have worked real hard and they deserve this," Crumpton said. "You can't credit that as much to the program as you can to their mommas for raising them right."

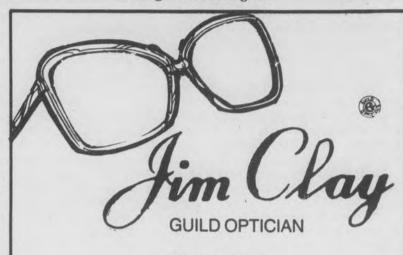

The Hamilton signings continue the Vincent string of signing basketball players to scholarships on almost a yearly basis.

That makes the kids excited about playing here," Crumpton said. "They work hard because they can see it can get them

A short paragraph about a short subject. Miniskirts. The dresses got shorter and shorter until some of the girls that could sew made matching shorts or bloomers to wear with their miniskirts.

I think this era led into the polyester pantsuits. I was always a little behind with the style of the time, so I was the last one in my office to wear pants.

Just prior to this time even student workers were not permitted to wear pants in the Admissions office. This was because visitors to the campus came to the Admissions office.

Miniskirts were all right. Don't you remember how long the top of your first pantsuit was? It covered your seat like a man's suit coat.

Well, one student wore her pantsuit to classes and then when she came to work, she slipped into the vault and removed her pants. This left the minidress to work in.

Polyester pants and kneehighs stayed with us a long time.

Another of her reminesences is about boys with long hair. "That took some getting used to," she says with a grin.

"When they first came on campus, you'd hope they weren't going to apply here. Then when you'd see a boy you knew with long hair - someone you knew to be a nice person it didn't seem so bad...

There was a time when the campus was teeming with boys with long flowing hair or hair in a ponytail. I bet the barber shops had slow days. The men still wearing 'butch' haircuts were their only customers.

UM, Maude writes about tattered clothes seemed to go along with the long hair. The leaders in this venture were criticized and the administration his tie (that is as far as he went). was wary of them. The feeling was that they would be troublemakers in the student

It wasn't long until there was a boy in every family doing his own thing - long hair and beard. Then people began to accept the new 'look.

Maude says she wrote about the fad of streaking as a class assignment.

'We were supposed to write about what the next generation would do to shock the administration. I couldn't think of anything worse than streaking. I thought we had hit bottom when that happened ... '

Streaking did not come to UM until we had heard and read about it from various other colleges. But it did come. In one particular week, we would hear screaming on one side of the campus and rush to the window to see the streaker. We always missed him. The streaker would make arrangements to have a car waiting for him on the street and he would streak from his room to the waiting car.

On one occasion a timid milquetoast who kept trying to be one-of-the-boys, agreed to streak at the insistence of his peers. The scene was set, and the boy was supposed to sreak from his room to a waiting car. The car waiting was a police car. Imagine being taken to the police station in the nude. I guess it takes all kinds.

Since the workers in Administration and Records were never swift enough to get to the window to see the streaker,

Going barefoot and wearing Steve Huffstuttler decided to streak for us. He jerked open the door, ran through the office, taking off his coar and loosening

He said, "I just didn't want you girls to miss out on the streaking.'

A bomb threat in the Admissions's office also stands out clearly in Maude's memory. "I was more scared later than when it actually happened," she says. "I told my husband Ed that if there was ever another threat, I was coming straight home ... '

A bomb threat will really get you moving. Mrs. Hardy answered the phone and the low voice said, "Listen and listen good. A bomb is set ot go off in the Admissions office at 10 o'clock this morning.'

She was pretty shook up when she announced it to everyone in the office, and after looking at the clock we saw we had about 15 minutes before the big explo-

I ran into Mr. Mathison's office and said, "We've got to get out of here, the office is blowing up in 15 minutes.

Mr. Mathison called the police while the secretaries warned the Business office and the Financial Aid office.

All of Palmer evacuated, and we milled around on the quad for a while. The building was searched and when it did not blow up at 10 o'clock, we were told to go back to work.

Back in the office we were still uneasy enough to expect to find a bomb in the back of the file or in a desk drawer.

To tell the truth, afterwards, we talked about how foolish we were to go back in there. The bomb could have gone off later.

When the daily morning coffee break rolled around each day, the workers in the Admission's office would go back to the vault and eat whatever anyone had brought. Maude remembers some of the more unusual snacks...

We were always pleased when someone brought homecooked goodies for us to eat in midmorning. Even soda crackers tasted good then. As well as the usual, we tried some unusual things. One being smoked octopus, brought back from Hawaii by one of our student workers.

Billy Cannon said he believed we would eat astroturf.

There was one snack that we did not want a second helping of Persian pie. One of the Iranian students brought us a small pie for our coffee break. In cutting the pie we fussed about one getting a bigger piece than the other. But when we took our first taste, we were pleased that we got the smallest piece. That was the only time we had leftovers at the end of the day.

"We never did find out what was in it," she laughs, "I think we were afraid to ask."

Maude will be 62-years-old in May. But her youthful appearance and lively interest in everything going on around her make that fact hard for most people to believe.

Her softly curled salt-andpepper hair is short now. But Maude remembers when it was longer, and how she tried to copy the teased hair style...

There comes a time when you can stand your drab appearance no longer, and decide to join the crowd. This happened to me and it caused quite a stir at the beauty shop. I went to the beauty shop one Friday afternoon after work and got the 'works.' With my teased hair and my pointed-toe-heels, I was every bit of six feet tall. To keep my hair tall until I went back to the beauty shop, I wrapped my hair in toilet tissue, put a pair of panties over this and slept on a satin

When Friday came, I went back to the beauty shop and got my hair combed out - the first time since it had been done the previous week.

"Maude, there's red spots all over your head," the beauty operator said. "Has it been itching?'

"All the time, day and night," I answered.

Upon closer examination, she discovered the red spots were made by a red ballpoint pen, which I'd used to scratch my head without disturbing my somewhere and don't have time to fix my hair.

'Maude, you've got hair. Wigs are for people who don't have hair.

Well, while everyone with wigs smoothed and pampered their wigs to make them look like real hair, I fluffed my real hair trying to make it look like a wig. I never fooled anyone. Who would buy a wig that looked like my hair? I was out of style again ...

Maude is looking forward to retirement. "Then I'll have more time to do the things I enjoy, such as writing, painting and gardening."

Maude will still be going to work however. She has been hired as a parttime secretary at University Baptist Church. From that vantage point, the austute observer will undoubtedly notice things that most people would miss.

I hese observations and other memories of the past will provide material for her afternoon sessions at the typewriter.

As she says in the concluding paragraph of her prize winning Finishing my quilt and folding it carefully, I get ready to go to the family reunion on Monte Sano, near Huntsville, I'll hear stories there that will become more bright patches in the next quilt I make.

Pot program seeks help

The 1985 Domestic Marijuana Eradication Program is seeking help of Alabamians in locating home-grown pot.

Col. Byron Prescott, director of the Alabama Department of Public Safety said the eradication program is an effort of city, county, state and federal law enforcement agencies that relies on citizen involvement to locate marijuana crops growing throughout the state.

The,1985 program marks the fourth year of Alabama's participation in the federally sponsored eradication effort. In 1984, more than 110,000 plants valued at $55 million were destroyed.

"The majority of the marijuana found last year was cultivated by growers on property owned by a third party and on state and federal forest lands," Prescott said.

Prescott said citizens can report illegal drug activity anonymously by using the statewide toll-free HELP line, 1-800-329-8011. In addition, if the area is isolated and difficult to describe on the telephone, information including maps can be sent to State Narcotics, 1708 Federal Drive, Montgomery, AL

Eighty sophomores from Vin-cent High School health classes were certified in CPR last week.

"Every tenth grader here is given this opportunity each year," health teacher Shelia Wilson explained. "Once we got going, the kids seemed excited about it."

The fact that one student's mother had once been given CPR made the need for the skills even more evident to the group.

Marie Petry, Kathleen Urry, and Sharon Shrader of Brookwood Hospital's Community Education department trained the VHS students then tested them first with a written examination, then using special CPR mannequins.

The week of May 5 - May 11 unable to prevent it," says Dr. shas been designated Suicide Awareness Week by the American Association of Suicidology.

The Crisis Center of Jefferson County is sponsoring the program locally.

"We know the dangers of cancer, heart disease, accidents and other causes of death, but very few people are capable of recognizing the signals that may reveal when a friend or neighbor is considering suicide, so they're Alan Berman, president of the American Association of Suicidology.

Suicide Awareness Week is designed to alert the public to the problem of suicide and to invite public cooperation in suicide prevention.

Recent statistics on suicide in America may be surprising to ·Suicide is rising as a cause of death from ninth in 1979 to eighth by 1982 (reported by the Bureau of Vital Statistics); •There are more suicides than homocides each year; •Increases in the suicide rate between 1979 and 1982 came in these age groups: 5-14 years;

45-64; 75 and older; •The greatest number of deaths in 1982 came in the the 25-34 age group;

•White males lead all other groups by having more deaths. For more information call the Crisis Center: 323-7777.

Robbie Hunt, shown with parents Ronnie and Sherry, received his Eagle Scout badge in ceremonies in Tallapoosa GA. The Hunt family recently moved to Columbiana from Tallapoosa.

Columbiana youth earns Eagle Scout rank

Robbie Hunt of Columbiana merit badges and successfully has earned the rank of Eagle Scout. He is the son of Ronnie and Sherry Hunt.

Hunt received the award in ceremonies in Tallapoosa, GA where the Hunt family formerly lived. It was there that Hunt completed his Eagle project of providing the city with handicapped parking spaces.

Only an approximate two percent of all Boy Scouts earn the Eagle rank. Hunt earned 21 completed his civic project to earn the rank.

Hunt has served as patrol leader and senior patrol leader and has been inducted into the Order of the Arrow, an honor society for Scouts and Scouters.

Hunt is presently a senior at Shelby County High School. He is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hunt of Tallapoosa, GA, and Mary Folds and the late Hamilton Folds of Bremen, GA.

UM enrollment not affected by tuition increase

Tuition and fees are going up at the University of Montevallo, but so far that hasn't affected enrollment.

Although costs will increase from 10-11 percent beginning this summer, university officials say that applications from freshmen and transfer students is up 19 percent over 1984. Offers of admission are up 43 percent.

University officials say that UM's liberal arts curriculum is one of the main reasons that students are attracted to the university.

'Our liberal arts based curriculum is quite attractive to students wanting to pursue a career but who also want breadth and depth in their education," says admissions director Robert A. Doyle.

This interest reinforces UM's decision to enhance educational offerings with major revisions in the General Education Program (core curriculum) this fall, Doyle says.

When an explanation for the increase in costs was asked for by members of the student government association, UM President Dr. James Vickrey listed four

 The university is not likely to have adequate operating revenues next year without it.

 A greater percentage of local money needs to be generated to adhere to a UM policy approved in 1981, and so as not to be embarrassed in legislative budget

·A comparison of rates with pricipal institutional competitors shows that in most cases UM's rates are too low.

•The new rate schedule isn't likely to cause many, if any, present or prospective students not to enroll at UM.

Vickrey said that the new rate schedule is more likely to affect what Congress does with President Ronald Reagan's proposed gutting of federal financial aid programs.

Riders prepare for SCHS show

The 22nd annual Heart of Dixie Horse Show is set for Columbiana's Shelby Field Saturday, April 27.

Sponsored annually by the Shelby County High Athletic Club, the show has grown into one of the largest and most varied shows in the state.

The Heart of Dixie Show is an open show for all breeds of horses. Among its 54 classes are seven 4H classes and classes for quarter horses, pleasure horses, walking horses and racking horses.

In addition, the Columbiana Kiwanis Club sponsors a sideline speciality class for handicapped riders. Each rider will be given a ribbon and trophies will be awarded. If any handicapped person wishing to participate does not have his own horse, members of the Shelby County 4H club will lend them a horse

Legal secretaries recognize Foster

Melissa Foster, formerly of Columbiana, has been named "New Member of the Year" by the Birmingham Legal Secretaries Association.

Foster works for the law firm of First General Lending Company as a loan officer. She attends paralegal courses at Samford University.

and assist in the showing.

Winners in the Heart of Dixie show will receive over $4,000 in prize monies as well as trophies and ribbons.

Proceeds from the show go to benefit the total athletic program of Shelby County High School. Over the years, both the football and baseball stadiums at SCHS have been improved with these funds.

The show will begin Saturday at 9 a.m. In addition to the events on the field, a concession stand will feature hot homemade sausage and biscuits and, later in the day, bar-b-que plates. The night show will begin at 6:30 p.m. Tickets are available in advance for only $1 from members of the SCHS Athletic Club. Advance ticket purchasers are automatically eligible for cash prizes totaling $175.

Tickets will be $2 the day of the show.
